

Tom Moore on the St. Lawrence. — Seventy-two years ago Tom Moore made a trip down the St. Lawrence. There were no steamships in those days, and it took him nearly a week, in his small boat, to traverse a distance that is now accomplished in twelve hours.

Utawas tide! this trembling moon shall see us float o'er thy surges soon. Saint of this green isle! hear our prayers, Oh, grant us cool heavens and favoring airs.

I wrote those words, Moore tells us, "to an air which our boatmen sung to us frequently. The wind was so unfavorable that we were obliged to row all the way; and we were five days in descending the river from Kingston to Montreal, exposed to an intense sun during the day, and at night forced to take shelter from the dews in any miserable hut upon the banks that would receive us."

These Periodicals are the medium through which the greatest minds, not only of Great Britain and Ireland, but also of Continental Europe, are constantly brought into more or less intimate communication with the world of readers.
