OPINIONS OF THE PRESS OF THE ABOVE ALMANACK FOR 1853.

"Belcher's Farmer's Almanack has appeared, and sustains its usual high reputation.—The interleaved copies will be beautifully bound, and will contain a fine engraved (not lithographed) view of the 'General's Bridge,' Annapolis. It is a finely executed picture."—British North American.

"Belcher's Farmers Almanack.—Since noticing this Almanack a few days ago, the interleaved edition has made its appearance, and reflects great credit on the publisher. The cover is superior to anything of the sort yet published in the Colonies—embossed with gilt letters. The interleaved Almanack is embellished with an engraved view of the 'General's Bridge,' Annapolis.—B. N. A. (Second notice.)

"Belcher's Farmer's Almanack is on our table; it contains the usual amount of information to be found in Annuals of a similar stamp—including full and copious County and City lists of officials, &c., for the accuracy of which the calendar under notice has almost passed into a proverb;—and, having carefully looked through its pages, we can with confidence recommend the production to the patronage of the public. The interleaved and bound copies are enriched with a very well executed engraved view of the 'General's Bridge,' near Annapolis."—Morn. Chron.

"Belcher's Farmer's Almanack.—We are indebted to the enterprising publisher for a copy of his Nova Scotia Almanack. As usual this work contains a vast deal of interesting information for the Farmer, and we would particularly direct the attention of our subscribers on the other side of the Bay to it."—The St. John (New Brunswick) Morning News.

"Belcher's Farmer's Almanack.—This favorite and long established periodical, for 1853, has just come from the press. As usual, it is neatly printed, and brimful of useful intelligence, systematically compiled. The contents of the new number evince all the care and tact of an experienced editor, and therefore it will doubtless be patronised even more extensively than any of its predecessors. An attractive engraving of the 'General's Bridge'—illustrating a beautiful scene in Annapolis—is attached to the bound and interleaved copies."—Acadian Recorder.
