The Liberals have introduced into Canadian administration the spoils system which is worn out and discarded in the United States. How much better would it have been, when the hungry horde came up demanding offices and the places of others if the Liberal government had said No, but only as vacancies occurred would they turn out faithful men and that no faithful and good man should be turned out.

If it, for two years more, pursues the same policy as it has since 1896 it will be turned out for another seventeen years. History taught that the Liberals had been blundsrers and blind from the start. The Liberal Uouservatives had been endeavoring to bind and consolidate the country, but their policy had been opposed by the Liberals. The Liberal opposed and ridiculed the purchase of the Northwest Territories and said it was folly to pay $1,000,000 to the Hudson's Bay Company for that great country. It was pur-

Mr. Mackenzie said it would take all the resources of the British Empire to build the Canadian Pacific and that it could not be done. Yet the Libesal Conservatives did it and in 1886 the last spike was driven, and across the continent have been passing since both wealth and people until there is nothing which Canada possesses or has done which brings her so much glory has done which brings her so much glory and credit. The gold in that great country and its grain would have been to-day un-

Then Sir John A. Macdonald said we who have been visiting friends in St J.h. wanted more than our farming, fishing and furnitering inductries. We wanted manu factures to aupply those engaged in these enterprises. We wanted other industries during the last three weeks, returned home persently of employment, so he proposed the national policy, which the Liberals strove in every way to defeat. But it was established and from that on the industries of Canada grew apace although it was opposed by the Liberals until 1896, when, contrary to their promises, they turned around and continued it. The young as well as the old men of the country, when they study the history of the two parties and their policies of the past will know which of them it is best to trust.
