Zeal Carried to Excess

It would appear that the Globe in its hatred of the present administration had thrown aside all restraint and was willing to make use of any occurrence, if only in some manner it can contrive thereby to vilify the Government. It does not even hesitate to invade the chamber of death, if in the sanctity of such a place it may find a political weapon to turn against its enemy.

Such an outrage was committed in its columns yesterday in reference to the case to which Mr. Outerbridge called attention in his letter. That gentleman's remarks, we are convinced, were sincere, and with his sentiments we are in accord, but the Globe's comments were unseemly, ill-timed, and, so far as those in trouble were concerned, were utterly devoid of that consideration which even the most benighted are desirous of showing at such a time.

We would prefer to pass over in silence such an unnatural method of attack, if it were not for the necessity of demanding in the public interest that affairs which so exclusively pertain to the family life of a citizen must not be used for political purposes. If the hearthside is to be profaned by such intrusions, what is there left that may be regarded as sacred? It is incumbent therefore to protest against methods to drag aside the garb of hypocrisy which the writer wears, to reveal his real form and to expose his purpose.

It is well known to the author of yesterday's hideous insinuation that not only on one occasion but in several instances recently persons imprisoned for intemperance have been shown leniency. Has the Globe the grace to recognize that? Has the Globe even taken the trouble to ascertain the real facts? Does the Editor of the Globe hold the administration, of which he was such an ardent adherent, responsible for the violent death which occurred in a near-by outport, or for the various offenses committed in other places owing to the effects of moonshine or the liquor sold under the script system? Were not several of those individuals imprisoned, and if death or privation occurred in the families of any of those unfortunate, did the writer who today calls down curses upon the authorities accept any share of the blame? Did anyone even for a moment think of holding him or his party responsible for such misfortunes? The charges which the Globe makes might with equal reason be applied to the judge who passes sentence.

There is such a thing as showing respect for public decency, a duty which particularly devolves upon the editor of a journal. In that respect, the Editor of the Globe has not hitherto established an enviable reputation. The public still have occasion to remember the short-lived Journal—short lived because of its obnoxious tone and its disregard for public sentiment. The public have not yet forgotten a particularly scurrilous article which deeply offended the susceptibilities of a large section of this community, but the tolerance shown on that occasion has apparently left the impression that there is no limit imposed on public utterances, and that in a political campaign, any incident, no matter how harrowing to private feelings, may be trailed through the mire with impunity. We would remind the writer of yesterday's outrage that in this country there is a code of morals which may not be flouted.

We have no desire to challenge the Globes' statement to the effect that its circulation exceeds that of any other journal, nor would we suggest that such a hasty growth may be unnatural and conducive to constitutional weakness, but we would point out to those in whose cause the Globe is engaged, and who undoubtedly possess a proper sense of what is right and fitting, that articles of this nature are nauseating, and would tend to defeat the very objects which the promoters in reviving the newspaper had in view.

At any rate, we can assure them that so far as injuring or obstructing the work of the Government is concerned, the abuse and calumny in which the Globe has indulged recently has had the very opposite effect. Consequently we have been content to treat its outpourings with indulgence, and to allow it to pursue its own course in its own peculiar way to its inevitable end.

Reception of His Grace the Archbishop

Last night the Committee appointed to arrange the programme of the reception to be accorded His Grace the Archbishop, finalized all arrangements. The service will be under the command of Capt. J. J. O'Grady, O.B.E., All the Catholic Societies of the city will participate, and will assemble, with the citizens, at St. Bon's Campus, at 7.30 on Monday evening. Accompanied by bands, the parade will move off at 8 o'clock, and march through the city streets. The line of parade will be across LeMarchant Road, down Patrick Street to Water Street, reaching Cochrane Street it will proceed to Military Road, thence to the Cathedral where ranks will be divided to allow the Clergy and motor cars to pass through and enter the Cathedral. There, His Grace will be presented with an address of welcome from the Catholic laity. While the parade is en route, a halt will be made at the National War Memorial, where a wreath will be deposited on the Memorial in memory of our fallen heroes. Should the weather be unsuitable for the holding of the parade on Monday night, it will take place on Tuesday night at the same hour.

CHIMNEY FIRE.—At 3 p.m. yesterday, the chimney in the Casino Theatre caught fire, and the Central Fire Hall was notified by phone. Two men with a hand chemical were dispatched and the blaze was quenched without any damage being done.

CHILD WELFARE

HEALTHY BABIES.
 "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

LIGHT.
 Do you take Baby out even tho' it is cold? The way to:

1. Make him strong.
 2. Give him resistance against colds and all diseases.
 3. Give him a clear skin.
 4. Give him a good colour.
 5. Give him strong bones.

Just as plants and flowers want light to be a good colour and strong, (you know how white looking the little shoots of the bulbs are when they bring them out of the dark), so babies want light.

In many of the houses, the rooms are so dark, the sunlight never gets right into them, and even a slightly darkened room does Baby so much harm. The Toddlers and the children play in the streets, and in the yard, and get their light that way; remember Baby wants light too.

Take him out or put him out in a basket or box or play every day. He wants very little bit of light he can get this time of year.

MOTHER-CRAFT COMPETITION.
 You are not forgetting the Competition are you? If you have anything finished yet bring it in to us to keep for you.

Obituary

GEORGE FIELD.
 Mr. George Field, one of the mechanics connected with the Light-house department, passed away yesterday at Point Le Haye, at the age of 44. Last week Mr. Field was sent to Point Le Haye to install a fog alarm plant, and on Thursday he was taken suddenly ill with meningitis. Dr. Hogan attended and requested the department to send a consultant physician as it was seen that the patient's condition was critical. Dr. Moore was despatched accordingly but despite all that could be done death came at 11 a.m. on Thursday. Mrs. Field had the consolation of being at the bedside before his passing, she having been summoned from here with Dr. Moore. The body will arrive here by tonight's train for interment. Two daughters and a widow survive.

A Special Meeting of the St. John's Mechanics Society will be held in their Hall to-morrow, (Sunday) at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of making arrangements for the parade which will be held Monday evening, JAS. A. LEAHEY, Secretary.

Directions for Monday's Reception

The attention of Catholic citizens who will be at the Red Cross plot to greet His Grace the Archbishop Roche on arrival, is called to an advertisement on the first page, in which the regulations found necessary in this connection are set forth. In order to avoid confusion, it is hoped that all will adhere to the regulations. A notice in connection with this, which begins at 8 p.m. also appears in this issue.

ANY OUT FOR FIRST SEAT OF A LADY.—With the freezing of the roads in the suburbs, a number of skating enthusiasts were out for the first time last night. The ice formed at Burton's Pond was particularly good and as usual drew a goodly number.

Annual Poultry Show Closed

Yesterday evening the attendance at the Poultry Show was somewhat better than on the previous day, and when the official closing time came at 9 o'clock last night there was a fairly large number of people present. His Honor the Mayor and Mrs. Coggin presented Mrs. Cook with a handsome bouquet. Judge Warrington said he was very pleased with his visit here, and it had been one of much enjoyment for him. Never before had he been treated better and he found the "boys" true sports in every particular. The Mayor then formally declared the 1925 show closed, after which the National Anthem was sung.
