The crying disgrace thus far in the campaign at present on for the abolition of the bar and the effective curtailment of the retailing of alcohol in Ontario is the unfair and cowardly criticisms by those opposed to said po-licy which are being hursed through-out our province at these clergymen who have the maniness and courage to preach and speak on the temperance ssue, when, where and as often as heart and conscience dictate. The churches over which these said clergymen preside are dependent for financial support upon all classes in the community and no men more readily recognize this than the clergymen themselves but that elergyman who, because of this fact, would fail to pray and work for any issue which he was convinced was of far reaching importance viewed from a moral standpoint would be recreant to the trust committed to him and unworthy the support and confidence of sincere men. The issue as presented by said clergyman is open to rejection or acceptance by those who sit under him. They are not forced to accept his conclusions or follow his counsels. That must be left to their own consciousness and judgments. But the chergyman has done want he deamed to be his duty and relieved himself of the responsibility which he felt was laid upon him city and province are partisans. The contrary fact is too well established, But this assertion is a convenient one to whisper at the street corner among ste ongenial companions Personally I would not cross the door of any

TEMPERANCE men of West Hastings, they are telling us that you are insincere, that you are not to be depended upon, that your professions of the past 25 years are professions only. Mr. Johnson classed you with the "Pharisee of old" in his nomination address according to The Intelligencer report. On Monday, 29th day of June, are you going to show by your ballot that you resent these imputations and slanders against your integrity? Are you going to demonstrate to the forces of Liquordom that Temperance men can talk and vote as well?

Clarke had the land where it was neglected if the fruit industry is to be encouraged. At the last meeting of the county council a grant of $600 was given to wards repairing the Huff's Island bridge. This bridge is a great convenience to those living on the island giving them a short route off the main land to Belleville. A general shuffle in awarding grants to other places appears to have followed this grand to the island. It usually turns out this way.
