"Set a Thief"

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Set a thief to catch a thief," is an old and well-proven proverb, but I sometimes wonder if we realize to the full its meaning and possibilities. A friend of mine has a neighbour who is a kind-hearted person, but possessed of a weakness for gossip. She has a watchful eye which never misses any of the doings of the neighbourhood, a busy mind which never forgets them and a tongue which is ever ready to pass them on.

The other day my neighbour's daughter wanted to do a certain thing which, while not in any sense wrong, was unconventional. "I wouldn't mind at all," said her mother, "if I didn't know that Mrs. so-and-so would hold of it and talk it over with everyone in the neighbourhood. Perhaps, if you're careful, you can keep her from knowing anything about it."

"Never," said her daughter. "It could be fatal to try that. You leave it to me. I'll show you how to manage her."

She went straight to the lady in question and in the course of a little conversation mentioned what she wanted to do. "Of course you and I know it's perfectly all right," she said. "But some people are so quick to think ill."

"My dear," said the other woman, "shouldn't let that bother you a particle. You know you're doing nothing wrong and that's all there is to it."

To it. If I hear any gossip, I'll certainly put an end to it."

And she did—most effectively.

Set a character thief to catch a character thief, you see.

Utilizing The Bad Boy's Energy.

One day not long ago, I had carried my suit case to the foot of the street, when I remembered a neglected duty. I didn't want to carry the suit-case back with me and as that vicinity has a reputation for harbouring mischievous boys, I didn't want to leave it. Then I saw a group of the aforesaid youngsters sitting on a fence, and had a thought.

"You going to be here for a few minutes?" I asked them.

"They nodded.

"Want you to keep an eye on this and see that no one touches it?"

They Watched It With A Vengeance

Sure they would. And sure they did, even to the unexpectedly strenuous extent of punishing another youngster who happened along and started to investigate.

Set the energy that produces mischief to keep mischief in order, you see.

There's plenty of honesty in the thief and tenderness in the gossip and respect for property in the mischief maker, in short, good in everything and everybody if we will only appeal to it in the right way and range it against the very forces by which it has been overlaid and concealed.

A Better Way To Muzzle Her.

"Never," said her daughter. "It could be fatal to try that. You leave it to me. I'll show you how to manage her."

She went straight to the lady in question and in the course of a little conversation mentioned what she wanted to do. "Of course you and I know it's perfectly all right," she said. "But some people are so quick to think ill."

"My dear," said the other woman, "shouldn't let that bother you a particle. You know you're doing nothing wrong and that's all there is to it."

Archbishop Roche at Renew.

Sunday evening at 4.45 the Archbishop of the Holy See, His Grace Archbishop Roche, Very Rev. Fr. McDermott and Father McGrath arrived at Renew, unfortunately the weather was very unpropitious, rain coming in torrents preventing the gathering of the people to give expression of welcome. At the station His Grace and party were met by the venerable pastor, Rev. W. P. Doughty, P.P., who expressed the welcome which all the people desired to His Grace on this first visit to the Parish since his consecration. His Grace was greatly pleased to find so many arches erected, all having very appropriate mottoes and decorated with numerous flags of various nationalities, commemorating the late victory of the French. The principal arch at the entrance to the Presbytery was surmounted by a very large flag of France, the Red, White and Blue and alongside flew the flag of Belgium.

Next morning Mass was celebrated at 8.30 by His Grace at which great numbers attended, and immediately after Mass the people's address was read by Mr. Arthur O'Leary. To the address His Grace made a very gracious reply, thanking all for the royal reception given him, expressing his deeply felt feelings of thankfulness for this "Caud Mille Fauthe" welcome.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather His Grace went to Riverhead, Fermeuse, where he was the guest of Mr. John Morry, and to Admiral's where he addressed the good people thanking them for the whole-hearted reception accorded him. In each place the Church and School was visited the people were addressed by His Grace.

The Archbishop party then left amidst volleys of musketry and hearty cheers for Renew, where they remained the guests of the rev. pastor until 11 p.m. where they joined the incoming train for St. John's.

Applied for Commission

We understand that Lance Corporal Stan Lumsden has applied for a Commission as Second Lieutenant with the Newfoundland Regiment. Stan, it will be remembered, was wounded at the battle of Neuve Chapelle while fighting with the Princess Pats. He was invalided to England and after some time in hospital was attached to the clerical staff at the War Office. On seeing the Newfoundland Regiment at Aldershot he resolved to return to active service. Stan is a son of Mr. A. K. Lumsden, buyer for James Baird, Ltd.

Prohibition Campaign.

A meeting of the General Committee was held at the Prohibition headquarters, Smallwood Building, last night. Dr. H. M. Modell presiding. The Chairman gave a stirring address and the report of the Canvassing Committee was received with much enthusiasm. Meetings will be held every night at headquarters and on Monday and Wednesday nights public meetings will be held in the T. A. Armoury which has been placed at the disposal of the Committee by the T. A. and B. Society.

Mr. White presided at a meeting of the Canvassing Committee and arrangements were made for the distribution of literature and the commencement of active work on Monday night next.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

BOYS' STRIKE—The S. S. Palika is discharging flour for the Furness Withy Co., and some twelve of the boys engaged rolling the barrels from the side of the ship into the sheds knocked off, demanding more wages than they were getting. In about a quarter of an hour the trouble ended.

Questions for Prohibition People.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—May I be allowed to use your columns to ask the Prohibition people a few questions?

First and foremost may I say that I have a perfectly open mind on the Prohibition question—am neither for nor against—and have no particular, personal interest in the result of the ballot. I have, however, as a Newfoundland, the ultimate interest of my country at heart, and it is with this in view that I ask for enlightenment. To continue:

(1) Allowing for the sake of argument that the Revenue, as the Temperance advocates claim, will not be affected by Prohibition—a somewhat doubtful allowance, I think—if the Prohibition measure is carried it is only going to be a farce if smuggling is rife and the "shebeen" prevalent. This certainly will be the case unless both the Customs and Police forces are not greatly added to. Extra officials mean extra salaries, and in this instance many extra salaries. We are taxed as highly as we can be at present, and where, may I ask, is the money coming from to pay the additional salaries of the many extra officials it is going to be necessary to appoint?

(2) Will the embarrassment of the Government by the loss of duties and additional salary expense make Prohibition mean Confederation?

(3) Are we really such a hard drinking community as some of our Temperance friends would have us believe? A very large portion of our "bone and sinew" are at present fighting the battles of our country. Could these men have passed the strict medical test and the subsequent hard work if we were a drinking country? Certainly not. I doubt if there is a seaport town in the world where there is a less proportion of drunkenness than there is in Newfoundland.

Allowing that there are some whose families will be benefited by the abolition of the saloon, how do you propose to prevent these men from filling up on Bay Rum, Florida Water, Medicated Wines and such concoctions which may be bought almost anywhere? A man intoxicated from Bay Rum is very much more to be feared than a man suffering from an overdose of rum.

(4) We notice that over $4,000 has been collected for the Temperance Campaign. How is it proposed to expend this money? Would not this money be better expended in the temperance cause by the brightening of some of the poorer homes of the city with provisions and coal this winter?

(5) In many houses in the island a little brandy is kept in case of sudden illness or weakness—especially in the case of women. What substitute, in the event of Prohibition, is it suggested to provide? In many settlements it is impossible to obtain the services of a doctor at short notice to provide the necessary prescription, and many people cannot afford the services of a doctor for a slight illness. How is it proposed to "bring to" a woman suffering from sudden weakness? Read her a little temperance tract?

I intend signing this letter with a "non-de-plume" because, as I mentioned at the start, I am open to conviction either way on the matter of Prohibition being to the best interest of Newfoundland, but I am not anxious to have my name associated publicly with either party to the question, but, in conclusion, I claim the questions I ask are ones that any thinking man might well ask himself, and all that is asked for is enlightenment.

Yours truly,
NEWFOUNDLANDER.

A Word to the Wise.

Why pay more for less satisfactory results? Incandescent gas is at once the cheapest and the best form of illumination. It is the cheapest not only on account of its low initial cost, but also because by keeping the air in a room constantly moving gas is a powerful ventilating agent and therefore a foe to doctor's bills. Moreover, being "artificial daylight" it does not exercise a deleterious effect upon the eyesight. Children can work or read with perfect safety and comfort in a gas-lit room, and parents may thus avoid laying up for their youngsters the headaches and general "lack of tone" which eyestrain causes.

Gas may claim aesthetic as well as hygienic value. Modern gas fittings have been brought to a very high standard of artistic merit, and can be designed to harmonise with any period of decoration or furniture. Gas means household health, economy and beauty.
