"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

GENERAL NEWS

—On the first of July the McKinley tariff tax of 4 cents per pound on raw tin, which is equal to about 20% will go into effect. The country uses about 45 000,000 pounds a year, and not a pound is mined in the country.

—All the union carpenters on the World's fair buildings, 1,700 in number, have been ordered out on strike. They are now paid 25 cents an hour, but ask 40 cents.

—The marriage ring of Luther's wife has been discovered at Anna, Coburg, where a family has possessed it for a number of generations without knowing its interesting history.

—A fight took place the other day at Antlers, Choctaw nation, between the Choctaw militia and Jackson faction in which 30 men are reported killed and 22 wounded. Grave fears are entertained that the Indians will go on the warpath.

—Thirty years ago the packing firm of Swift & Co., in Chicago, consisted of a little butcher shop with one waggon. Now the firm has just decided to increase its capital stock from $7,500,000 to $15,000,000.

—The McMullan Musee of Omaha owns the largest specimen of the bovine race now in existence. This gigantic ox was bred by C. W. Curtis of Cass county, Ia. At last accounts he weighed 3740 pounds, stood 6 feet 4 inches in height and measured 10 feet 11 inches in girth.

—The inventer of the lifeboat Joseph Francis, is still living in the United States. He is now 92 years of age, and was present a few days ago in the Senate Chamber, Washington, receiving thanks and marks of honor from Congress. Nearly every crowned head in Europe has recognized his lifelong service to humanity and his inventions have been utilized by every civilized country.

LITERARY NOTES.

Rudyard Kipling has completed his new book, which is to be called Many Intentions. It is understood that Mr. Kipling takes a special interest in this book, and that he has written for it three new stories which have not appeared in any of the magazines. Mr. Kipling's American publishers are D. Appleton & Co.

An entertaining story by the Marquis of Lorne, illustrative of "Hunting Life in the Rockies," with pictures from drawings by C. E. Fripp, R. W. S., will be one of the attractive features of the next number of Harper's Weekly, published April 5th.

Jealousy in the Choir.

Silvery-noted,
Lily-throated,
Starry-eyed and golden-haired,
Charming Anna,
The soprano,
All the singers' hearts ensnared.

Long the tenor
Sought to win her,
Sought to win her for his bride;
And the basso,
Loved the lass so,
Day and night for her he sighed.

The demeanor
Of the tenor,
To the basso frigid grew;
And the basso,
As he was so
Mashed, of course, grew frightened too.

Anna smiled on
Both, which piled on
To their mutual hatred fuel;
So, to win her,
Bass and tenor
Swore they'd fight a vocal duel.

Shrieked the tenor
Like a Vennor
Cyclone howling o'er the plain.
Sang so high
To outvie
The bass, he split his head in twain.

Growled the basso
Till he was so
Low, to hear him was a treat;
Lower still he
Went until he
Split the soles of both his feet.

Charming Anna,
The soprano,
Mourned a week for both her fellows;
Then she wed the
Man who fed the
Wind into the organ bellows.

The Immortal Soul.

VICTOR HUGO'S MEMORABLE IMPROMPTU REPLY TO THE ATHEISTS.

At a dinner given to Victor Hugo in Paris some years ago, he delivered an impromptu address, in which he gave expression to his faith in the infinite and in the soul's immortality. His friend, Houssaye, who was present, says:

'Hugo at that time was a man of steel, with no sign of old age about him but with all the agility, the suppleness, the ease and grace of his best years.' He was contradicting the atheists, and his friend says his face was bright with the heavenly halo, and his eyes shone like burning coals.'

'There are no occult forces,' he said; 'there are only luminous forces. Occult force is chaos; the luminous force is God. Man is an infinite little copy of God. This is glory enough for man. I am a man, an invisible atom, a drop in the ocean, a grain of sand on the shore. Little as I am, I feel the God in me, because I can also bring forth out of my chaos. I make books, which are creations. I feel in myself that future life. I am like a forest that has been more than once cut down; the new shoots are stronger and livelier than ever.

'I am rising, I know, towards the sky. The sunshine is on my head. The earth gives me its generous sap, but heaven lights me with the reflection of unknown worlds. You say the soul is nothing but the result of bodily powers. Why, then, is my soul more luminous when my bodily powers begin to fail? Winter is on my head, and eternal spring is in my heart. There I breathe at this hour the fragrance of the lilacs, the violets and the roses as at twenty years ago. The nearer I approach the end the plainer I hear around me the immortal symphonies of the worlds which invite me.

'It is marvelous, yet simple. It is a fairy tale, and it is historic. For half a century I have been writing my thoughts in prose and verse, history, philosophy, drama, romance, tradition, satire, ode and song. I have tried all, but I feel I have not said a thousandth part of what is in me. When I go down to the grave, I can say, like many others, I have finished my day's work, but I cannot say I have finished my life. My days will begin the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes on the twilight to open on the dawn.'

Like Lightning.

The rapid action of the 'great pain cure,' Polson's Nerviline, in relieving the most intense pain, is a matter of wonder to all who have used it, there is nothing suprising in its results, for it is made of the strongest, purest and most efficient remedies known in medicine. Nerviline cures toothache instantly; cramps in five minutes; neuralgia after two applications; rheumatism is at once relieved by its use; and the same may be said of all kinds of pain. Sample bottles, costing only 10 cents, at any drug store. The large bottles only 25 cents. Polson's Nerviline sold by druggists and country dealers.

Where's the profit when spring makes us happy and gay if it makes all the microbes feel just the same way?—Washington Star.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

Conducted by the Ladies of the Sackville W. C. T. U.

Miss Willard in England.

No visitor from America has ever received a more enthusiastic welcome from Christian workers in England than Miss Frances Willard, the gifted temperance reformer. And certainly, it is not too much to say, no one has more thoroughly deserved the honor and admiration awarded. Since the general reception by Temperance workers in Exeter Hall, a special reception has been tendered Miss Willard in Citys Road Chapel—now called 'Wesley' Chapel.' In spite of rough weather, on a recent Monday evening the 'Cathedral of Methodism' was crowded. A large number of prominent ministers, layman and 'elect ladies' were present. The venerable Dr. Jenkins was the chief speaker.

In an address of welcome he took a rapid survey of the great women of Methodism, and chased Miss Willard with them. Talking of her work, he drew loud cheers as he said that he had no faith in Temperance without the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Perhaps the Doctor's best point was when he said he honored Miss Willard for her work in making a home where there was none. Such work was of God, and the instruments of such work were honored instruments. Dr. Jenkins closed with a reference to the noble rivalry of England and America 'not for supremacy, but for the first place in righteousness.'

Miss Willard was presented with a copy of Wesleys Journal and the hymn book of John and Charles Wesley, and several other interesting Methodistic mementoes. Lady Somerset was also present and addressed the meeting, declaring that she felt it to be an honor to be there. Miss Willard has given a new impulse to Temperance work in England, and greatly strengthened the hands of those who are fighting the battles of Temperance and Prohibition in that country. She has in a peculiar degree the faculty of subduing opposition and winning the sympathy of her audiences for the cause for which she pleads so earnestly.

People You Should Know.

MRS. FRANCES J. BARNES.

At the convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held in 1880 the work of the young ladies was presented in the first report on the subject that appeared in the minutes of the national organization. In the same year that work received recognition by being made a department of the general work; and the one that presented the report, Mrs. Frances J. Barnes, was placed at its head. The 'Y's' since then have made their name well known and their influence widely felt; and for their efficiency no small credit is due to their energetic superintendent.

From her early home at Skaneateles, N. Y., she carried the poetic lessons taught by lake and hills, and, of far more importance, those lessons of a Christian home that led her to an early consecration of herself to God. She has been accustomed to the practices prevailing among the Friends; she had borne the responsibilities that fall to the lot of an only daughter; she received a good education; and all these circumstances tended to give self-reliance and to fit her to take a prominent position in a movement where women were leaders. On the opening of the Woman's Crusade, the temperance cause claimed and received her sympathies and efforts. After three years experience in Chicago, where she worked with Miss Willard in gospel temperance meetings, she was determined as to her life-work.

Several years was spent in superintending young women's work in her native State, and then she made her home in the city of New York, where her days were full of work in directing and speaking. She has made large use of parlor meetings, by which it has been possible to reach and interest many that would not attend a general meeting; and her winning ways and great tact have given her great success in promoting the progress of the cause that she represents. When she went to New York, but three houses were open for her meetings; but invatitions soon became numerous.

Mrs Barnes is always busily planning some movement that calls for the activity of her enthusiastic followers in very practical ways. The projects for which she asks their support are always varying. Now it may be a boys reading-room in New York City, now a work in some mission field, all alike tending to develop and broaden those that are to have a share in carrying it on to success.

Above all things, Mrs. Barnes is true to the 'Christian' in the name of the organization for which she labors. It is for the sake of those for whom Christ died that she makes her appeal. The temperance that she urges is temperance resting upon the gospel for its motive and its strength; it is temperance that opens the way for the gospel.

MILBURN'S COD LIVER OIL EMULSION with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites cures all throat and lung trouble.

Black-Knot.

The black-knot of the plum and cherry is a serious disease, attacking the branches and twigs of the plum, sour cherries, and sometimes sweet cherries. It is also common upon wild choke cherries, from whence it spreads to the orchards. Sometimes black-knot will be noticed sparingly in a community for several years before it seriously attacks cultivated trees, and this fact has caused people to become indifferent to it; but sooner or latter it will spread and become a most pernicious evil. Plum growing is abandoned in some parts of the Hudson river valley because of the incursions of black-knot, and a similar fate is likely to overtake any community which neglects it. It is the duty of every citizen to exert himself towards the extirpation of this pest.

Black-knot is a fungous disease, and the most reliable treatment yet known is to cut off the knots and burn them. This operation should be done just as soon as the leaves fall, at the latest. Good plum growers inspect the trees once or twice during the summer if black-knot is feared. Always burn the knots; if they are not destroyed the spores of the fungous will still develop, even after the knot is cut from the tree. The old knot often contains worms; but these only burrow in the spongy tisues; they do not cause the disease.

Wanted to Make Sure.

"IF THE SHIP WAS GOING DOWN, HE WOULD GET DRUNK.

I came over from Eegland on the Umbria the time she broke her shaft, said the tall man in the mackintosh, and there was a funny thing happened on the day after the accident.

Tell us, demanded his companions.

There was an Englishman on board who was very much worried, apparently, about the safty of the ship. Early in the morning he hunted up the captain and said, Excuse me, captain, but is hall 'opes over.

Why no, said the captain: we're all right. We'll get through in good shape.

The Englishman appeared satisfied and walked away. Half an hour later he hunted the captain up again and said: Excuse me captain but is hall 'opes over now?

No, said the capta in, there's no danger.

The Englishman went away again. Half an hour later he came back and asked the same question. He kept it up at regular intervals all day. Finally along about 6 o'clock, the captain got mad, and, when he again asked the question, grasped him by the collar and shouted: See here you dod blamed idiot! What you mean by asking that fool question so many times?

Why captain, stammered the cockney, Hi didn't mean no 'arm. Hi was merely inquiring because hi'i'm a teetotaler, and hif hall 'opes was over Hi intended getting blind drunk.

Hall's Hair Renewer is pronounced the best preparation made for thickening the growth of the hair and restoring that which is gray to its original color.

having 50 on her limbs, and being unable to walk. I had heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and bought a bottle, half of which cured entirely. Two years after, another child was afflicted as badly. I used the other half bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla with like results. About four years after, the child first afflicted was again tormented like Job, and I bought a bottle (on Sunday at that) and again a cure. I gave some of the medicine to a poor woman and two children; they were helped as were mine. Through a testimonial sent to C. I. Hood & Co., inquiries came from all the country, asking if it was a 'bona fide' testimonial, and of course I wrote all that it was, and have the knowledge of

Of persons helped or cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mild cases of rheumatism have yielded to it. Biliousness and bad liver have been corrected in my own family. This is the only patent medicine I have felt like praising. I speak not for C. I. Hood, but for the Jobs who are impatient and are tormented beyond endurance. Nothing I know of will cleanse the blood, stimulate the liver, or clean the stomach so perfectly as
