GINZBERGS BLOW BACK

Not Physically But With the Dough

Harry Hamberger Returns From Eagle Today With Money for All Claims.

Harry Hamberger, of the firm of Hamberger & Weissberg, who has spent much of the past year in chasing fleeing creditors, having spent several months in the Koyukuk as the result of Captain Nixon's mercantile venture, returned on the Tyrrell today from Eagle, at which place he overtook the fleeing Ginzbergs, father and son, ten days or more ago.

The readers of the Nugget are familiar with the history of the manner in which the Ginzbergs, who are Russians, attempted to flee the country after selling the "Forty-nine group" without even paying their respects, owing everybody they possibly could owe, and of how Harry Hamberger made a hurried trip to Eagle in a gasoline launch and intercepted them just as they were on the point of continuing their journey on down the Yukon. The American officials came bravely to Hamberger's assistance with the result that the Ginzbergs were held, first in jail and later on cash bail until all the accounts, aggregating about $6,000, could be turned over to Hamberger as agent, with the result that the rascals after having an ultimatum handed them by U. S. Commissioner Johansson, decided to pay everything rather than be required to possibly return to Dawson or remain an indefinite period at Eagle. Hamberger on his return today brought back the various amounts due.

The Ginzbergs are still held at Eagle, but having "coughed," it is not likely the case will be further prosecuted.

When the old man and Leonard skipped they left two of the boys here, but they were mere figureheads in the family. Leonard, although a younger son, was put forward as the "society" man and he it was who joined local secret orders and represented the "Forty-nine group" at all social functions.

It is told of the Ginzbergs that when they heard of the assassination of President McKinley that "Forty-nine group" was the scene of bonfires and a general jollification. Now that they have been forced to disgorge and pay their debts the country is well rid of them.

Killed by Mistake

Winnipeg, July 11.—A Galician immigrant killed his wife yesterday at Huns Valley in the Riding Mountain district. He mistook her for a wild animal.

No News of Tracy

Seattle, July 11.—Tracy is still at large. The officers are vigorously searching for him. Sheriff Cuddehe came on him yesterday. Shots were exchanged but Tracy escaped.

A WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

Is the direct cause of many a death, but simply because a doctor makes a mistake is no reason that you should do likewise. If you keep your system in proper order you will never need a doctor. A torpid liver is the direct cause of more complaints than any other part of the human anatomy. To keep this organ in a good, healthy condition you should always keep a good liver pill in the house to be taken when occasion require. Cribbs, the druggist, has a large stock on hand including Ayer's, Carter's, Pierce's, Beecham's, etc., just received, which he is offering at virtually outside prices—50 cents per box.

TRACY MAY BE CAPTURED

Rumor in Seattle That Murderer Tracy Is in the Toils—Report Yet Unconfirmed—Believed to be Insane—Theory Explains His Conduct.

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Seattle, July 11, 2:40 p. m.—There is a rumor about the city that Tracy has been caught but it is not yet confirmed. There is little doubt that he is insane. During his visit to Gerrell's home, Tracy told Miss May Baker that his real name was Harry Sevege and Tracy was his criminal non-de-plume. Whether the murderer was speaking the truth is a matter for speculation. Many are inclined to support the theory that he is insane. Anderson's statement concerning the murderers four friends who met him after he landed at Seattle is regarded as conclusive. No doubt now remains that Tracy is receiving assistance. With out side help Tracy's entrance into Gerrell's home becomes inexplicable. He was not hungry. Nothing that he did or secured at the house could excuse his recklessness. In fact the only thing he did except to talk to three women was to wash himself. From whatever side Tracy's visit to the Gerrell's home is viewed it seems to have been a fantasy of a disordered brain. It was based on neither reason nor necessity. The only explanation is that the outlaw was not in his right mind,—that the mental strain undergone since his bloody farewell to the Salem penitentiary has proved too much for even his iron nerves and that he has crossed the invisible line between sanity and insanity.

Seattle, July 11, 3:15 p. m.—Tracy has been brought to bay near Cascade. He turned and a battle is now on in which the outlaws have killed three men according to the meagre reports available.

HON. WM. OGILVIE COMING

Is Bringing Big Dredger Which He Will Operate on the Stewart River—Hopes to Take Out Large Amount of Gold—Worked a Year on Scheme.

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Vancouver, July 11.—William Ogilvie, former governor of the Yukon, is on his way to Stewart river to engage in dredging for gold in the river bed. He is now in Seattle but will leave for the north in a few days, taking a large and expensive outfit with him. He came to the coast by way of the southern states. As soon as he receives advices from the other members of his company in the east which are expected daily he will ship the machinery and if possible do considerable dredging work this season. "I asked to be relieved from my position as commissioner to undertake the work in which I am now interested," said Mr. Ogilvie in an interview. "When I came out from Dawson I found we were not nearly as ready for operations as I had thought, and more than a year has passed in preparing the machinery and other paraphernalia. At last they are about ready. Results of investigations carried on have convinced us that gold in considerable quantities exists in the bed of Stewart river and may be obtained without great difficulty. The necessary privilege has been obtained from the Dominion government giving us the right of prosecuting mining operations of such nature as we desire. The dredger cost $20,000 net including transportation. If we are successful in extracting gold from the mud bottom of Stewart river," concluded Mr. Ogilvie, "it will be evident that deposits exist in many parts of the Yukon bed and a large area of mining ground will be added to that now worked in the vicinity of Dawson."

Urges Immediate Shipments

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Seattle, July 11.—The White Pass & Yukon Route has issued circulars urging shippers of freight into Dawson and interior Alaska by way of Upper Yukon, to delay as little as possible in forwarding as later in the season traffic is likely to become congested or some other cause may result in the failure of freight to reach its destination. Through rates will no longer be in effect after August 10th, and this is urged as a further reason for haste. After that date shipments go forward at local rates.

SOME BLUE TICKETS

Ever since the liquor bill went into effect yesterday there have been the most persistent rumors about town concerning the wholesale issuing of "blue tickets" to a number of the most bold of the aggregation of female grafters; but up to noon today it may be said with absolute authority that such drastic measures have not as yet been adopted. In a conversation had today with a gentleman whose orders are generally obeyed without question, a Nugget representative was informed that none of the passports which were so popular in '98 had been passed around, but that steps which would have a similar effect would be put into execution very soon unless there was a thinning out in the ranks of the class, which has done so much damage to the pokes in the past. In police quarters it has been determined to put a stop now and for all time to the practice these harlots have of getting men drunk and then deliberately robbing them of every thing they possess. On a little list kept by the police are an even dozen names whose presence in Dawson it is thought can be dispensed with, and they will be given a reasonable time to quietly make their escape, and then if they do not go they will receive a forcible reminder that they had better travel. It is not so much of a desire to make a Sunday town out of the city as it is a determination to put a stop to these females with Black Bart proclivities to seek pastures new. Their final promenade will begin within a week.

David Coutermanache was in the police court this morning charged with having stolen a gold nugget from John Nicholas, "Nick" the barber, last night. Coutermanache is a barber and was employed by Nicholas at the time the theft is alleged to have been committed.

Sergeant Frank Smith conducted the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Wroughton for the prosecution and the story brought out was as follows:

"Nick" testified that at about 10 o'clock last night Coutermanache, who had just finished shaving a man and who was then knocking off for the day, went to a gold pan by the window in which he, the proprietor, has a collection of various ores and quartz rocks, the gold pan containing the richer pieces, among them the nugget in question which weighs $19.50. Witness being busy at the time with a customer paid little attention to what was going on but after Coutermanache went out another waiting customer told him, the witness, to look and see if the big nugget was still in the pan. He looked and it was not there. Knowing that Coutermanache had been drinking more or less for two days witness sent men to find and bring him back, witness being loath to report the matter to the police. Sergeant Smith and Constable Stewart went to work on the case and in a short time found Coutermanache at Louie Spitz's place on Queen street where he was in a game of draw poker, whatever that is. At Coutermanache's earnest solicitation Spitz had advanced him $18 on the nugget, which he turned over to the police, who immediately placed Coutermanache under arrest. He was allowed to cash in poker chips amounting to $7.50. The nugget was produced in court and positively identified by Nicholas as his property.

The accused declined to cross-question any of the witnesses. The magistrate reserved his decision as to whether he would try the prisoner summarily or hold him over to the higher court, until this afternoon.

CLARKE IS ACQUITTED

Jury Returns a Verdict of Not Guilty

Case Was Resumed This Morning and Given to the Jury at 1 O'Clock.

The trial of J. A. Clarke, charged with converting a sum of money to his own use, the property of Edward O'Donnell, which he had acquired through the sale of some mining claims under power of attorney given him by O'Donnell, began yesterday, was resumed this morning. At the hearing yesterday afternoon the evidence of O'Donnell was taken. He testified to a two years' acquaintance with Clarke and that he had at one time owned a number of interests with him in mining claims. At the time of his departure for the outside last fall he had given the defendant power of attorney to act in his stead in case an opportunity arose by which he could dispose of the claims in which they were jointly interested. During the winter he had received a letter from Clarke informing him the claims had been sold and that his share was $750. Upon his return to Dawson this spring he had met Clarke within a few hours of his arrival here and the latter had offered him $100 but the witness had refused it as he desired all that he considered was coming to him. Witness had never agreed to accept a stated sum in settlement upon any occasion, had never mentioned $1000 or told the defendant he had him in the "nine hole." He knew nothing of any alleged interest held in any of the claims by "Kid" Owens, had told Clarke he would lay an information against him but had not threatened him. The action which he was at present prosecuting was being done voluntarily on his part and no one had urged him to take such step. Other witnesses for the crown were Chas. DeLong, who was the purchaser of the claims; Richard Cowan, of the Bank of Commerce, who told O'Donnell having an account at the bank but nothing had ever been deposited to his credit by the accused; J. P. O'Connor, who had seen Clarke with O'Connor; Thomas Patterson, who had received $200 for his interest in the claims; J. F. Suggan, who identified Clarke's signature, and E. O. Finlayson, of the Bank of B. N. A.

The evidence of the accused was all that was taken for the defense before adjourning for the day. At this morning's session four other witnesses were called and O'Donnell again took the stand to give evidence in rebuttal. When he had concluded, Mr. Condon made the opening address to the jury and was followed by Mr. Blonker for the defense. The case was given to the jury at a quarter before 1 o'clock and shortly after luncheon a verdict of not guilty was returned.
