

THE CIVILIAN

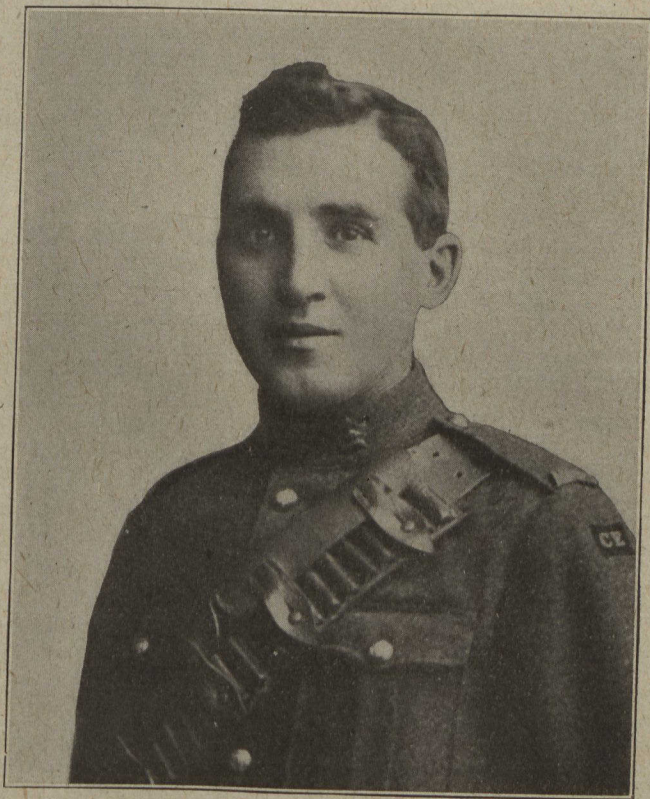

VOL. IX.

MARCH 16, 1917.

No. 24

Spencer Decorated Twice,—Harmon Three Times

In a war where deeds that deserve special recognition are performed literally in thousands, so that only a small percentage of them,—the most distinguished of all,—can be rewarded by the granting of a medal, the winning of a decoration singles out a soldier as a man of unusual qualities.

LIEUT. BURDETTE W. HARMON, M.C., D.C.M., Etc.,
Dept. of the Naval Service.

Numerous civil servants have been so honored, and, a short time ago, one of our boys who had won the Military Cross was awarded a bar in addition,—signifying that it had been earned a second time. Now it is announced that another of our boys had won a bar to his Cross, while a third receives two new decorations in addition to one he won some time ago, making three in all.
