THE OILY ASIATICS.

They Regard Europeans Generally as Vulgar Pigeons.

The manners of the Europeans always strike the Asiatic as peculiar. He expects in an equal or superior a kind of smoothness which few Europeans possess and which they never display in their intercourse with the colored races, whose want of frankness and tendency to be deferential and general failure to secure the results which Europe desires slightly irritate them. The Asiatic thinks that want of frankness essential to politeness is always reserved unless he intends to be insolent and looks upon familiarity, especially if there is any difference of grade, as offensive, presuming and, in a word, rude. Very few Europeans appear to him to be gentlemen and those few only when they are not familiar.

The European's laugh in special is to him as disagreeable as the laugh of the uneducated to the refined European, and European "chaff," persiflage, humor, is to him absolutely unendurable. It is, he thinks, the very quintessence of vulgarity and reminds him perpetually that he is being civil or submissive to one who is essentially, when the mask is off, a barbarian. This feeling, which is universal and incurable, greatly increases his sense of his opponent's stupidity, which again is deepened by his perception that the opponent is fettered in using his intellect by all manner of nonintellectual restrictions, is apt, for example, to resent a cruel or immoral suggestion, does not employ falsehood when falsehood clearly would be convenient and does not detect a falsehood if it is plausible as a quick-witted man should.

Long observation has convinced us that the Asiatic who lies to the European despises the European so much for accepting the falsehood that he often out of sheer contempt makes his falsehood less artistic than he could. Anything, he thinks, will do for a mind so dense as that. He is vexed, too, when his lie is too roughly exposed, vexed not as an ordinary European is, because he has been detected, but as a diplomatist is vexed when his smooth arguments are not put aside as smoothly. He might not be told that he is lying, but only to be shown as lightly as may be that the falsehood has not succeeded. Any other conduct he classes as the result of ill manners, not as any brutal, stupidity and despises in his heart as the gentleman despises the scolding of the rough.

KAFFIR FAIRY STORY.

Queer Experiences of Demane and Demanza With Cannibals.

Here is a Kaffir fairy story. It is called "Demane and Demanza" and is a very good example of the kind of story current among the dusky "boys" of South Africa.

Demane and Demanza are husband and wife, living together in a cave. Demane one day goes out to hunt, but tells his wife before starting that on no account must she cook any food during his absence, lest the cannibals, attracted by the smell of the cooking, find out the cave and eat her off and eat her.

Demanza, directly her lord has gone, commences to prepare a meal, with the result that one of the cannibals knocks at the "door" of the cave and demands admission. This is refused him. So the cannibal goes and consults with his tribesmen, and they burn his throat, which changes his voice to a very smooth tone, like that of a girl. He returns to the cave and is this time admitted. The cannibal at once ties Demanza up in a sack he has brought with him and takes her away to his own habitation.

Demane, returning home with evening, discovers his wife's abduction. Forthwith he tracks the cannibal to his lair. The latter has left Demanza tied up in the sack while he goes to fetch some relations to share in the feast which is to follow. So Demane releases his wife and substitutes in the sack the swarm of bees, and the husband and wife at once make themselves scarce. The would-be feasters arrive, and the cannibal tells one of them to get something good out of the sack.

He attempts this, but is stung for his pains. So mine host himself, to disprove the charge of practical joking which has been unanimously preferred, goes to the sack, on opening which all the bees swarm out and sting him so unmercifully that he rushes from the cave and jumps into a pond head first and sticks in the bottom at the bottom. Thus he dies, and Demane and Demanza appropriate all his wealth and live happy ever after.

There are plenty of other "fairy tales" equally strange, and nearly all of them treat of the fruit of disobedience, virtue is its own reward and like matters, but they have no story emblematic of our well known proverb, "Honesty is the best policy."—London Mail.

But He Wouldn't Change.

When Captain Jack, the chief of the Modocs, once the terror of the whites, was captured and about to be executed, a clergyman, waiting upon the tough old chief, said to him: "Heaven help you, chief, if you repent of your wickedness in fighting good white men the Great Spirit will permit you to go to heaven."

With all the politeness in the world Captain Jack inquired: "Do you think you will go to that place?"

"Certainly," said the minister. "If I should die today, I would be there before night."

Quick as a flash came the answer, "If you will take my place and be hanged to-morrow, I will give you 40 ponies." The offer was not taken, and the clergyman sought heaven by a less direct route.

Worth the Money.

The Burns (Kan.) Citizen says of itself: Our paper is not the best in the world, but if you can show us that it is not worth 2 cents we will put the next issue, First you read it, then you will spread it over something, then clean your lamp with it, and then use it to start the fire, and if that doesn't make it worth 2 cents, at the present price of lumber, why, don't you take it.

COURTS RULED BY SUN TIME

Judges in Various States Refuse to Accept Standard Reckoning.

If you ever expect to go to law over a question in which time is involved, however slightly, don't monkey with standard time. It won't go in the courts. To be sure, you can't catch trains if you don't use standard time to do it, but you will miss the verdict if you do. In Georgia the court of appeals decided that the use of standard time instead of sun time in regulating a trial was an error. In the particular case in question the sun time was faster than the railroad time, and a verdict was received after 12 o'clock on Saturday night by the sun time, though before 12 by standard time. It was decided that sun time should have been followed.

In Nebraska a certain summons was returnable before a justice at 10 o'clock a. m. The defendant failed to appear. The justice waited until 11 o'clock standard time, which was about half an hour faster than common time, and then gave judgment by default. The defendant appeared before 11 o'clock common time, and it was held that the judgment by default was premature and invalid.

In Iowa there was a question as to the expiration of an insurance policy, which by its terms extended until 12 o'clock at noon of a certain day. Fire broke out at about 11:45 o'clock a. m. of that day by common time and about two and a half minutes after 12 o'clock by standard time. The court held that the insurance was still in force. It did not appear that any statute had enacted any change in the ordinary rule which regards noon as the time when the sun crosses the meridian. There was evidence of the customary use of standard time at that place, but this was held not sufficient. The court says: "It was not only necessary to show the customary use of standard time, but that by custom of the place at 12 o'clock at noon meant at 12 o'clock standard time."

WOMAN A BEAST OF BURDEN.

Heavy Loads Carried by Italians Through New York's Streets.

It is no uncommon sight to see Italian women walking along the streets balancing burdens on their heads that the average man would prefer to have sent home on a truck. A few days ago one of these women passed through City Hall park. On her head she was carrying what appeared to be the entire woodwork from the interior of some house. The bundle was made up of eight pieces of hard wood, the shortest being fully 12 feet in length. Each piece was six inches in width and an inch thick. The woman steadied this other she carried what one would consider a good load for one person in the shape of a bundle of shorter pieces of wood.

As she turned into Center street, near Chambers, the end of the load of lumber on her head came in contact with the head of a man who was going in the opposite direction. In order to prevent hitting him too hard she was obliged to turn to one side, and as she did so her burden fell to the walk. In vain she tried to replace it on her head. At last two men took hold of it, one at each end. They found that even their combined strength was just sufficient to lift it up and place it on the woman's head again. When the wood was finally adjusted in a proper position the woman picked up her smaller bundle and started up Center street.

A Little One.

"My necktie is disarranged," Sherlock Holmes, Jr., suddenly exclaimed. His companion looked at him and said:

"How do you know? You haven't felt it, and there is no mirror here that you could have looked into. Sometimes, Mr. Holmes, I am almost forced, in spite of your declarations that you do these wonderful things by reason of subtle human processes, to believe that you must be gifted with second sight. Now what has convinced you that your necktie is disarranged?"

"I noticed a man look at my tie just now and then feel of his own," the great detective answered.

"Wonderful! Wonderful! Only your tie is all right."

To Pack Eggs For Long-Keeping.

The yolk of the egg spoils much quicker than the white. For this reason it is important that the yolk should be surrounded with a layer of the white. If the egg is packed on its side or large end the heavy yolk will settle to the bottom and come in contact with the shell, which admits the air. If it is placed on the small end it will always have a layer of white between it and the shell. Eggs absorb odors easily, therefore only odorless materials should be used when packing them.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Unique in Their Alignment.

The highest of the Tennessee mountains is the Unakas range, and its highest peak is Rattlesnake, the giant that stands above the Cherokee Indian reservation over 7,000 feet. Twenty-two peaks measure about 6,000 feet. A remarkable fact is that some of these peaks, standing directly opposite each other, measure exactly the same height, while others come within a few feet of a common height.

Diamond Dyes

Will Make the Old Things
Look as Good as New.

If the majority of people cannot afford to buy new dresses, jackets, capes, waists or suits of clothes every three or six months, the use of Diamond Dyes will enable them to renew at a trifling cost their faded and rusty garments, making them as handsome as new ones. Mrs. W. L. Woodward of Crosswell, Ont., says:

"I have always used Diamond Dyes with the best results, but my last trial of them has exceeded all previous efforts. I have just dyed a dress of the brown Henrietta cloth with Diamond Dye Fast Black for Wool, making it look as well as new goods from the store. There is no excuse for anyone wearing old clothes while Diamond Dyes are sold."

"Why do you use paint?" asked a violinist of his daughter.

"For the same reason that you use resin, papa."

"How's that?"

"Why, to help me draw my bow."

Her Heart like a Polluted Spring.—Mrs. James Srigley, Pelee Island, Ont., says: "I was for five years afflicted with dyspepsia, constipation, heart disease and nervous prostration.
