See Our Exhibit of Arcadian Ranges

Examine this range along any lines you like—efficiency, construction, style, appearance, durability—any point on which you usually test a good range, and you'll find the ARCADIAN first in every department. We don't want you to take our word for it, if the range cannot convince you, we are content to let you buy another range that you consider possesses greater points of excellence. But our experience is that, given a customer out to buy the best range, regardless of cost, and the ARCADIAN is brought to his notice, he buys the ARCADIAN. If you're contemplating buying a range, we ask you, if it's only for your own satisfaction, to inspect the merits of the Spencer ARCADIAN.

The ARCADIAN is a malleable iron range with a charcoal iron body. All joints are riveted, not bolted. It possesses duplex grates for burning wood or coal, and the best system of water heating in any range—the pin head water front. In every detail of its construction it excels and no range is so symmetrically or so scientifically designed. We ask you to see it when you go range buying. Four sizes.
