

The occasion being the Annual University Club ball. He had a delightful time, wonderful music, fine, food, & lovely night & as for Mr. Murphy it is perfectly charming,<sup>47</sup> & if Mr. Rockefeller (as)
(Mrs. Melborn says) is any more charming than the other members of the Rock -efeller family I am tempted to apply for a place in their employ at once.

Mrs. Melborn says Mr. Rockefeller missed you the other night. If there is anything in thought trans-ference your brain must have registered some reverberations as you were the subject of much conversation between the Melborns & Mr. Murphy of
New York and myself.
