DROVE WITH THE DEAD

Few men have had the gruesome experience of driving for miles beside a dead man, but that was what happened to Fred Vickery of Leeds County on Wednesday. An old gentleman named William Davis has been living with Vickery, a farmer at Lillies, a few miles north of Brockville. Davis had been ailing for some time past, and been ailing for some time past, and forward on his chest, stone dead. As the only course left was to summon a police and the coroner. No inquest was considered necessary, as the man, who was about 70 years of age, had died from naturnl causes. Vickery cannot say at what time Davis died.

A COUNTRY MERCHANT'S SNAP

"Yes" remarked a country merchant,
"I certainly have a snap. Wholesale houses send duns every month on me a sight, but if I send a bill to a farmer be becomes swearing mad and quits trading at my store. While I am hard up for money, many of those who are owing me are sending money in advance to mail order houses. If I contribute money to any cause people say I'm bidding for trade. If I don't they say I am a hog. Every day I am expected to dig up for everything that comes along, from a raffle ticket to a church fund by people who claim I ought to do this because they do part their trading here but our of their trading here, but our friends Robert Simpson and T. Eaton neither buy tickets nor help the church tund, and yet they get the cash in advance business. If I sell a pair of trousers I must treat the family with candy and cigars; if I buy a load of potatoes I must do the same. Cus tomers who are able to pay hang on to their money while I pay 10 per cent at the bank to get ready cash. I have a big business when crops are poor from people who are willing to trade with me provided I can duplicate cata logue house prices and wait until the harvest for money. My scales weigh too much when I sell sugar, and too little when I buy butter. I am a thief, a liar and a grafter. If I smile I am a soft soapy hypocrite, and if I don't I am a grump. Yes, certainly this is a snap." And he looke over $10,000 worth af accounts, all good and wonders how he could raise $350 to pay a sight draft due to morrow.

FAT MILK AND FAT MEAT

Why should milk that contains much cream be accounted the best? Cream is only fat, and we do not rate the food value of meats solely by the amount of fat that they include. Dr. J. A. Gilbert, Portland, Oregon, writing in the medical Record (New York) takes the view, this devotion to "rich" milk has no logical basis. In our earnest search after a fat milk, he says, we have probably gone too far, To quote from an ditorial in The Hospital (London, Eng.) which notes Dr. Gilbert's opinion appreciatively:
"The milk which is richest in cream is not therefore the most nutritious, for the very simple reason that a rich milk is need easily digested and absorbed than a milk in which the fat percentage is low. As far as as its other constitu ents are concerned, a milk poor in fat is as valuable a food as a milk rich in fat. The fat percentage, the popular standard by which milk is judged, is most variable, while the proportions of the albumenoids, sugars and salts vary but little in the different samples of milk. In other words, while the energy producing and heat giving qualities of the several kinds of milk may be great or little, the valuable proteid in. gredients, which go to building up of the tissues—the prime property of any food—remain very much the same in all varieties of cows' milk. Thus a "thin" milk is for all purposes, save for energy and heat production, as valuable a food as the so-called "rich" milk. Indeed, it not infrequently happens, as the experimental feeding of young growing . inals has shown, that a thi milk may prove, in the long run, more flesh forming than a rich milk, inasmuch as the former is less liable to induce gastro-enteric disorders."

And Felt They Saved the Honor of the

Every graduating class at Annapo leaves behind it the fame of certain heroes in the line of physical prowess or mental endeavor. One of these heroes was George Dewey, a fine, manly, athletic youth, the pride of the boxing and fencing masters and the terror of all bullies.

In Dewey's class was a youth of an excellent bent for applied mathematics, but so tender of physique that he often suffered from the rough horseplay of his elders. Dewey took the boyunder his protection, and the two became fast friends. They swung their hammocks in the same watch on their graduating cruise and when the ship touched at Liverpool obtained permission to run up to London on a day's leave. By rigid economy the two had scraped to gether a little more than £2 apiece, and they landed in the English capital ar rayed in spick and span new uniforms. A round of sightseeing had reduced their combined capital to 2 sovereigns and their return tickets when their boyish appetites announced the hour of

With the cautious economy of his ancestors the Scotsman suggested a chop-house, but nothing but the best would suit Dewey, and he accordingly steer-ed his chum into the finest hotel he could find.

The two seated themselves at one of the tables and scanned the menu with a magnificent air. The first item that caught their eyes was strawberries and cream, and this, with its reminiscence of home, they proceeded to order.

Now, the time was winter, and strawberries from the hothouse are expensive in London, so it was small wonder that the other guests who had learned the order looked inquiringly at these specimens of the jeunesse dorse of the American navy. An Oxford lad who sat next them seemed particularly impressed and turned his large eyes upon them with awe. The strawberries were good, and all went well until bill for £1. The Scotsman nearly collapsed, but Dewey noticed the eyes of the Oxonian upon him and, turning superbly to the waiter, ordered two more

AN ANCIENT HIGHWAY.

England's Great North Road is Twe Thousand Years Old.

Before we reached Hatfield, a few miles out of London, we had already been impressed with the magnificence of this Great North road, which is said to have been built by a Mr. Cae sar, whose headquarters were in Rome at the time. It is the direct route from London to Edinburgh and has been traveled for so many centuries that the earliest histories of England contain accounts of the movement of troops upon it. It is a great thoroughfare for vehicles of all sorts, motor-ists and cyclists, and in these modern days there are well worn footpaths along either side for pedestrians. We passed scores of motors, and I was told while in England that the popularity of motoring had noticeably di-minished the number of first class fravelers by rail. We found the road for its entire length of 400 miles in perfect condition. In many portions the macadam is said to be nine feet thick, Long sections of the road are oiled, and on no part of it was there any appreciable amount of dust. There are few sharp curves, and the grades are so slight that it has become a great thoroughfare for speeders, with the result that there are many police the result that there are many police traps for which one has to watch. We found that we could stop in almost any little village and get information as to just where the traps were located—as, for instance, they told us at Bigleswade, which is a better looking place than its name, to look out for traps just the other side of Buckden and again in approaching Weston.—Frank
