HENRY'S COMMENTARY,

Pictorial, Unabridged Edition, in three handsome volumes, quarto.

"I discover now beauties in him every day. I set myself two chapters every morning, and I anticipate it as a feast."—ROBERT HALL.

THIS edition is illustrated by 740 wood engravings, of places, antiquities, &c., from the first authorities, and by the finest artists. Copious supplementary notes from the best sources, are appended to each book, and the whole edited by a committee of eminent clergymen of various denominations, forming, altogether, the best edition that has ever appeared of a Commentary in many qualities unrivalled.

16,000 copies have been sold in England. To put it within the reach of all, it is offered for a limited time, at a subscription price of $11, remitted before April 1st, or three remittances of one pound each, within six months.

The price in Britain is $14, at which cost it is reckoned the cheapest book ever published of the kind.
