SPIRITUALISTIC

"And you say," said the sucker, "that you are able to call up the spirits of the dead?"
"Yes," affirmed the medium.
"And make them answer questions—anything you ask?"
"We can do that," yes. Who do you want?"
"I want," said the sucker, feeling his pockets, "I want you to call up George Washington and ask him to tell me, confidentially, where that dollar landed that he threw across the Potomac."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A CRY FROM THE CANADIAN HILLS

"LADDIE, little laddie, come with me over the hills, Where blossom the white May lilies, and the dogwood and daffodils; For the Spirit of Spring is calling to our spirits that love to roam Over the hills of home, laddie, over the hills of home."

"Laddie, little laddie, here's hazel and meadow rue, And wreaths of the rare arbutus, a-blowing for me and you; And cherry and bilberry blossoms, and hawthorn as white as foam, We'll carry them all to Mother, laddie, over the hills at home."

"Laddie, little laddie, the winds have many a song And softly and hold they whistle to us as we trip along; But your own, little song is sweeter, your own with its merry thrills; So, whistle a tune as you go, laddie, over the windy hills."

"Laddie, little laddie, 'tis time that the cows were home, Can you hear the kingle-klangle of their bell in the greenwood gloom? Old Rover is waiting, eager to follow the trail with you, Whistle a tune as you go, laddie, whistle a tune as you go."

"Laddie, little laddie, there's a flash of a blue-bird's wing O hush! If we wait and listen we may hear him carolling. The vesper song of the thrushes, and the plaint of the whip-poor-wills, Sweet, how sweet is the music, laddie, over the twilight hills."

"Brother, little brother, your childhood is passing by, And the dream of a noble purpose I see in your thoughtful eye. You have many a mile to travel and many a task to do; Whistle a tune as you go, laddie, whistle a tune as you go."

"Laddie, soldier laddie, a call comes over the sea, A call to the best and bravest in the land of liberty, To shatter the despot's power, to lift up the weak that fall, Whistle a song as you go, laddie, to answer your country's call."

"Laddie, soldier brother, the Spring has come back again, But her voice from the windy hilltops is calling your name in vain: For never shall we together 'mid the birds and the blossoms roam Over the hills of home, brother, over the hills of home."

"Laddie! Laddie! Laddie! 'Somewhere in France' you sleep, Somewhere 'neath alien flowers and alien winds that weep, Bravely you marched to battle, nobly your life laid down, You unto death were faithful, laddie; yours is the victor's crown."

"Laddie! Laddie! Laddie! How dim is the sunshine grown, And the lips that quiver and falter have ever a single theme, As we wait for your dear, lost whistle, laddie, over the hills of dream."

"Laddie, beloved laddie! How soon should we cease to weep, Could we glance through the golden gateway whose keys the angels keep! Yet love, our love that is deathless, can follow you where you roam, Over the hills of God, laddie, the beautiful hills of Home."

"These lines were composed by Miss Lillian Leveridge, of Carrying Place, Prince Edward County, Ont., as a tribute to her brother, Pte. Frank Leveridge, of Coe Hill, a member of the Thirty-ninth Battalion, that went overseas from Belleville. Pte. Leveridge died of wounds while doing his duty in France. The verses appeared in London Daily Press."
