JOHN S. BARNARD IS NAMED TRUSTEE BY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Takes Place Made Vacant by Dr. Teasdall's Death.

COMMITTEE CHANGES

Ray Lawson Succeeds F. E. Leonard on the Industrial Advisory Board.

At the meeting of the board of education yesterday afternoon, John S. Barnard was selected as trustee finish out the uncompleted term of Dr. W. J. Teasdall. The name of Finlay Marshall was also mentioned, but Mr. Barnard had a majority of the members of the board.

Ray Lawson was chosen as member of the industrial advisory committee to succeed F. E. Leonard, who resigned as his firm wished to tender for boilers for the Technical School. He did not consider that he could hold the position and tender for supplies. William Yeates was nominated by Thomas Rowe, but the majority favored Mr. Lawson. Mr. Barnard was given Dr. Teasdall's place on No. 2 committee.

Will Put Clocks On. The board will adopt the daylight saving idea on Monday morning next. There was some discussion as to the legality of the change, but the board thought it advisable and decided to move the clocks on an hour. W. W. Nobbs was selected as a member of the advisory committee of the Industrial School, to succeed the late Inspector Edwards reported that the enrollment of the public schools was 7,558, an increase of 119 for the year. The average attendance was 6,760, an increase of 192. There were 761 boys enrolled in manual training, and 807 girls in household science. The Nurses' Report. The school nurses discovered 75 pupils with defective breathing, 47 with defective vision, 288 with carlous teeth. Two had glasses fitted, and one had a glass-eye fitted, while 15 had teeth filled, 14 had tonsils and adenoids removed, and 2 were sent to the Byron Preventorium. The boundaries of the Lorne avenue will be settled by the board.

There are 71 full-time students enrolled in the day Technical and Art School, with an average attendance of the special afternoon classes.
