In 1889 he sailed from New York to Havre in the Neversink in twenty-eght days. Then n 1891 he went over again in the 14-foot boat Sea Serpent. This was the smallest boat ever sailed across the ocean. He started at Crescent Beach and went to England in forty-two days. He was then at the Paris Expostion four weeks.

His last embarkation was not very successful at the start. Before he had kone forty rods from Lincoln wharf his ersft was in collision with a row-boat and the bowsprit was broken, but having material aboard for making any small repairs that might be needed he did not put back. He had a quantity of food in a condensed form and carried about fifteen gallons of water.
