F—Do you know who invented electric light?

J—Edison.

F—No, it was Noah when he put the animals out he made the ark light.

J—I met a young lady on the street and said to her "Good morning, Glory." She said "Why don't you call me by my right name. Call me Feathers." I said I was tired of calling her down. I asked her what she was running for this morning. She said "Your brother acted as if he was going to kiss me." She never ran so fast in her life. I asked her if she caught him. I told her that my brother said she was a perfect lady. She said "Your brother doesn't know me." I said "That's what I told him."

J—I am very fond of electricity.

F—Yes, the grocery man told me that you liked to have everything charged.

J—At our house we use electricity for heating and cooking, we even have an electric fan.

F—If you keep on you will get an electric chair.

J—Say, don't you think every time a married couple quarrel they should write it down in a book.

F—What kind of a book?

J—A scrap book:

F—You can always tell a strong minded woman.

J—Yes, but you cannot tell her much.
