Fun and Fancy.

A one-sided view—The profile. The sham-rock—A boulder on the stage. Egmont is the I dear of most everybody.

Though the East River bridge is without a rival it has two piers. A misical says he only saw one poem illustrated in Fiji, and that was "Nothing to Wear."

During the recent sham-battle in New Jersey a number of the participants were seriously injured, and it is reported that they have all applied for pensions.

One thousand dollars in gold weighs four pounds. That is way so many newspaper men are round shouldered.

When woman's heart overflows with grief, The streams of sadness quickly rise, And instantly she takes to her eyes, By dropping crystals from her eyes.

But man has not a woman's grace; When overborne by sorrow's throes, He simply covers up his face, And blows in trumpet tones his nose.

Whoever doubts that the newspapers have a mission should enter a car and see how useful they are to men when a fat woman with a big basket is looking around for a seat.

There is growing conviction that two pictures of the same fellow in a young lady's album mean something more than friendship for the old man.

A dandy, strutting about a tavern, took up a pair of green spectacles which lay on the table, put them on his nose, and, turning to the looking-glass, said, "Landlord, how do these become me?"

"Don't you think they improve my looks?" "I think they do," replied the landlord, "they hide a part of your face."

"Don't like the bed?" said the hotel clerk, astonished at the presumption of the complaining guests: "Why, some of the best people, some of the highest-decked folks have slept in it!" "Yes, that's just the trouble," responded the guest: "I found last night that there were altogether too many big bugs in it for the comfort of common people like me."

"How is it you are so punctual at the office every morning, Sam?" "You must have an excellent alarm at your house," "Yes, indeed, and a cheap one. You see, every evening, before going to bed, I put the cradle under the 'Black forest' clock, with the weights directly under the baby's head. Punctually at 3 o'clock in the morning there is an earthly yell, and I know what it has just struck."

UNPARALLELED ECONOMY.—The old gentleman went into the parlor the other night at the watching hour of 11.75, and found the room unlighted and his daughter and a dear friend occupying a teta-tete in the corner by the window.

"Evangeline," the old man said, sternly, "this is scandalous." "Yes, papa," she answered sweetly, "it is candleless, because times are so hard, and lights cost so much, that Ferdinand and I said we would try and get along with the star-light." And papa, turned about in speechless amazement, and tried to walk out of the room through a panel in the wall paper!

Words of Wisdom.

The generous heart should scorn a pleasure which gives others pain. One ungrateful man does an injury to all who stand in need of aid.

He who knows his power, doubles it; he who is distrustful of it destroys it. Do all the good you can, to all the people you can, in every place you can, and as long as you can.

I have seldom known anyone who deserted truth in trifles that could be trusted in matters of importance. Always speak the truth. Make few promises. Live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets if you have any.

If there is any person to whom you feel a dislike in the person of whom you ought never to speak.

BE GENTLEMAN AT HOME.—It is cruel and cowardly in any man to speak to the woman under his own roof in a manner that would forever disgrace him if heard under any other. And yet how many do it, selfishly forgetting the tears and bitterness they have caused, and selfishly expecting, if they remember it at all, that on their return the domestic sky will be without a cloud. More the pity when it is their wife; indeed, it is there danger in the air; for then too often come deceit, and hypocrisy, and indifference.

WANTED—AN EASY PLACE.—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher some time since received a letter from a young man, who recommended himself very highly as being honest, and closed with the request, "Get me an easy situation, that honesty may be rewarded." To which Mr. Beecher replied: "Don't be an editor, if you would be easy." Do not try the law. Avoid school-keeping. Keep out of the pulpit. Let alone all ships, stores, shops, and merchandise. Abhor politics. Keep away from lawyers. Don't practice medicine. Be not a farmer nor a mechanic; neither a soldier nor a sailor. Don't study. Don't think. Don't work. None of them are easy. Oh, my honest friend, you are in a very hard world! I know of but one real 'easy' place in it. That is the grave.

Now that there is a reliable remedy for kidney troubles, all the terrors attached to these complaints have been removed. For this let all be thankful, and to Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure award all praise for having thus removed a hitherto considered fatal disease from our path. It was never known to fail. Sold by J. Wilson.

The difference between a cat and a woman is that one has the claws at the end of the paw, while the other has the claws at the end of the clause.

John R. Vert, Hamilton, says: "McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia and Indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot." Free trial bottles at G. Rhynas drug store. Regular size 50 cts. and $1.

A Resolution.

"At midnight last night," said the old man in a solemn voice, as he looked up and down the aisles; "at midnight last night de specter of Brudder Climax Goshport, a local member of dis club, passed from y'arth to de unknown. Only a week ago he sat in dis hall; to-night he am dressed for de grave. What ackshun will de club take?"

"I s'pose, sah," said the Rev. Penstock, as he rose up, "dat it am in order to present a resolution to de effect: dat he was a man of de highest integrity, liberal-hearted, high-minded, an' dat his loss am a sad blow to de hull city."

"Yes, such a resolution am in order. Brudder Penstock, can you remember you eber took Brudder Goshport by de hand am gin him a word of praise for his hard work an' honest ways?"

"I—doan remember dat I eber did, sah."

"Am dar a pussion in dis hall who kin remember dat he ever put himself out to favor Brudder Goshport?"

"Not a man answered."

"Kin any of you remember dat you took any particular interes in how he got along?"

"Not a voice was heard in reply. 'To be a little plainer,' continued the president, 'am dar one single pussion in dis hall who eber felt five cents' worth of anxiety for Brudder Goshport's worldly or spiritual welfare?'"

The hall was so quiet that the sound of Elder Teets rubbing his back on the sharp edge of a window-casting gave everybody a start.

"Not a man in dis hall club—not a man in dis hull city, so far as we know, eber put himself out to do a favor for or speak a word in praise of our lamented brudder an' yet we have de cheek to talk of a resolution settin' forth his many virtues an' our heart-felt sorrow. No, sir! We doan't pass on sich bizness heah! I should be ashamed to look his widder in de face, if we did. It am de way of de world to let men alone just when a leetle help would give 'em a broad and easy road. We h'er of dis man or dat man havin' done de gratitude of de people, but 'we doan't' dar of it until he am dead."

When a man has gone from y'arth de papers an' de public suddenly diskliver how honest he was; what a big heart he had; how much good he wuz allus doin'; an' what a los to de world his death will prove. De time to praise a man is when he am livin' beside us. Praise hurts nobody, but many a good man has grown weary for de want of appreciation. Heah am seventy-two of us in dis hall to-night, an' we have to own up dat not one of us eber went out our way to prove to our brudder dat his gentle ways, his spair-lealin', and his upright life war any mo' 'preciated by us dan if he had bin a hoss-thief! 'An' to pass a resolution would be to brand ourselves hypocrites. Let no man dare offer one."

Shall We Know Each Other There.

The minister of a fashionable church once preached a beautiful sermon on this subject. He drew the picture of a very beautiful heaven. We would walk in sunlight groves, by the music of waterfalls and gaze out upon Amaranthine fields.

And then, too, 'we shall know each other there,' said the minister, and then added, 'there'll be no strangers in the New Jerusalem; we'll all be friends.'

"Beautiful!" said Deacon Slam, as he trotted down the aisle.

"A lovely sermon!" said Miss Simpkins, as she put her bony hand into the minister's. "She was stopped by a poor mechanic who came up and addressed the preacher:

"Mr. —, I am glad we shall recognize each other up there."

"Yes," said the minister, "it is one of the greatest consolations of our religion."

"Well, I'm right glad we shall know each other. It will be a great thing though; for I have attended your church for over four years, and none of the members of this society have recognized me yet. But—we shall all know each other there."

Training the Boy.

A gentleman walking with his son suddenly stopped. 'Look,' he said, 'there's a bit of iron—a piece of an old horse shoe; put it in your pocket.'—'It is not worth stopping for,' answered the lad. The father picked up the iron and put it in his pocket. When they came to a village he entered the blacksmith's shop and sold it for three-farthings, with which sum of money he bought some cherries. Then the father and son set off again on their ramble. The sun was hot, and neither a house, tree nor fountain of water was in sight. The son complained of being tired, and had some difficulty in following his father. Perceiving that his boy was tired, the father let fall a cherry, as if by accident, and quickly the little fellow picked it up and ate it. Soon the father dropped another and the boy picked it up as eagerly as before; and thus they continued till the fruit was all gone. When the last one was eaten, the father stopped, and turning to the boy said, 'Look, my son! If you had chosen to stoop once to pick up a piece of horse shoe, you would not have been obliged to stoop so often to pick up the cherries.'
