I heard the bells on Christmas Day, Their old familiar carols play:

The world revolved from night to day, A voice, a chime,

And in despair I bowed my head,

'There is no peace,' I said,

For hate is strong And mocks the song Of peace on earth, good-will to men.

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:

With peace on earth, good-will to men." CENTRAL METHODIST OHURCH

Just Christmas

And right here The Standard wishes all the readers of this age the merriest of Christmases. Here's hoping you were showered with remembrances from a host of friends; that your Christmas cake and plum pudding did not "fall" in the rush, and you were lucky enough to secure a fine big turkey, the crowning feature of your Christmas dinner.

Just a word to the children. Did Santa Claus call at your house? You betcher! How many stayed awake and heard his eindeers patter on the roof and peeked to see jolly old St. Nick himself eramming your stocking with good things? Not a one. How many are glad that the horrible strain of having to be good is at last over and a "feller" can waver a bit without the threat of an empty stocking hanging over his head-(unani-

Some one at the Connaught school was responsible for a happy little Christmas idea this week. The children were asked to bring all their old toys that were broken or of which they were tired. Such showers of them came, and in a twinkling they were whisked away to the manual training department. There they were mended. Then the "big" girls got busy and dressed all the dolls. After these preparations the children from the Children's Shelter were invited to a party at Connaught school. All these toys were given to them, while the daintiest supper prepared by the domestic science class awaited them in the domestic science rooms. It was a very jolly party, and will be remembered by the children at the shelter.

The teachers at the Sacred Heart school held interesting entertainments for the pupils at the close of the school term. The pupils in the departments presided over by Miss Walsh and Miss Doyle, held a skating party, while those in the rooms of Miss Bourque and Miss Cox held a Children's party. The rooms in this school building were appropriately decorated for the Christmas season, and the blackboards contained very pretty drawings, the work of the teachers and the older pupils.

Speaking of Children's parties there is to be a grand fancy dress one at the Palliser hotel next Wednesday night from seven to nine o'clock, to which every child in the city is invited. There is only a small admission for the entire evening, the features of which will be a grand march, games, etc. This party is under the auspices of the Sir Richard Grenville Chapter I. O. D. E.

On Friday, at the Children's Shelter, the forty juvenile in-mates enjoyed a beautiful Christmas tree, resplendent with glittering decorations. Gifts, fruit and candy were distributed, and the occasion was a truly happy one.
