"I saw in The Planet a few nights ago," said a William street resident to The Planet this morning, "where one of my neighbors was complaining that the electric light on the corner of William and Duluth streets had not been lit for a couple of nights. You may go farther than that, and say that it has not been lit for a week. The property committee should attend to it at once, as it is becoming a real nuisance."

We are advised by W. E. Rispin, City Passenger Agent Grand Trunk and Wabash Railways, that he has a number of special excursion trips available for intending tourists to Portland, Maine, to Tacoma, Spokane, Washington, Portland, Oregon, Vancouver, Victoria, and other British Columbia points, also summer tours to Atlantic and River St. Lawrence points, also Lakes Huron, Superior and Georgian Bay, and would be pleased to give intending tourists full information and rates.

Alex. Murdoch, of Sarnia, who has been taking a course of mineral baths at Chatham's bath house, left for home to-day, completely cured. Mr. Murdoch's was one of the worst cases of rheumatism that has ever been handled in Chatham. He came here some time ago, and for the first few days he had to be bathed in bed. Then he was able to come down stairs and his recovery has been very rapid ever since. He has had in all eighteen baths. It is indeed a remarkable case, and Mr. Murdoch is enthusiastic in his praises of the Chatham mineral bath house.

AT THE TOP.

It is a laudable ambition to reach the top of the ladder of success. But many a man who reaches the topmost rung finds his position a torment instead of a triumph. He has sacrificed his health to success.

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart, any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition.

Pierre's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. By perfect and abundant nourishment distributed to each vital organ it enables the co-operation of all the organs to preserve the perfect health of the body.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia. I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food in my stomach for a long time. I felt miserably depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptic sufferers throughout the land."

OLD STRAWBERRY LEAF.

Detailed Instructions for Their Removal—How to Conserve Moisture.

As soon as the fruiting season is over, run the mowing machine over the ground, cutting the vines and other growths as close to the earth as possible. Allow the cut litter to remain on the ground until quite dry, or if the block is so situated as to be safe from fire, the litter may be burnt on the ground. If this is not practicable, rake up clean and haul off, then at once plow between the rows with an 8-inch turning plow, turning the furrows together, leaving the rows of plants 6 to 8 inches standing.

Leave in this condition until the growth covered is dead. In a week or ten days rake the rows with an iron-toothed rake, taking out all the trash and surplus plants. The plants should not stand closer than 4 to 6 inches. As soon as this is done level the ridges with a small toothed cultivator or one-horse harrow. This should be thoroughly done, working up all space fine and mellow, with the dirt worked to the rows of plants. Follow with a small-toothed cultivator at intervals of six or eight days, until the middle or last of September, when runners may be placed in proper position to make the plants. Setting plants, however, from fruiting stock is not advisable if the best results are expected.

If fertilizing is required, top-dressing with well-rotted compost may be advisable after the plant rows are raked. Cultivate the compost into the soil. There is a possible chance of making the soil too rich with humus. Soil that will produce good corn is rich enough to grow good strawberries. If color and flavor are lacking in strawberries, phosphoric acid and potash should be applied. If plant growth is lacking, add nitrogen.

After the ground is frozen and winter has come to stay, cover the entire surface of the block with coarse litter, free from seed, just thick enough to shade the plants. In the spring as soon as the crowns of the plants show new white growth rake the covering off the plant rows, leaving it in the middle of the space to protect the outside berries from being sandied by rain. It is a mistaken idea to have the soil rich in order to save cultivating. Thorough tillage is a requisite in conserving moisture. A writer in The American Agriculturist says that by this system he has fruited the same ground for eight years in succession and the eighth season was as productive as the second or third crop.

Scale Remedy Succeeds.

The work carried on by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in connection with the San Jose scale appears to be attracting the attention of the United States department.

A request has just been received to have the inspector, Mr. George E. Fisher, attend the meeting of the American entomologists at Pittsburgh on June 28th to 30th.

In this connection it might be stated that two photographs have just been received at the department which will illustrate how successfully the scale may be met under proper treatment.

In August of last year, Mr. Fisher selected two trees at Burlington, one having but a few scales and the other completely covered, some limbs dead and others incriminated. The badly infested tree was sprayed with dilute crude oil; the other tree was allowed to stand. The photographs just taken show that the treated tree has renewed its vigor, is well covered with leaves and is bearing fruit. The untreated tree shows about two thirds of its top already killed.—Toronto Globe.

This is Intensive Farming.

France, with an area less than the state of Texas, produces 335,000,000 bushels of wheat against 600,000,000 bushels for the whole United States. The Government of France takes a great interest in agriculture, besides there are several great national agricultural societies to which large appropriations are made by the Government. Each farmer is capable of producing in the greatest abundance. With the chart he also can have instructions about what fertilizers he must apply in order to produce 40 bushels of wheat to the acre, and similar information for other crops. The Government also gives prizes and medals for best yields and places the names of successful competitors on a roll of honor. Is it any wonder that the French farmers farm intensively?

Food for Growing Chickens.

Free range chickens get along very well on a feed morning and evening of grain of any kind ordinarily grown on the farm. Corn should be broken & cracked coarsely, and not ground too fine. It is quite a loss of feed to feed dry meal if ground fine, and it is not best to feed it wet.

Grain cooked in two is my preference, and I like to feed it to the growing chicks just as soon as they are able to swallow it thus if it is given them. Wheat is excellent and suited only to broilers, but it is not often we can get them thus. It is rather difficult to grow chicks in confinement and have them mature as early, or develop into as good birds as those on free ranges.

Milk is the best food for chicks confined; that is, milk with chick feed. Sweet milk should be before them about all the time. Skim milk will answer very well. Milk is certainly to be desired in all cases for growing chicks.

Tile Drain Clogged by Fungus.

The three inch tile drain to a vineyard cellar became completely clogged by an unusually luxuriant growth of the fungus Leptomyces lacteus. The obstruction was readily removed by placing a handful of copper sulphate crystals in the upper end of the drain.
