[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, March 25 .- The Transcontinental debate promises to finish this week and run into next week. Today speech which had been begun yesterday was finished and two others

Hon. G. P. Graham in two hours ended the analysis of the report which commenced the day before with five hours' attention.

It is agreed by both sides that Mr. Graham has done a splendid piece of canada" formed the subject of a forcework. He said that the report of the investigators was an attack upon the integrity of the engineering profession traced the manner in which the presentations of the character in the chara own affairs, and the report was one which has seriously affected the credit of Canada in the money markets of the world."

Attack on Capitalization. The capitalization of the road had been attacked. The reply to this in the first place, was that it was the finest line in the world. If the United States lines of all classes had cost $64,000 per mile, the western American lines had cost $73,-000 per mile, while the Transcontinental, which was of a vastiy higher standard, and had been built through more difficult country, had cost but $85,000 per mile. The Algoma Central, through a similar region, had cost $152,000 per mile. Mr. Graham estimated the assistance given to the C. P. R. at five hundred million Projected as a Level Line. The road had been projected as a leve Under Mr. Cochrane, grades had tolerated, which would practically ruin the character of the road as at first projected. This would diminish its efficiency, and work a great injustice upon Canada, which had sought the construction of a perfect transportation system across the continent.

In conclusion, Hon. Mr. Graham moved an amendment, acensure on the Government, for accepting and submitting to Parliament a dishonest and misleading

BISHOP LAUDS THE WORK

Congratulates Women's Auxiliary on Remarkable Growth-Forceful Addresses Mark Continued Meeting of Organization in Cronyn Hall.

By a unanimous vote of the assemoled delegates to the Women's Auxiliary of Huron Diocese, now convening in Bishop Cronyn Hall, Mrs. (Rev.) G. B. Sage was re-elected president for the ensuing year, during the sessions yesterday afternoon. Balloting took place at luncheon hour, and when the afternoon meeting was called to order by His Lordship Bishop Williams, the following results were announced: First vice-president, Mrs. De la Hooke; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Richardson; recording secretary, Miss Taylor; cor-responding secretary, Mrs. Bartlett; treasurer, Mrs. Smith; dorcas secretary-treasurer, Miss Gower; secretarytreasurer, juniors, Mrs. (Rev.) Bowen; superintendent badies' branches, Miss Priddis; Zenana secretary-treasurer, Miss Battersby; convener educational committee, Mrs. Weller; E. C. D. fund, Mrs. Edwards; Indian affairs, Mrs. Robinson; non-Christian foreigners' affairs, Miss K. Elliott; nominating committee, Mrs. Callard committee, Mrs. Callard. Three new life members were added to Huron W. A. at the annual session.

They were, Mrs. Smith, of this city, widow of Canon Smith; Mrs. Edelstein, of Glanworth; and Mrs. Lloyd, Port Stanley.

Bishop Congratulates Auxiliary. Bishop Williams congratulated the Women's Auxiliary upon the wonderful thank offering which had been presented. Extra sums had been received since it was collected on Tuesday morning, and at latest report, it amounted to $1,006.98. This announcement was received with enthusiasm. "The relation of the W. A. to the Missionary Society of the Church in in Canada, that it was an attack upon ent unified methods of work had been the executive management of Canada arrived at. He described the old Doand that it was an attack upon the people of Canada. "It was announced that Canadians could not manage their of the formation of the Canadian Church Missionary Society, which branched off the parent organization. "The energies of the church in the mission field were divided. branches of the Women's Auxiliary worked for both. The Women's Auxiliary was not definitely connected with either organization. Although it was termed an "auxiliary," the title was but nominal-it remained practically an independent society, securing its own information about missionaries' needs, exercising its own discretion as to where it should send its missionaries, and so on," said his

On several occasions after the establishment of the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church, efforts were made to have the two societies work together. Especially after the decision of the Canadian Church to undertake the evangelizing of Honan, in China, the Canadian diocese in Japan, and Kangra, in India, the need of co-opera-tion was felt. It was not, however, unlast year that this was effected, but already the benefit of the present arrangement, whereby the Women's Auxiliary assumes the responsibility of work among the women and children in foreign fields, has been felt. Much has been accomplished, his lordship said, through concentration of effort, and co-operation of the two societies. The work was carried by means of a consultative committee consisting of eight members from the service committee, one but newly appointed by the W. A., it was recommended that all the branches be advised to investigate conditions of the new comer and non-churchgoer in each parish; that a permanent committee be established in London with representatives in each deanery to devise plans for carrying on this work under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary.

Work in Foreign Quarter. Mrs. F. P. Betts of this city, president of the junior branch of Memorial Church, told of the work that the girls had been carrying on amongst the foreign children in that parish. Many garments had been nade, and little treats provided, and in this way they were becoming acquainted with the new-comers. A good way to get the mothers interested was to hold mothers' meetings once a week, where cooking, sewing and other domestic branches might be taught, and the women influenced to attend church. The report of the social service committee was

Various reports of work undertaken by the W. A. in the diocese occupied the remainder of the afternoon. Mrs. Brown presented that of the junior branches; Mrs. Edwards the report of the Extracent-a-day Fund, and Mrs. Robison the report on Indian work. The zenana report was read by Miss Battersby, and that of the dorcas work by Miss Gower, the secretary-treasurer. This latter report contained some most important information. Ninety-one bales, valued at over $3,000, had been sent to various mission stations and hospitals in Northern Canada, and five bales to China containing articles for the lepers and orphans. A resolution of regret was passed at the decision of Mrs. Falls, corresponding secretary, to retire from her office.

Bishop Occupies Chair. A throng that filled Cronyn Hall to overflowing greeted Rev. Dr. Tucker and Rev. J. R. Shields Boyd, the two speakers, at the evening meeting. It was an enthusiastic audience, and the inspiring message brought by the speakers was loudly applauded at intervals. The Bishop of Huron occupled the chair and with him on the platform were some of the most prominent clergy in the diocese. The bishop, in his opening remarks, congratulated the auxiliary on the success of the undertaking, and also upon the substan tial increase in missionary giving which had been noticed during the They had given almost $9,000, which was within half of the whole amount contributed by the Church Missionary Society itself for the diocese. The men would have to look to their laurels, he said.

Address by Dr. Tucker. Dr. Tucker's address took the form of an illuminating account of the great work accomplished by the Edinburgh conference in furthering the cause of missions throughout the world. He himself was a delegate to that conference and was afterwards named as member of the continuation committee, which later accomplished a great deal in perpetuating the good results of the conference. The speaker reviewed briefly the conferences which preceded the great conference in Edinburgh. "But Edinburgh conference came as the climax of all these small conferences,' than a conference. Every member was delegated by some missionary society. We had from 1,200 to 1,500 delegates and they were not mere members, but had 175 missionary societies behind them.

Canon Tucker proceeded to relate in most interesting manner some of the good results which followed the conference, including the world tour by John R. Mott in the interests of missions. Its results will be felt for years to come throughout the world, he said. Address on "China."

"China" was the theme of the address by Rev. Boyd, and he had much first-hand information of interest to the only power that can hold China today," he said. "Her great need at the present time is great moral leaders, honest men of deep convictions. She is passing through a transition stage today and no prophet can foretell what the outcome will be, but I believe that the nation that was there in the dawn of history has good things ahead of it and is not going to break up just vet.

"We believe God's clock is going and there's a great work being done in he said in concluding his remarks. "Certainly there's a great opportunity. Today is China's day. Are we going to miss it?"
