

NORAH CUSHALEEN

OR THE
HAUNTED CASTLE.

'Arrah thin but that's mighty queer,' he muttered. A young and pretty colleen on the mountain at this time in mornin'. Bedad and she isn't a cabin girl neither, for she wants brogue entirely, and her voice is as sweet as a summer brook. Sore its' self that St. Patrick look down upon me, but maybe it's a ghost I've seen.'

And getting rather uneasy at this thought, Mike turned round and walked hastily down the path, casting occasionally furtive glances behind him.

As he went down the mountain, the light increased, and Mike's confidence and courage revived. By the time he reached his cabin on the moor he had quite forgot his encounter with the strange female figure in that solitary place among the hills.

The cabin was empty; but Mike seemed to expect this, for when a careless glance revealed to him that his sons were all out, he hung up his game bag in a corner, placed his gun beneath it, and throwing off his hat and coat, flung himself upon the rickety bed which served for a bed, and was almost immediately fast asleep.

From his very deep slumber he was aroused by some one shaking him in a rough impatient manner, and, looking up he beheld Malv'n Blantire standing by his' couch.

Mike rubbed his eyes and regarded him with a look of unmitigated wonder, for hitherto the Squire had passed him without recognition when they chanced to meet. It was therefore extraordinary to find him in his own cabin, and evidently there on urgent business.

'Get up Mike,' said Malv'n. 'Get up, man; I have work for you.'
'Then bad luck to me for keepin' yer honour waiting,' exclaimed Mike springing to the floor.

'You must go with me to the mountains.'

Mike turned quickly round at this, and gazed rather apprehensively.

'Yer honour doesn't mean to be after going to Captain Jack's cave,' he said in an alarmed whisper.

'In that direction, certainly,' answered Malv'n; 'but I hope we shan't go too far. The fact is Miss Kendal has fled, and I strongly suspect she has gone with the mad idea of seeing that scoundrel Hargreave. Her absence was discovered only this morning, but she must have left the castle last night, and will no doubt be far among the mountains now.
But she can know nothing of the paths, and her tender feet won't allow her to walk fast, so that she may easily be overtaken by one who knows every turn among the hills. You are the very man to accompany me in the pursuit, and I'll make it worth your while to go.'

While Malv'n was speaking, Mike's eyes twinkled—a sure sign to those who knew him that he was possessed of intelligence; and so he was, for no sooner had he learned that Mary Kendal had fled than he concluded that she it was whom he had met on the hill at dawn.

'Throth, and yer honour's righter than you think when you say that I'm the man to go,' he observed. 'It's not many hours since I met Miss Mary at the turn o' Kilmore, wid her purty face set for Skerryvoe.'

'What!—you met her?' exclaimed Malv'n.

'It's myself that did, just afore the sun came out of its bed in the say.'

'And you did not seize her?—did not bring her back?'

'Is it seize her, yer honour said? Bed-dad and I didn't, for two raisins at least.
One was because I didn't know her, for there weren't much light, and she was disguised like a colleen, wid a white and grey shawl over her head to hide her swate face; and the other reason was because I wasn't sure but it might be a ghost, for she hadn't wid her the ways of a common colleen.'

'Then we haven't a moment to lose,' cried Malv'n. 'This chance encounter was fortunate, because it gives certainty to my suspicion, and puts us on the right trace. Come on, then. My horse is tied outside, and we'll get one for you from O'Brady.'

'Soft and aisy, Squire,' observed Mike composedly. 'You want the girl; I don't. You go for—love, in coorse; but what am I to go for?'

'For ten pounds,' replied Malv'n.

'Long life to yer honour's honour,' cried Mike, flinging on his coat. 'Sure it's yerself that's a gentleman born, and yer just the husband for Miss Mary. If the smooth-speaking English painter hadn't bewitched her she wouldn't have stood in the way of her own good luck.'

'She'll know her own mind better by and by,' said Malv'n. 'But the foolish girl must be prevented from continuing her mad journey. Come on. If you are ready, let us mount and away.'

Mike went to a recess, and stuffed his pockets with bread and meat, then re-clarifying that he was quite ready to set out they quitted the cabin, and struck across the common, towards the farm-buildings of Jacob O'Brady.

ANOTHER FENIAN SENSATION.—It is reported that several car loads of arms have been discharged at Potomac or Malone, for the use of the Fenians, and that they have been conveyed into the country bordering on the St. Lawrence, and secreted, to be ready when required, by the brotherhood. The report seems hardly worthy of credence, considering the bankrupt state of the order; but it is believed by respectable people at Prescott and other points down the river.

Business Education!

THE importance of a thorough Business Education is pressing itself upon the attention of commercial circles more and more every day, and its advantages are perhaps more emphatically shown by nothing more than by the vast ground on which it places the fully trained clerk above the imperfectly trained one, when looking for a situation.

THE BRITISH AMERICAN COMMERCIAL COLLEGE has in full operation a course of instruction to give its practical fitness to the work proposed.
An important characteristic of this Institution is its naturally organized actual business system, whereby the College is made a type or model not only of an extensive business house, but even of a large trading community. Another distinctive feature of this College is that it attempts no extraneous teaching. Its work is cast, and to the accomplishment of that work every effort is directed. Just as the University and Grammar Schools must be separate institutions, so the Commercial College and the Elementary School must be distinct. Common sense and experience alike show that such a combination is not compatible with efficiency.

The time required to complete the full course varies considerably, according to the attendance, attention and ability of each student. Young men however are earnestly cautioned against the injurious practice of hurrying through the course from the mistaken idea that they will thus be gainers by the saving of money in the item of board. Infinitely more advantageous would it be to the student, since his full course of tuition is already paid for,
to incur the comparatively small additional expense of a few weeks board in order to make himself completely master of the course; and thus, by a small present outlay, qualify himself for some indefinite situation. The crudeness that such haste inevitably entails is highly detrimental, not only to the student himself, but also to the College where he graduates; and, besides, it brings opprobrium on Commercial Colleges generally. The common practice, therefore, of holding out this crowding system as an inducement to students is most deceptive and highly reprehensible.

RUSSELL WATCH!

A FEW REASONS THAT MAKE IT SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS.

- 1st.—It proves itself a reliable time-keeper beyond all question.
- 2nd.—The RUSSELL WATCH being made on correct and scientific principles, it must follow as a natural consequence that it will keep time.
- 3rd.—Each part of which the RUSSELL WATCH is composed is a reflex of the perfect machine by which, under skilful direction, it is produced.
- 4th.—Truth is the essential of each part.
- 5th.—Uniformity and conformity must therefore characterize the several parts in fulfilling the purpose for which they are made and brought together.
- 6th.—Reproduction, as regards watch work, is simply an application of the principle that "things which are equal to the same things are equal to one another," and if there is any merit, the RUSSELL WATCH possesses that merit to a demonstration.
- 7th.—The greatest variety of price, quality and size, that confidence and perfection will admit, afforded by the RUSSELL WATCH.
- 8th.—The RUSSELL WATCH stands pre-eminently above all competitors for public favor and patronage.
- 9th.—Proofs of the foregoing—the universal testimony of all Watchmakers who have sold, and the positive statements of the thousands in Europe, the United States and Canada, who have worn the RUSSELL WATCH.

TESTIMONIAL.

To Robert Cuthbert, Watchmaker, Wyndham Street, Guelph.

If Society was as perfect in its organization, and was as obedient to the dictates of truth as the RUSSELL WATCH I bought from you is in indicating time, evil would be swallowed up in good, and happiness would become monotonous.

INDIA & CHINA TEA COY.

Home Depot at London and Liverpool.
Canada Depot, 23 Hospital Street, Montreal.

THE India and China Tea Company beg to call the attention of the Canadian community to their directly imported Teas, which for PURITY and EXCELLENCE will be found unequalled.

The Company have made arrangements whereby they have secured the entire produce of some of the best plantations in Assam and on the slopes of the Himalayas, and, by a judicious blending of these magnificent Teas with the best varieties of China produce, they are enabled to offer to the public Teas of quality and flavour hitherto unknown to the general consumer. These Teas are in high favour in England and France, and a single trial will prove their superiority.

The Company supply two qualities only, either Black, Green or Mixed. Their Black Teas will be found to possess great brilliancy and flavour, combined with colour and strength, and to be entirely different to the flat and rapid article usually sold as Black Tea; while their Green Teas are altogether free from the deleterious mineral powder so commonly used for coloring the leaf.

PRICES: Each full-flavoured Tea, for family use, a real genuine and fine article 70 cents per lb. Finest quality procurable one dollar per lb.

The above can be had either Black, Green or Mixed.
To be had in packets of Quarter Pound, One Pound, and upwards, or in tin canisters of 5 lbs. and upwards from the Company's Agents in all the chief towns of Canada.—N. B. All the packages are lined with tin foil paper, and the Tea will consequently retain its flavour any length of time.

OPINIONS.—All packages have the Company's trade-mark, without which no genuine can-nister.
