Deeds Not Words.

- BY CHARLES SWAIN. If words could satisfy the heart,
 The heart might find less care t
 But words, like summer birds, de
 And leave but empty air;
 The heart, a pilgrim upon earth,
 Finds often, when it needs,
 That words are as little worth
 As just so many weeds.
- little said—and truly said—
 Can deeper joy impart
 an hosts of words, which reach the head,
 But never touch the heart;
 he voice that wins its sunny way,
 A lonely home to cheer,
 ath oft the fewest words to say;
 But oh I these few—how dear!
- f words could satisfy the breas',
 The world might hold a feast:
 But words, when summoned to the testOft satisfy the least!
 Like plants that make a gaudy show,
 All blossom to the root;
 But whose poor nature cannot grow
 One particle of fruit!

distinguished agriculturist, an excellent land through a live oak tree and clinch or bolt it to the other side, and then he will stay on the farm. Yes, there are some other ways we know, but this is the only infallible method.

A dairy authority says that a factory which will make the cream from a thousand cows cost, outside of the land, about $2,500. But one could be started on a small scale, with a few hundred dollars, and with good management and energy be made to pay. Grain raising is becoming more precarious in the older portions of the country every year. By turning unprofitable hillsides and fields into pasture land, the soil may be brought up and made to pay a good per cent. The manurs from one cow, properly large a week. He himself for many years used a vehicle drawn by trained deer, but latterly he went about his estate in a carriage with a team of oxen. His horror of horses is said to have been innate, as there was no accident in his life to account for it.

Michael Harrington, the eldest of the Fenian prisoners who were rescued from New South Wales by the American whaler, Catalapa, in 1876, died recently of pneumonia, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Edward Whelan, in San Francisco. The fifty-four years of Harrington's life were full of rowantic interest. He was born in Cork. While a young man he enlisted in her Majesty's sixty-first regiment just in time to serve in the Sepoy rebellion and Indian mutiny. He fought in was wounded, and returned to Eagland, where he continued his military service until he lacked but one year of the time to retire on a pension. That was in 1866, when the mine of Fenianism was about to be fired in Ireland. Harrington deserted his regiment and hastened to Ireland to join the uprising, but was arrested at Dubin and was brought before a court martial, charged with Sulphur for Lice on Cattle.

Soon after the young cattle go into their winter quarters in the barn, lice will be liable to make their appearance and unless they receive immediate attention they will rapidly increase, and all thrift and growth will soon cease, says our Country Home.

All carpenters know how soon the butten ends of chisel handles split when dally exposed to the blow of a mallet or hammer. A remedy augested by a Brooklyn man consists simply of sawing or cutting off the round end of the handle so as to make it flat, and attaching by a few nails on top of it two disks of sole-leather, so that the end becomes similar to the heal of the boot. The two thicknesses of leather will prevent all around.
