HEAT RESPONSIBLE FOR TEN DEATHS IN NEW YORK ON SUNDAY
Mercury up to 100 in the Streets and Suffering of Poor People Intense—Chicago Has Also a Fearful Record

(Canadian Press)
New York, July 3.—The advancing heat wave from the west struck New York and vicinity with full force yesterday, driving the official thermometer to 94.5, the highest record of the season, and causing ten deaths and dozens of prostrations. There were nine deaths by drowning of those who had sought the water to escape the torrid air. One man suicided to avoid the heat.

(Canadian Press)
Chicago, Ill., July 3.—Five deaths superincurred by the heat, two drownings and a score of prostrations resented the burning from the third scorching day of the present heat wave. At the street level the temperature officially was registered at 100 degrees.

(Canadian Press)
Toronto, Ont., July 3.—Yesterday in Ontario was the hottest day on record. The official thermometer here goes back to August 24, 1884, to find the next hottest day. The official reading of the thermometer here was 90.2 in the city. Yesterday a temperature of 101 in the shade was registered at the meteorological office.

London, July 3.—The international aviation circuit race was accomplished today by eleven of the thirty-two competitors who started from Paris. Nearly all the survivors are Frenchmen. The arriving point was Hendon Park, just outside London.

(Canadian Press)
London, July 3.—The Irish Independent prints a circumstantial account of a meeting of the Irish Nationalist party, held to discuss the question of non-attendance at the coronation. It is said that John Redmond, the leader of the party, made an impressive speech, in which he urged that the Irish members of parliament should take official part as a party in the coronation festivities, as he claimed it would be of untold benefit to the cause of home rule among English constituencies and in the House of Commons.

EMPEROR STILL HELD IN MERSEY

Sir Wilfrid and Canadian Troops Aboard, But No Start Yet

(Canadian Press)
Liverpool, July 3.—(Canadian Press)—Notwithstanding the belief last night that the C. P. R. steamer, The Empress of Britain, with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Canadian visiting troops aboard, had gotten away, that vessel as well as the Carmania with their total of 4,000 passengers was still in the Mersey today. The leaders of the strikers were trying to persuade them to return to work. The strike at Grimsby had been settled.
