Gotch-Hackenschmidt Wrestling Match.

(By Ed. Smith, Sporting Editor of the Chicago American and Referee of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt Match.)

Matside, Chicago, September 5.—The wrestling championship of the world remains at Humbolt, Iowa. It took Frank Gotch, who made this town famous, just nineteen minutes and 50 seconds to topple over George Hackenschmidt, who has thus twice failed to wrest the world's highest wrestling honors from the sturdy Iowa.

Gotch secured the first fall with a reverse body lock in 14 minutes and 15 seconds; the second fall required exactly 5 minutes 32 1-5 seconds. According to the general comment, Hackenschmidt entered the ring a beaten man. He looked a loser. Gotch, supremely confident, was master of the situation at all stages. In a frenzied scene that lasted fifteen minutes, backers of George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," rushed the lobby of the Morrison Hotel, where Frank A. Gotch is staying, and bet $15,000 that Hackenschmidt would beat the Iowa wonder.

From noon to 1.30 arrivals were continuous. The crowd came in every conceivable sort of conveyance from pony carts to the largest of touring cars. The streets for blocks were crowded with autos.

Many Women There. The fair sex was well represented. More than a hundred women occupied front seats as early as noon.

Many ladies were escorted by their husbands and sweethearts. While one group of the fair ones came in a body declaring themselves school maams and their mission an educational one.

Fifteen thousand people were in at the ringside before noon. The bleachers were packed long before that hour. In the grand stand approximately 5,000 were holding down seats before the going rang for luncheon.

The Preliminary Bouts. An enormous crowd of wrestling enthusiasts yelled with delight when Charlie Postle "the Butcher-boy" and Young Sampson, of New York, appeared in the opening preliminary catch-as-catch-can, best two in three falls.

The men weighed 156 and 158 pounds respectively. The good-natured gathering increased in proportion every minute. It was admitted on all sides that hereafter wrestling events or any other similar contests ought to be held in the open air whenever possible.

The weather proved delightful. It is one of those rare September afternoons, sunny, yet cool, for which Chicago is famous. Postle won the first preliminary in straight falls, a scissors-arm hold in 15 minutes and a croch and half Nelson in 15 minutes.

In the second preliminary, Joe Rogers, who wrestled Hackenschmidt in London and gave him a tough fight, engaged Frank Erman, another well-known heavy weight.

Rogers took the bout with a body scissors and half Nelson in 8.13.

Men in the Ring. Frank A. Gotch entered the ring a few seconds before Hackenschmidt. He looked trained to the minute, and the crowd gave him an ovation as he waved his hand to Mrs. Gotch in the stand, who returned the salutation. Mrs. Gotch expressed entire confidence in the outcome.

Hackenschmidt was greeted with tremendous cheering as he came through the passage from his dressing-room and crawled through the ropes at 3 p.m.

The big Russian bowed to right and left, and as he stripped like Goliath, the crowd yelled again. Hackenschmidt was brown as a berry, and he grinned good-naturedly at the generous reception given him.

By order of Chief of Police McSweeney, it was announced a few minutes before the opening of the match that all bets were to be declared off at the request of the referee. This, of course, is a mere legal technicality.

At a Critical Stage.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Noon. French Ambassador left for Paris yesterday. The consensus of opinion of the English press is that negotiations between France and Germany are at a critical stage, which only time and cool headed reasoning, both at Berlin and Paris, can overcome.

Humoring a Lunatic.

Some years ago a very wealthy man in England got it into his head that he had lost all his money. To pacify him his sons told him that they had saved the remnants of the estate and were able to offer him employment as a clerk. At 57, a week he worked as happy as a prince for the last twenty years of his life. When he died his estate amounted to nearly $15,000,000.

Saying the Right Thing. "I don't seem to be able to say the right thing to women." "A bashful young man confided to us the other day, and that's why I don't shine in society. I'll tell you an instance of it. Not long ago I met a woman I hadn't seen for years, and I could see that she was trying to keep young. So I thought I'd say a graceful thing to her. "You carry your age remarkably well," said I. "Well, the moment I said it I could see that I was in the wrong. She was looking chilly and getting red, so I said: "Don't mind my little jokes—I never mean what I say. As a matter of fact, you don't carry your age a bit well." And then she killed me with a haughty look, and sailed away without saying good-bye. Say, how should I have put it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
