

ARBITRATION GIVES GOOTSON $7,930 AS PRICE OF LAND

Order Railway Commission to Pay Costs, Too.

OFFER WAS FOR $5,000

Property Expropriated for L.
& P. S. R. Car Barns to Cost
Almost $3,000 More.

The award of the arbitration board in the case of the London Railway Commission vs. Maurice Gootson was taken up today by Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons, and allowed Gootson $7,930. The amount offered by the city was $5,000, and this Gootson refused to accept at the time of the action.

Judge Macbeth and Edmund Meredith, K.C., agreed to award the $7,930, but Judge Barron ordered that $7,000 be paid to Gootson, and that the third arbitrator be selected by the city.

The London Railway Commission will have to pay all costs of the arbitration, and the statute makes special provision that in case the amount awarded is greater than the amount offered, the commission must pay the difference.

The action in the first place was instituted against the London and Port Stanley Railway, to recover damages and value of property expropriated for the commission for the purpose of erecting new car barns. The property was formerly used by Gootson as a junk yard, situated at the corner of Philip and Maitland streets.

Owing to inability to reach an agreement following the London Railway Commission's offer of $5,000, the property was expropriated. Gootson at the original action claimed the property worth a great deal more than the commission offered, because of its close proximity to the London Rolling Mills, which was one of his best customers in the purchase of junk.

Following Gootson's refusal to accept the offer of $5,000, the matter was submitted for arbitration, the board consisting of Judge Macbeth, Judge Barron of Stratford and Edmund Meredith, K.C.

Deliberated "Two Days." After two days' deliberations, the sealed award was handed into the surrogate court on Saturday, June 24.

At the sittings of the board new evidence was submitted by Sheriff Cameron and others as to the estimated value of the property. The award has remained since in the surrogate court vault pending an agreement between the two parties as to the settlement of arbitration fees. This was finally adjusted today, and the award immediately taken up by Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons.

The case has created more than unusual interest.

"I am perfectly satisfied with the award," said Gootson, when spoken to today.

TOURIST TRAFFIC TO BRITAIN IS INCREASING

Londoners, No Longer Afraid of Submarines, Travel Freely.

Ocean travel out of London this summer shows a decided increase over last year, the difference being due to the belief in the decreased submarine activity.

Last summer travel to European ports was very light, tourists not daring to take the chances then on account of the many submarine attacks on passenger ships.

Since then, thanks to the British navy, the submarine zone is non-existent, and tourists are going in considerably larger numbers this summer. In order to discuss the difference between the two periods, several passenger boats, formerly used in the Mediterranean as transports, have gone again into their regular business.

Fourteen leave London this week for Liverpool, some by Montreal and others by New York.

There will be a vote at the next municipal election on the question as to whether or not the people want a municipal paving plant.

This has been a much discussed question during the past few years, and the whole matter will be settled by a vote.

NO CHECK YET

The celebrated check for $8,000, which the city was to receive for the land leased for military purposes, has not yet arrived at the city hall, neither has a letter from Sir Sam Hughes, explaining why the camp was moved from London.

There is not much concern about Sir Sam's explanation. There is much concern about the $8,000.

COMING TO TERMS

There will be a meeting of the special street railway committee on Thursday evening to discuss the differences between the city and company. Matters are not in a state of statu quo, so to speak, but it is expected that everything will be straightened away at this session.

The company will yield on every point provided that an understanding is arrived at relative to the paving to be done this year.
