

Recollections

O THAT I were young again,
That I were bright and gay,
That I could join the merry throng,
That I could run and play!
And dream again those noble thoughts
That haunted all my youth,
And feel the dictates in my soul
Of innocence and truth!