TULSA, Russia, Nov. 17.
Count Tolstoy is still alive and even said to be slightly improved this morning. His condition, however, continues critical and for many hours the symptoms have been such as to give rise to frequent reports that the end had come. Such a report emanated from Moscow last night, and it was some time before its falsity could be established. The aged author, passed a restless night at the home of his station master at Astanovka, to which he was removed when illness seized him during his attempted pilgrimage from Shamadino to the Caucasus, where he had hoped to end his days in solitude. Countess Tolstoy has not been admitted to the sick chamber, and even the fact of her arrival has been kept secret from Tolstoy, lest the knowledge of her coming might overexcite the Count. The latter was not pleased when the presence of his son Sergius was made known to him. When Sergius entered the room and was recognized by his father, he was plainly angry and showed his annoyance by asking, "Why have you come, and how did you know I was here?" At the same time Tolstoy was delighted at the arrival of his friend, Count Vladimir Tshetkov. The latter remained constantly at his bedside with physicians. His physicians have informed him by allowing him to read the newspapers and also to look over his latest and favorite book, Hamlet. He has been permitted even to dictate to his daughter, Alexandra a part of a new article.

MADRID, Nov. 17.
The new project of obligatory military service, now under discussion in the Senate, threatened to complicate the relations between the Spanish Government and the Vatican further, as it does not exempt either the secular or the monastic clergy. The Bishop of Madrid, voicing the clerical protest which characterizes the bill as the most anti-clerical feature of the ministerial programme, declares that it violates the canonical law authorizing ecclesiastical communities, and is especially offensive in that it would deplete the ranks of the clergy. The measure also arouses a protest in a section of the Press on the ground that instead of abolishing the abuse of the old regime under which substitutes could be purchased, which was the cause of the rising in Catalonia last year, it authorizes a system whereby recruits may be discharged after several months' service by the payment of an indemnity, thus continuing the discrimination in favor of those possessed of money.

An apparently unsupported statement issued to-day fixes Nov. 28 as the date for the dissolution of Parliament. The Government, it is asserted, desire to pass the budget before appealing to the country, the debate on the financial measure proceeding in the House of Commons while the Lords are discussing the Veto bill. That the Irish Dictator will figure largely in the Unionist campaign was indicated by the ex-ment at the annual conference of the Conservative Association at Nottingham this morning, when Henry Chaplin, Unionist member of Parliament for Wimbledon and former President of the Local Government Board, in an opening speech denounced the Government, who, he said, was herding over the rule of the country to the sworn enemy of England with the gold of foreign millionaires aspires to dictate our destinies.

The French Government has announced its formal acceptance of the American proposal to refund the debt of Liberia. This, however, is made conditionally, upon the ratification of the frontier delimitation and agreement that Liberia shall grant liberty of commerce to France and that France shall have a right to maintain certain military posts which will be evacuated as soon as acceptable and Liberian forces are substituted. It was further announced that the U. S. had given assurance that the conditions would be met.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

Edens' Grocery Entered

At 10.45 last night as some citizens were passing near T. J. Edens' grocery store on the corner of Military Road and Rawlins' Cross, they noticed a flickering light there and some thought that the store was on fire. Just then Mr. Wm. Fanning, of the Duckworth Street branch of the firm, came along, became suspicious, and calling officer Power, drew his attention to the episode, and running to Mr. Edens' residence on Queen's Road told him of what was transpiring. Mr. Edens was quickly on the scene and on opening the store he and the officer and Fanning entered. Mr. Edens found the hatch leading from the shop to the basement forced open, and noticed that a stout wooden bar which had secured it was broken in two. The cellar hatch outside had been left open through neglect, and the marauder, whoever he was, made his entrance by this. By this time Supt. Grimes, Inspector Collins and other officers had arrived and a thorough search of the premises was made, but no person could be found in hiding. Neither the till, register nor safe had been tampered with. In the latter were most of the proceeds of the day's sales. Mr. Edens checked the register and found everything O. K. He also went through the place this morning before the employees came and found a paper bag of cigars of a brand which they sell on the ground near the hatch, and these no doubt the man dropped as he fled from the place, which evidently was caused by his hearing the people talk outside. Six times in a few years this store has been entered at night, the last time being six months ago, when a pick axe was found driven through the shop floor.

Stole a Pair of Boots.

A sneak thief stole a pair of boots from the store of Mr. Thos. Peel, Water Street, last night about 7 o'clock. A citizen who saw him 'colored him and held him till the police came. Inspector Collins knew the man well and wanted Mr. Peel to make a charge against him. This he refused to do as the man gave up the boots and pleaded to him for mercy. The boots would have been no use to him had he got away as they were two left ones, which he took in his hurry to get away.

Let your next toothbrush be a Rubberset. The bristles of this brush are embedded in solid rubber, which makes it virtually impossible for them to come out in use. The consequence is that you get the full amount of use out of the Rubberset. It will outwear a couple of ordinary tooth-brushes, besides it is sanitary you may hang it up on the little hook provided, and it drains thoroughly. The handle being made of celluloid, does not discolor. Altogether, it may be called the perfect tooth-brush. Adults and children's sizes. Price 40c. each.

A Good "Ad."

for Newfoundland

During the recent election in New York photos of Newfoundland were exhibited to about 10,000 people at a time in the intervals while the returns to put on the bulletin boards were being waited for. The pictures were shown in nine different places including Madison Square, Herald Square and Times Square. The pictures continued to be shown at intervals for about six hours, and as the crowd was changing all the time it is estimated that 70,000 people must have seen the views of our country and Labrador. The pictures were furnished by the Reid Nfld. Co.

Stole Horse and Cart.

A horse and cart belonging to Mr. P. Kavanagh while standing opposite Connors' saloon last evening, about 6.45, was stolen while the driver—Doyle—was gone to get a feed of oats for the horse. When he came out the outfit was gone. He spent the whole night in search of the team. This morning a phone came from McNell's on the Waterford Bridge Road that the horse was there standing on the road with the cart attached.

Holland Fortifying.

The Belgians are concerned because Antwerp would be isolated in event of war.
Public opinion in Belgium is somewhat occupied with the project recently made public in Holland of fortifying the mouth of the Scheldt. The expenditure foreseen by the Dutch Government for this object amounts to forty million florins, the greater part of which is being devoted to the construction of a fort near Flushing. The Belgians are concerned at this plan, as one of its consequences would be to isolate Antwerp in the event of war. People here have always reckoned that the Belgian commercial metropolis—namely, Antwerp—could always be within the friendly reach of the British fleet should a European war break out. But with a double range of fortifications on the Scheldt, Antwerp would be at the mercy of any Continental invader. The project of fortifying the Scheldt has therefore produced a disagreeable impression in Belgium, and has naturally shattered any further hope of a Belgian-Dutch rapprochement. No More Dusty Roads.

English Engineer Finds Cure by Mixing Granite and Bitumen.

It looks as if a cure for dusty roads has been found at last, thanks to several years' painstaking experimenting by Mr. Francis Wood, borough engineer at Fulham. The material is a mixture of two-inch granite with Trinidad Lake bitumen. Mr. Wood laid a portion of a road in Fulham with this combination, and although it has been traversed by about two thousand vehicles daily, including automobiles, steam lorries and heavy carts, it shows no sign of wear or dust.

Another Alleged Outrage Up North.

We learn from people who recently arrived from the Northward that a married woman residing at a settlement not far removed from King's Cove, recently complained that a man, a resident of the same place, made a determined effort to indecently assault her. She repulsed his advances and made a statement of the case to the policeman there. The person against whom she has made the complaint is a man of substance and standing, and it is likely he will be hailed before the court to answer the charge preferred against him.

Nutritive Hypophosphites.

When a person feels "blue"—all tired out—"doesn't feel like doing anything"—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic. Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to family cares, overstudy, etc. Nutritive Hypophosphites forms the best nerve and brain food known, and have restored thousands of sufferers to health. Large bottle, $1.00.
