Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason.
DIGGING UP.
Oh, chee, it is a splendid thing to see our hard-earned seeds take wing! We're called on, every week of four, to dig up coin, and then some more, to buy some bonds, or help Red Cross, and joyfully we dig the dross. With other causes growing lax, we're asked to pony up tax, or help the "Red" or the "Blue," or buy irritating acids, or some herbs. We used to snarl like Thomas Cat, when some one came and passed the hat; we'd frown and make a nasty speech about the daughter of a teach. But now we're using no snarls or growns when we are asked to shed the bones. We dig up all the plunks on hand, and say, "The cause is truly grand, and most highly regarded; we can't do more, aliter yet." Our dollars are no longer gods; we find it great to slip our wads. Of course, some fellows are still surly, but they are sorry they're alive. No longer do they strut in pride because they're fortunes multiplied; they see in every glance the sure seeds take wing, and bring them a pain. Their ranks grow smaller every day; they learn to shoo the wealth away. Great James! It is a noble thing, to have them vanish from our view, and think of all the good they'll do!
