VICTORIA TIMES, TUESDAY., SEPTEMBER 18, 1900.

Commander In Chief

Some History of the Office Which Lord Wolseley Is About to Resign.

British Field Marshals aud Their Brilliant Records---Big Names Absent.

The retirement of Lord Viscount Wolseley, field marshal, and the conmander-in-chief of the British army, at the end of October, is only in accordance with the new rules governing all army staff appointments, and which he fought hard for during years of subordinate rank, and against court and aristocratic influence, successfully carried to a satisfactory issue. It is not ill-health that causes Lord Wolseley's giving up his command, but the rule of "five years' ' staff employment that governs the commander-in-chief and the youngest aidede-camp in the British army in these days. In the days of purchase and court favoritism it was otherwise, and to the great detriment of the service. That and most important office goes without great soldier may have felt the weight land and Freisland did not dare to come saying. His great merits as a general, length of service and thorough knowledge of the strength and weakness of the British army administration compel the Sovereign's and Cabinet's recognition of these facts, which are most potent in these critical times for reforming and graph would begin "The Duke," the judgment, and though the stock exland defences. It was thought some time ago that the Duke of Connaught would probably succeed Lord Wolseley as commander-in-chief, but sensible man as he is, and a stout good soldier into the bargain, he stopped all gossip on that score at the first hint, pointing out that he had yet much to learn from such fine generals as Roberts, Buller and Stewart.

As a rule the head of the army is a field marshal, the highest military rank obtainable in the British or any other. European army. In the past the high rank has not always been conferred on the most able generals in the British army, but the times have changed, since the rank was first established by royal warrant. The title of field marshal of England dates from the reign of George It was first conferred in 1736 upon John, Duke of Argyll and Greenwich, and upon George Hamilton, Earl of Orkney.

Both were gallant soldiers if not very of field marshal was limited to four in a frank alliance almost impossible. The famous generals; but the beginning of the British army, and since has been Pope was sure that the Emperor was Hamilton's fortune had been curious. increased to six and for the British promoting a panic for some base pur-He had, in fact, only received his title army's size the number is looked upon as poses of his own; he has invented, said of earl at no very distant date from sufficient for this pre-eminent military Innocent II, "this plague of Tartars." the day of his marriage with Elizabeth rank. Since the Crimea the most prom- Innocent II, however, presently died, Villiers, towards whom King William inent among British generals who have and Europe cast a serious eye upon the III, never ceased to feel well disposed. worthily obtained the rank are His Mongols. Crusades were preached; Roughly speaking, it may be said that Royal Highress Dake of Cambridge, com- there was a menace of war; and in the the British army had no professional mander-in-chief of the British army for meantime embassies set forth to pacify system of military grades until the period nearly forty years, to be succeeded by the universal foe. of the civil war. The designations which Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, who was Of these embassies none was more imthen began to obtain were more or less promoted to the high rank in 1894, and copied from those in use in the Swedish portant than that conducted by William when he retires in November next, unof Rubruck (1253-55) whose admirable army. Most of the few professional der the five years' staff rule, will go apaccount has been recently edited by Mr. soldiers whose services were at the dison a retiring pension of £7,500 per year, W. W. Rockhill, for the Hakluyt posal of the country had served a camcertainly a small allowance for so dis-Society. A better piece of work is selpaign or two under Gustavus Adolphus. tinguished a soldier of pre-eminent dom met with, and the debt which we Cromwell was named a captain in 1642 rank, and after 50 years of military serowe to the Haktnyt Society, already and a lieutenant-general of horse in Among other splendid soldiers. The rank of major-general appears to great, is manifestly increased. Of Mr. who have passed away, who reached the been at first used in the modern Rockhill's wisdom and scholarship we rank of field marshal, were Sir Colin French sense, i.e., as equivalent to chief cannot speak too highly; he has followed Campbell, afterwards Lord Clyde, of of staff. The great Cromwellian army his traveller, at least, in part of the Indian mutiny fame; Lord Napier, of had but one-also called sergeant-major Magdala: Sir Hugh Rose, afterwards journey: he has studied the same races Lord Strathnairn; Lord Gough, Sir that William of Rubruck studied; and Hope Grant, Sir Edward Blakeney and he easily supports a weight of learning general-to begin with. The titles general, or captain-general, or lord-generalfor they were indifferently used-rather Sir Donald Stewart. which was far beyond the reach of the signified that the holder was command-On the active list to-day are the Duke old monk. By an accident this new edier-in-chief of an army than that he held of Cambridge, the Prince of Wales, tion has what is called a "topical" ina title honor in the military service. made in 1875. Sir Lintorn Simmons, Sir terest: and we are glad of it, since the Cromwell was captain-general in 1650 Fredrick Paul Haines, Lord Wolseley, accident may not only induce many to previous to starting on his Scottish cam-Lord Roberts, and Prince Edward of read an excellent book, but will also paign. The system of military promotion Saxe-Weimer, made in 1897. To fill the make public the great service which the was still a loose one during Charles II. vacancy caused by the recent death of Hakluyt Society is performing for the reign. For instance, he made Churchill Field Marshal Sir Donald Stewart, the history of adventure, a colonel and a peer of Scotland, rather chances are that the Queen will award Now, William of Rubruck was, in disproportionate honors, but it must be the prize to Sir Redvers Buller, V. C., the opinion of Sir Henry Yale and Mr. nbered there were no C.B., K.C.B. for his brillian services in Natal and the Rockhill, one of the best travellers the remen Transvaal; next to him come Sir Evelyn world has seen. He was intelligent, or G.C.B.'s in those days. There were ensigns, cornets, lieutenants, etc., but it Wood, V. C., and the Duke of Conwhich is rare; he was truthful, which is was etiquette to refer to an officer' as naught. rarer. His book is not packed with "the captain." whatever his rank might The commanders-in-chief of the Britmarvels like the books of Irodorus and be, unless, of course, it were higher. But ish army since 1674 have been: Duke of Solinus, whom he was inclined to be-Monmouth, 1674; Duke of Marlborouzh, lieve. Once he asked the priests (after in mentioning him by name, it was al-Monmouth, 16/4; Duke of Marine Make 1690; Duke of Schomberg, 1691; Duke of Ormond, 1711; Earl of Stair, 1744; the manner of Herodotus) concerning the monstrosities described by Solinus lowable to speak of him as Mr. So-andpress. So, and this seems to have been the more common custom. As late as 1759 we and the rest. "They told me they had read of "Mr. Wolfe" as well of "Monherst, 1778; Field Marshal Conway, 1795; Lord Amherst, 1793; Duke of never seen such," he says, "which sieur Conflans.' The list of British field marshals is astonished me greatly, if it be true." York, 1811; Duke of Wellington, 1827; more conspicuous by the absence from it Lord Hill, 1828; Duke of Wellington, But though he scorned fables, he had of many of England's most celebrated 1842; Viscount Hardinge, 1852; Duke of an eye which no fact escaped, and the esting things about the Chamber." The mere recital of the additions which he British constitution is, among other names. Marlborough died about four-Cambridge, 1855; Viscount Wolseley, teen years before the dignity was intromade to human knowledge would fill 1895 duced, a lieutenant-general. Wolfe and The rank of field marshal in foreign many a page. Clive died major-generals. The victor of He gives us but few glimpses of him- Buckingham Palace. His salary is duly armies is as limited as in the British. Alexandria, and Sir John Moore of Germany has only five field marshals- self, and this very restraint is to his set forth in the civil service estimates. Corunna never attained the highest rank general, as they are styled, and four credit. We know that he was a man is year after year solemnly voted by the in their profession. But one should not colonels-general who rank as junior of simple faith and good courage. So House of Commons, and is included in forget such names as those of Lord marshals. Of these nine, five are prin- much at least is clear upon every page. the gigantic amounts set forth in the Stair, who won the battle of Dettingnen ces of royal blood and another is a grand Also he was of portly figure. "Taey Appropriation bill. In France there is and was an accomplished diplomatist as duke. In France-so prolific of grand always gave me a strong horse," says also a rat-catcher in the employment and well as a great field marshal. Field marshals from the days of Tallard and he, "on account of my great weight." pay of the state. But he is directly en-Marshal Conway, the friend of Horace Turenne down to Ney, Massena and And this, as his editor remarks, is the gaged in the service of the Chamber of Walpole, was a fine soldier and an hen- Soult, and later to MacMahon, Arnaud only personal detail in the whole nar- Deputies. His salary is a trifle over est though timid politician. Marshal and Canrobert-the rank is in abeyance rative. But while he had the good taste £25 a year. Conway is the only soldier who ever led under the Repulican regime, though it not to obtrude his own personality, he the House of Commons since "leaders" claims the right to name them, as well made the most just observations upon the Chamber of Deputies benefits by were semi-officially named. Lord Ligon- as any King or Emperor. The two first ier is another figure of some interest in | Republics abhorred the name of marthe list of practical and able field mar- shals, lieutenant-generals and the marebecause he does not disguise the strangeshals and commanders-in-chief. It was chaux-de-camp-the latter more than ness of the land. "When I found myhe who sarcastically replied to King once mistaken by careless historians for George III., who complained when in- field marshals. The Republic suppres seemed to me of a truth that I had been specting Ligonier's Horse, that the horses sed the first grade and changed the transported into another century." But were very poor looking, but the men ranks into generals of divisions or army transportation into another century did strapping fellows. Smiling and saluting, corps, and generals of brigades. not deprive him of judgment. On the the old field marshal replied: "Yes, Sire, contrary, it inspired him to an accurate The United States never created the horses are miserable, because they field marshal, and Grant was the first account of a life and manners of which are English; the men are Irishmen." The "Bloody" Duke of Cumberland was field of lieutenant-general, which rank Gen. he had never dreamed. Though he did not penetrate Cathay, marshal and commander-in-chief up to Miles, the present general commanding he saw many towns which the Cathaythe time Lord Ligonier succeeded him. the United States army, has asked to ans inhabited, and his description of Of the British field marshals of the be revived in his favor. Austria, Italy, them is peculiarly interesting. To their nineteenth century-a most glorious Russia and Spain have the rank of field skill and learning he pays a proper trithem is peculiarly interesting. To their band-space forbids to tell. Their best marshal in their armies-Exchange. bute, and he makes it evident that in characteristics are worthly personified in the thirteenth century at any rate they the gallant soldiers of the army, not of In less than half a century the sugar- did not share the barbarity of their conroyal birth, who at this moment possess producing area of the world has been querors. "These Cathayans," he writes the baton. The English marshal's shifted from the tropics northward and in one place, "are small men, who in baton was first made a great military the farmer of the temperate zone has speaking aspirate strongly through the dignity with becoming splendor by the shown his ability not only to compete with Duke of Wellington, and his promotion, the low-priced labor of the tropics, but in have small openings for their eyes. They are most excellent artisans in all maning him the baton, was unexampled in the article produced. ners of craft, and their doctors know military history and His Royal Highness gracefully added so were the exploits Poverty is the only burden which is not full well the value of herbs, and diagthat had led to it. Wellington was a lightened by being shared with others .- nose very skilfully the pulse. lieutenant-colonel at twenty-five by pur- Richter. There are a great many of them at chase, and in 1802, the year before the battle of Assaye, he was made a majorgeneral and a Knight of the Bath the year after that victory; the division of the order into classes only dated from 1815. In 1808 Wellesley was made ieutenant-general and the following year granted the local rank of general in Spain and Portugal. He was promoted a field marshal for his great victory of An Old Traveller's Tales of Travel the battle of Vittoria over the French Marshal Jourdan, capturing there the latter's baton of a marshal of France, which he sent to the Prince Regent who sent back to him "one of England." The great duke was commander-in-chief of the British army under several cabinets of his stripe of politics, and did much to improve the organization of the army. Much is now being said of, Field Marshal von Waldersee being the first soldier of this century to take command of Wellington and the Peninsula and the One Hundred Days' Campaign, which was generalissimo in Spain and Portugal and at Waterloo, the allies, ovarians, Belgians and German statesunanimously gave him the chief commands of their armies assembled for the defeat and overthrow of Napoleon. other century. He was and died a field proves how imminent the danger marshal of Great Britain, a marshal of Russia, a marshal of Austria, a marshal of France, a marshal of Prussia, a marshal of the Netherlands and Spain. The Western Europe that people of Gothof his many high honors; and it is evi- to Yarmouth for the herring fishery, and dent from his correspondence that he herrings were therefore so cheap that thought it right to do justice at once to forty or fifty sold for a piece of silver, his military designations. He would be even at places far away from the coast." gin a formal letter with the well known So violent a disturbance of the market "F. M. the Duke of Wellington presents is the best evidence of panic, but tohis compliments," etc. The next para- day we keep our heads with a calmer next, "The Field Marshall" and so on, Among all Great Britain's field marshals Wellington has no equal or seconds. He is also one of the three Brit- Nor was the panic of 1238 ill-founded. and the youngest in age when in comin the Crimean campaign and died before Sebastopol in 1855, aged 67 years.

"The Duke."

in Cathay Recalled for Modern Readers. observation or the conservatism of the A League of the Thirteenth Century-Foreigners in the

It is not for the first time that Westan international force in the field, Such ern Europe is threatened by the Yellow writers have most certainly forgotten Peril. Nearly 700 years ago the Mongol horde seemed battering at doors, and terminated at Waterloo. Wellington many thousands of Chinese fought under the conquering banners of Chini.e., gis and Kublai. The first invasion was Russians, Prussians. Austrians, Han; in 1222, and Russia was devastated as tain people called Caule and Manse, who ranged at different points of vantage, far as the modern Kazan. Of this in live on islands the sea around, which and when lighted contributed to a very vasion no rumor reached the further West, but sixteen years later all Europe was seized with terror, and a passage the truth to the narrative. seemed Far East.

"In 1238," says Matthew Paris," the fear of the Mongols was so great in change may waver, the Chinese invasion of Russia is not likely to ruin the fisheries of Yarmouth or Grimsby.

ish field marshals who have commanded [The Mongols overan Hungary, and in as marshal in the field in this centur;, 1241 France and Germany had every reason to tremble for their safety, until and the youngest in age when he won mand, being 46 years old when he won Waterloo. Lord Raglan, the friend and find the friend and fempted to unite Europe in a common marshal in command of the British army policy of resistance. Wherefore he wrote a letter to Henry III of England, which was nothing else than an Lord Roberts, now in command in South appeal to the civilized world-"to Ger-Africa, is 68 years of age and is the many, ardent in battle; to France, who third field marshal to command. Lord nurses in her bosom an intrepid sold-Hill and Viscount Hardings were both iery; to warlike Spain; to England, great generals and the comrades of powerful by its warriors and its ships; Wellington. They became field mar- to Crete, to Sicily, to savage Hibernia, shals, and each in turn was commander- to frozen Norway." It is a curious list, in-chief of the British army, and were in which Russia, already invaded, and more popular with all ranks than was Japan, which Shingis had vainly attempted to conquer, find no place. But

Up to ten or fifteen years ago the rank then, as now, diplomatic jealousy made Caracarcen, and it is their custom for all sons to follow the same trade as their fathers. This early acknowledg. Victorians ment of the Cathayans' skill in the arts, already established for centuries among them, us proof enough of the traveller's truth, and still more convincing is his account of their writing. "The Cathayans," he says, "write with a brush such as painters paint with, and they The Wonders of the Great French make in one figure the several letters containing a whole word." Indeed, we know not which to wonder at the morethe certainty of William of Rubruck's

Exposition a Financial Failure-Chinese. In Caracarcen he met a Frenchmanone Master William-and his wife, as well as an Englishman named Basil. But it was not the spirit of adventure which had driven them so far east; they had been carried thither prisoners. However, it is no wonder that William Goodwin returned last evening from a of Rubruck dined in their house "with visit to Paris. They were met at New great rejoicing," and from them, of York by Mr. Helmcken and came over foggy, "raw," and chilly? course, he gathered much knowledge. the C. P. R. The residence at James Master William it was who told him that Cathay was on the ocean, and that their return, Japanese lanterns being ar- of the year? he himself had seen "the envoys of cerfreezes in winter, so that at that time pretty scene. This morning Mrs. Helmcken very the Tartars can make raids thither."

courteously gave the Times some infor- penters' and masons' wages, price Caule is Korea, here mentioned for the Wellington's military nonors surpass that of any other soldiers of this or any in the Chronicle of Matthew Paris first time, and gives another touch of mation regarding the great exposition in The statement which had been Paris.

Capital Inspected by

Them.

Mrs. H. D. Helmcken Returned Last Evening.

SAFETY, NOT SPEED.

New Ideal of English and American Shipbuilders.

As far as English ship-owning firms are concerned Atlantic "speed records" are things of the past. eur.

It is rumored (and not generally believed) in shipping circles that the Cunard Company is going to build two new record breakers. Beyond this rumor there is nothing to show that either America or England will attempt for tion was a financial failure. The varimany years to come to wrest from the ous departments, from the more preten-Hamburg-American and North German tious sections, masterpieces in them-Lloyd Companies the honor of making selves, to the little Swiss village with the fastest passage across the Atlantic. its suggestion of the refreshing atmos-This week the new Hamburg-Ameri- phere and scenic beauty of the Alps, can steamer Deutschland crossed from were in a state of bankruptcy. New York to Plymouth at an average rate of 23 knots an hour, and the North great haste displayed by the impulsive German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der directors in opening the exposition. They Grosse at a rate of 22.79 knots. The did not delay until all the buildings were fastest average time ever made by the completed, and consequently when Cunard crack Lucania was 22.01 knots President Loubet pronounced the magic per hour, the Campania coming after words which threw open the portals to with 21.88 Abandoning speed records, the English companies are striving to build the largest, safest, and most comfortable boats for the western trade.

"Speed records," said Mr. J. L. Carozzi, editor of The Syren, to an Express representative yesterday, "have reached their limit as far as English shipowners are concerned, because the maximum of speed plus economy has also been reached.

"We can still build faster vessels than the Germans on the Clyde and at Belfast, but the cost of running them would cut the profits away altogether.

"It is a question of coal consumption. Some time ago I reckoned the difference between twenty knots an hour and twenty-two knots on a steamer like the Campania. The additional two knots is equivalent to a consumption of about an extra 300 tons of coal a day. Think what that means at present prices!

"Of course, the German vessels are heavily subsidized by their government, ential locality has penetrated the most distant portions of the continent is out by an extract from a letter rec here from Mrs. E. E. Warner, 103 S. ling Place, Brooklyn. The write plains that she and her husband looking for the pleasantest spot in w to make their home, and that r her vicinity invests Victoria, B. many of the attributes to perf notably from a climatic, scenic an cial standpoint. Mrs. Warner is des of obtaining the complete informa on this score, and consequently asks t following questions: Mrs. H. D. Helmcken and Miss A.

1. What is the lowest winte ture in the region of Victoria? Har much of this cold weather prevails nually? Is the cold weather also dama 2. What is the average number Bay was gayly illuminated in honor of sunny days in the two rainiest month

3. Do violent storms or earth occur, or deaths by lightning?

4. How far to the nearest region y nountain streams are to be found? 5. What is the cost of building;

in China.

lumber, stone and iron? 6. What is the cost of living; charged freely circulated that the affair was an of board and rooms; price of meats, imposition was erroneous, as the various | etables, cost of clothing, price of essentials had been arranged in accord- cles, cost of keeping a horse, etc. ance with the highest conception of 7. What interest is paid on small los beauty and artistic effect on the part of and what are the favorite securities 8. What are the possibilities of rethose in charge. The buildings were magnificent, and the general appearance izing a moderate income-by farmin of the entire locality was one of grand- running a water-power mill, building workman or contractor), electrical worl

But at the same time Mrs. Helmcken (as workman or engineer)? pointed out that there was certainly a 9. What is the cost of dome considerable degree of mismanagement . 10. What are the garden veget on the part of the promoters. This was raised? The products of orchard regrettable, as it was primarily responvineyard? Are southern fruits, etc. sible for the fact that the entire exposibe had in the markets at reasonab prices?

Are good lectures to be heard? 12. It is scarcely necessary to maintenance of law in an English vince, but we should like to know there is any element in the population One of the fatal defects was the too that is found particularly tro

the public some of the structures had virtually nothing in them. While all should have been completeness and have borne the air of thoroughness, the sound Waldersee with any English soldier, I of the hammer and other implements of the artificer were to be heard night and had to mention his approximate double day in the endeavor to have all finished among either living or dead Frenchas soon as possible. men, I should point to the late Gen. Mrs. Helmcken further explained that Trochu. This comparison would, howa large number of people, among whom ever, only apply to the man's moral were many Americans, had only about a character; of his military capacities l in the earlier portion of the exhibition am not called upon to judge here, al though by an almost common consent could not inspect it in its entirety. Another fact which contributed to the of the German General Grand Staff financial failure was the exorbitant they are estimated very highly, so prices charged at the restaurants, cafes highly, indeed, as to have led more than once to the unanimously expressed opinand hotels, which prevented many people from remaining in the French capi- ion that, in the event of any European tal as long as they desired. Exhibition war in which Germany should be called fees were imposed and exhibition prices upon to play a part, Waldersee would in a city like Paris exceeded one's con- take the place of Moltke. That opinion has not only found credence in Gerception. But in spite of the unfortunate finan- many since Moltke's death, but was cial phase, that portion of gay Paris oc- | rife during the latter years of his life, cupied by the exposition was a vertiable and the great strategist himself considwonderland. Such specimens of work- erably contributed to its propagation Pont Alexandre, a There are some who have presistent superbly beautiful bridge over the Seine, pinned their faith in the matter the art palace and the electric palace on Moltke's successor on Gen. Count von the Champ-de-Mars, once seen were never Haeseler, the Chief of the Army Corps to be forgotten. The exposition premquartered at Metz, and it is an open ises cover many acres and grand strucsecret that, in the event of such a war, tures have been reared on both sides of ping companies are not troubling about the river. In fact Mrs. Helmcken ing in his choice between these two. Count von Haeseler is however if] am not mistaken, a few years older than Waldersee, who is sixty-eight, or, if not older, at any rate less robust, in addition to being little short of a wreck, owing to infirmities contracted on the battlefield of Gravelotte. Haeseler, in fact, wears a silver apparatus, having of the exposition was a mobile plathad a couple of his ribs staved in just as Galliffet wears a similar contrivance owing to the injuries received in Mexi-Waldersee, though white and looking The exposition authorities have mani much older than his years, is physically fested considerable partiality in the allotunimpared, for, if I remember rightly ment of accommodation for the Canahe has never been wounded. He came dian and other British colonial exhibits. The building was very small; little sysunscathed out of the battles before Metz, he escaped unhurt at Sedan, and tem in arrangement has been observed by the promoters, and there seemed to the siege of Paris did not give him a be no disposition on their part to enable scratch. He is, perhaps, a little too apt the exhibit from this part of the country to attribute all this immunity to a special Providence watching over him to appear to the best advantage. But on entering the premises alloted Trochu said: "I am a Breton, a Cathoto the Russian exhibit, there was a vast lic, and a soldier;" Waldersee, were be contrast. The buildings were strikingly more demonstrative than he is, would handsome, spacious, well appointed and willingly said: "I am a Prussian, a Pro everything was done by the promoters testant, and a soldier." For in a to make the Czar's representative docountry of Prussians, Protestants, and main an impressive place. The Chisoldiers, no one is so much a Prussian, nese section was also elegantly arranged. a Protestant, and a soldier as he. In Massive marble columns, perfect exfact, he is little else than these three emples of carving, and the Oriental things, for his education has been puresplendor of the surroundings, united in ly military, and he has taken few pains making the exhibit of the land of Celesto acquire the subtler and gentler graces tial humanity, one of the premier atof life. His marriage with the widow tractions at the exposition. of Prince Frederick of Schleswig- Hols-While at the French capital Mrs. Heltein, who is an American named Lee, mcken ascended the Eiffel tower a conhas intensified his originally very strong siderable distance, and enjoyed a magnireligious tendencies, which at one time ficent panoroma of Paris and vicinity. threatened to drift into anti-Semitism. Sha also visited a place dear to the spot Dr. Stoecker, the protagonist of that of every Frenchman, the tomb of the great Emperor Napoleon I., in the build- movement in Prussia, was an assiduot ing known as Les Invalides. The casket and always welcome guest in Counters containing the remains of the world dis- Waldersee's drawing-room. In fact, at turber and mighty genius, reposes in a one time it was feared that the Court receptacle shaped like a basin. This tess, who exercised a great influence spot communicated with the interior of over her husband, and who managed t a beautiful little chapel, and the win- extend that influence even over the dows with their many colored glasses

Ottaw tion of t Congress gates 11. Is there a good library in town brief a Jon. W1 and othe Sir W. GENERAL COUNT WALDERSEE. Sketch of the Generalissimo About to Take Command of the Allies If I had to compare Alfred Count should name the late Gen. Gordon: if I enender he cong eace, lo in the erests elcom inion. Hon. iberate reater epresen ngmen Ralph abor aken weatin self n what ha fair was was to lisputes Ralph ion of ions nally

ent ha

elieved

reaso

eing t

Janada

did not

gress fr

Mr.

ipeg a

een se

that city

In hi

good we

olished

or, and

assing

wage

Senate

Chine

oned.

To Aust

New

alishn

Juke :

oper

onfed

erlain

lost in other .

roundin of Engl

his inge

sible w

have h

Africa

about

onies.'

Two

Liver

Gord

n Sun

Went

don Ca

FIGE

New

Was fo

special

Poad C

ates, v

from

ound

hundr

of the

found

who small 1 to the were d

me e

000000

$1.

VOI

Poli

Ralph

Sir Wi

Preside

ment

Wh

and can afford the luxury of an extra knot. "Safety, comfort, and cargo-carrying are the points to which the English companies are looking.

"There is another reason why shipextra speed just now. A five and a stated between two sections a considerhalf days' passage to New York will able portion of the city proper intervened land passengers at an awkward hour of and are like the row of palaces and the night or early morning. Bring it other features covered such space that down to five days and there is a distinct it would require an extremely long time I believe that if the German to inspect everything. gain. vessels cut the record down to five An ingenious contrivance by which days no English companies will be the patrons could enjoy a general view drawn into the speed contest again." Mr. Alfred Jakins, the well known form. Upon the payment of one franc, passenger agent of Leadenhall street, the passenger could step upon this aragrees with Mr. Carozzi. He finds no rangement and he or she were carried trend of passenger traffic toward the around the entire premises. faster German boats. English travelers are satisfied with the speed, safety, and comfort of English lines, and only take to the foreign vessels when their own are fully booked .- The London Ex-

FRENCH HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A member of the French Chamber of Deputies who visited the House of Commons the other day tells me some interthings, buttressed about by the engagement of a rat-catcher, who cares for.

Another of the resources of civilization others, and this was the more difficult which finds no parallel in the House of Commons is an umbrella-mender. French legislators finding their umbrellas worn self among the Tartars," says he, "it out or damaged by accident may take them to a particular room in the Chamher and have them repaired gratitously. This institution dates back to the time of Louis Philippe. That amiable and apprehensive monarch never, even in setbad been so arranged as to constantly tled weather, went out without an umbrella. He set the fashion of discarding eternal shaft upon the last resting place walking sticks and holding fast to the of the man of destiny. umbrella. This naturally led to increas-

Miss M. Goodwin, Mrs. Helmcken's ed mortality in the umbrella stand, and, daughter, who has many times delightmembers of parliament, properly thinked Victorians by her splendid voice, reing that observance of a loyal custom should not incur personal charges brought in the umbrella mender and paid a couple of years longer. him out of the taxes. In the administration of affairs he is now the last link left with the "ancient President Mitchell and Secretary Wilson, regime. Kings have gone. Emperors of the United Mine Workers of America, and Empresses have been "chasses." The vesterday afternoon affixed their signa-Titileries is a ruin: the umbrella mender, tures to the document which will call out a legacy of the time of Louis Philippe. 142,000 miners of the Pennsylvania anthraremains .- F. W. Lucy, in the Strand cite region from their work on Monday morning. Magazine.

The truest politeness comes of sincerity. -Samuel Smiles.

mained in London to complete her vocal studies. She will be there for at least the honesty and uprightness of the mat there can be no doubt, and :f the rumon of his appointment to the chief com A dispatch from Indianapolis, Ind., says: mand in China be true it is decidedly a step in the right direction.-London Daily Telegraph.

> From Manila to Australia is "like down a river, for one is out of sight land only two-days." The voyage lasts 21 days, but the course is through the South Sea Islands, which accounts for its resem

Of all the paths that lead to a woman's heart, pity is the straightest.-Beaumont. blance to river navigation.