

of the territory ceded by the First West Angle Treaty, No 3, the said land containing an area of vicinity thousand square miles, more or less.

Authority to negotiate the Treaty was conferred upon Duncan Campbell Scott and Samuel Stewart of the Department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, representing the Dominion of Canada, and Daniel George Mac Martin of Perth, Ontario, representing the Province of Ontario. The Commissioners were instructed to meet the Ojibway, Algonquin, and other Indians inhabiting the district above defined and negotiate a Treaty with them, by which they would cede, release, surrender and give up to the Government of the Dominion of Canada for ever, all their rights, titles and privileges whatsoever to the lands above mentioned and to all other lands situated in Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, the district of Keewatin, or in any other portion of the Dominion of Canada.

In consideration thereof, the said Indians to be paid eight dollars in cash each; and annually afterwards forever the sum of four dollars; the Government agreeing to lay aside a reserve for each band, the same not to exceed in all, one square mile for each family of five, or in that proportion for larger and smaller families; to pay such salaries of teachers to instruct the children of said Indians, and provide such school buildings and educational equipment as may seem advisable to the Government; also to present to each Chief after signing the Treaty a suitable flag and a copy of the Treaty for the use of his band.

If at any time, portions of the reserve are appropriated for public works, buildings, railway or roads of whatsoever nature;