

IT IS IMPORTANT TO BUSINESS MEN

THAT ALL IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS AND PAPERS BE KEPT IN SAFETY IN THE STRONG ROOM OF THE TRUSTS CORPORATION OF ONTARIO

Canadian Bank of Commerce Building, 19 and 21 King-street West. These Vaults are the largest and finest in the Dominion and were specially designed and built to afford COMPLETE PROTECTION against fire and robbery.

ROBBERY OR FIRE

Boxes of all sizes at low rentals. Vault space or valuable packages, etc. A. E. PLUMMER, Manager.

charge of the supplies for the Naamith Company. The company occupies a warehouse adjoining the Hyams warehouse. There was a stone wall 14 or 15 inches thick between the two premises. There was a break in the wall large enough for a man to get through. There was a board partition or rather, some planks perhaps, such as 75 in height, extending across the wall.

The testimony of Thomas Brage, taken under commission at Cleveland, was read by Mr. Louie. Brage was manager of Naamith at the time of the robbery. He corroborated the evidence of McCarty with respect to the latter's duties as cellerman in the premises adjoining the Hyams warehouse. He also corroborated the story of McCarty with respect to the break in the wall, and to the fact that notices in the Hyams cellar could be heard in the Naamith cellar.

McCarty said he used to get down to work Monday morning about 5:30 in the afternoon. He had to remain there until breakfast for the customers and help had been served, and did not usually go home until a quarter to nine or nine o'clock, but generally it was later, sometimes 9:30. Witness said he was in the stock room at the warehouse attending his duties on the day Wells was killed. Witness continued, "I was in the habit of hearing about something every morning. This morning I heard a man whistling, then I heard other noises, nothing unusual, but it might have been coal. Then I heard a crash that I took as indicating something unusual had happened."

He heard the Bell Thud I heard a quick, dull thud first, then a crash, which, too, something had happened to the elevator. I had heard the whistling up to the time, but heard no whistling more after that. I heard what sounded to be footsteps, where I could not exactly say. It might have been 15 minutes or more after the crash, I took the footsteps as coming in on the ground floor of the adjoining warehouse, but could not say I heard them in the cellar. I couldn't say exactly how many steps. Then I heard a shout and cry which sounded to me like some one crying out to another. I don't know the exact name. It might have been "Bill" or "Will" or "A. E. Plummer."

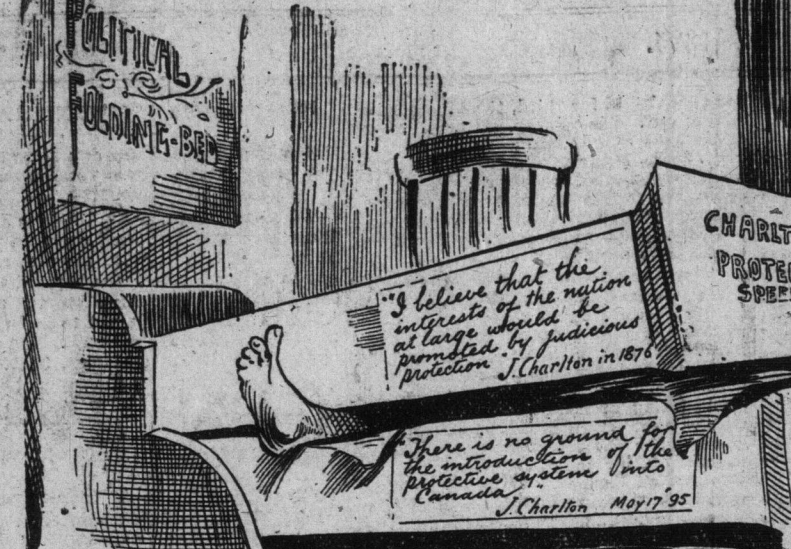

Witness then told of his experience after leaving the Naamith Company and going into the grocery business, and his experience, like that of Mr. Preston, had been a failure. Since then he had traveled through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan looking for work and had succeeded in pulling down a building and acted as salesman for a chewing gum manufacturer. Mr. Oler, a man who crossed the witness, bringing this witness, McCarty said he had been living in Toronto since March of last year. He had not been earning much money here since, although he had worked for a few friends. He thought he earned $75 a week. "Did that keep your family?" asked Mr. Oler. "No, it did not."

Witness denies that any person had seen him in Detroit on behalf of the defense. He came to Toronto, he said, to visit his family. His father-in-law was the first man in Toronto he spoke to about the defense. This was a day or two after he came back. "You stopped earning money in Detroit came to Toronto to get away from the trial," he said. "You spoke to your father-in-law about the defense?" "Yes." Then Mr. Oler asked McCarty to state when in Detroit he could earn $3 a day if he had success, but could earn $10 a day if he failed. "And yet you left that position and remained here 2-1/2 months and earned but $10 in that time, not sufficient to keep your family; is that correct?" "Yes."

Witness said he intended to go back to Detroit as soon as he could after the trial. He couldn't say the exact number of times he had been seen by Mr. Horn about the evidence he was able to give. He might have been in Mr. Horn's office three or four times, but he didn't think he had been there on a dozen occasions. He had been in another law office on this side of the street. Witness said he left Naamith's about the year 1894 or 1895. He could not tell the year the tragedy occurred, but he knew it was in the winter time and he thought it was a year or a year and a half before he left Naamith's. After thinking the matter over he said it was in 1893 or 1892, if he could recollect. He thought it was the month of January, but it might be February. He could, however, remember the day of the week all right, because he had exceptional hours on that day. He could not tell the month he started business near the mouth he failed, although it was the only time he had been in business for himself. Witness was positive, however, that he was "sorting eggs" when he heard the noise in the cellar on the day of the tragedy. He had used the bell in Naamith's that morning more than once, but did not recollect how many times. McCarty would say that he saw that he heard the coal rattling the morning of the tragedy.

Knew the Whistle, But Not the Tunes. McCarty said he was prepared to swear that he heard the whistle, although it was 2-1/4 years since, but he could not remember the notes whether it was a tune. He thought the whistling ceased about the time of the tragedy. Witness said this morning with Mr. Horn when a man purchased a book. The coming back to the opening in the wall witness said the opening led into a space between the weight boxes. It was open sufficiently to allow any person to get into the cellar. It was near where the back entrance, came into Naamith's on the east side. J. W. Siddall, architect, exhibited elaborate plans of the exterior and interior of the hoist, the plans of ground floor and basement being prepared under instructions from Mr. Horn and another man whose name he thought to be McDermott. The testimony of Thomas Brage, taken under commission at Cleveland, was read by Mr. Louie. Brage was manager of Naamith at the time of the robbery. He corroborated the evidence of McCarty with respect to the latter's duties as cellerman in the premises adjoining the Hyams warehouse. He also corroborated the story of McCarty with respect to the break in the wall, and to the fact that notices in the Hyams cellar could be heard in the Naamith cellar.

"TURNED DOWN."

BROTHER CHARLTON HAS AN UNHAPPY EXPERIENCE WITH HIS POLITICAL FOLDING BED.

McCarty said he used to get down to work Monday morning about 5:30 in the afternoon. He had to remain there until breakfast for the customers and help had been served, and did not usually go home until a quarter to nine or nine o'clock, but generally it was later, sometimes 9:30. Witness said he was in the stock room at the warehouse attending his duties on the day Wells was killed. Witness continued, "I was in the habit of hearing about something every morning. This morning I heard a man whistling, then I heard other noises, nothing unusual, but it might have been coal. Then I heard a crash that I took as indicating something unusual had happened."

He heard the Bell Thud I heard a quick, dull thud first, then a crash, which, too, something had happened to the elevator. I had heard the whistling up to the time, but heard no whistling more after that. I heard what sounded to be footsteps, where I could not exactly say. It might have been 15 minutes or more after the crash, I took the footsteps as coming in on the ground floor of the adjoining warehouse, but could not say I heard them in the cellar. I couldn't say exactly how many steps. Then I heard a shout and cry which sounded to me like some one crying out to another. I don't know the exact name. It might have been "Bill" or "Will" or "A. E. Plummer."

Witness then told of his experience after leaving the Naamith Company and going into the grocery business, and his experience, like that of Mr. Preston, had been a failure. Since then he had traveled through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan looking for work and had succeeded in pulling down a building and acted as salesman for a chewing gum manufacturer. Mr. Oler, a man who crossed the witness, bringing this witness, McCarty said he had been living in Toronto since March of last year. He had not been earning much money here since, although he had worked for a few friends. He thought he earned $75 a week. "Did that keep your family?" asked Mr. Oler. "No, it did not."

Witness denies that any person had seen him in Detroit on behalf of the defense. He came to Toronto, he said, to visit his family. His father-in-law was the first man in Toronto he spoke to about the defense. This was a day or two after he came back. "You stopped earning money in Detroit came to Toronto to get away from the trial," he said. "You spoke to your father-in-law about the defense?" "Yes." Then Mr. Oler asked McCarty to state when in Detroit he could earn $3 a day if he had success, but could earn $10 a day if he failed. "And yet you left that position and remained here 2-1/2 months and earned but $10 in that time, not sufficient to keep your family; is that correct?" "Yes."

Witness said he intended to go back to Detroit as soon as he could after the trial. He couldn't say the exact number of times he had been seen by Mr. Horn about the evidence he was able to give. He might have been in Mr. Horn's office three or four times, but he didn't think he had been there on a dozen occasions. He had been in another law office on this side of the street. Witness said he left Naamith's about the year 1894 or 1895. He could not tell the year the tragedy occurred, but he knew it was in the winter time and he thought it was a year or a year and a half before he left Naamith's. After thinking the matter over he said it was in 1893 or 1892, if he could recollect. He thought it was the month of January, but it might be February. He could, however, remember the day of the week all right, because he had exceptional hours on that day. He could not tell the month he started business near the mouth he failed, although it was the only time he had been in business for himself. Witness was positive, however, that he was "sorting eggs" when he heard the noise in the cellar on the day of the tragedy. He had used the bell in Naamith's that morning more than once, but did not recollect how many times. McCarty would say that he saw that he heard the coal rattling the morning of the tragedy.

Knew the Whistle, But Not the Tunes. McCarty said he was prepared to swear that he heard the whistle, although it was 2-1/4 years since, but he could not remember the notes whether it was a tune. He thought the whistling ceased about the time of the tragedy. Witness said this morning with Mr. Horn when a man purchased a book. The coming back to the opening in the wall witness said the opening led into a space between the weight boxes. It was open sufficiently to allow any person to get into the cellar. It was near where the back entrance, came into Naamith's on the east side. J. W. Siddall, architect, exhibited elaborate plans of the exterior and interior of the hoist, the plans of charge of the supplies for the Naamith Company. The company occupies a warehouse adjoining the Hyams warehouse. There was a stone wall 14 or 15 inches thick between the two premises. There was a break in the wall large enough for a man to get through. There was a board partition or rather, some planks perhaps, such as 75 in height, extending across the wall.

McCarty said he used to get down to work Monday morning about 5:30 in the afternoon. He had to remain there until breakfast for the customers and help had been served, and did not usually go home until a quarter to nine or nine o'clock, but generally it was later, sometimes 9:30. Witness said he was in the stock room at the warehouse attending his duties on the day Wells was killed. Witness continued, "I was in the habit of hearing about something every morning. This morning I heard a man whistling, then I heard other noises, nothing unusual, but it might have been coal. Then I heard a crash that I took as indicating something unusual had happened."

The 24th of May. Owing to Friday being the 24th of May, the Store will be open TO-MORROW THURSDAY, UNTIL 10 P.M.

The bigger the store, the bigger the stock—the greater the advantage to you. Add to these advantages unlimited capital, a thorough knowledge of shoe business and you know how we have succeeded in entering the shoe trade of the city in this store. A quarter-million dollar stock and the same amount of orders placed prevented from affecting these prices. We mention only a few of to-morrow's prices—they speak volumes:

- GENTS' DEPARTMENT. Tan Morocco Oxford shoes, hand-made, $1.00. Russia tan Oxford shoes, 1.25. Russia tan lace boots, 1.25. Hog grain light tan walking boots, 2.50. French calf walking boots, full Scotch wale, razor toes, Chicago wing tips, Hutton & Co., London, England, 2.75. Dark tan Harvard calf walking boots, full Scotch wale, razor toes, Chicago wing tips, G. T. Slater & Sons, 2.75.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT. Kid shoes, Albin strap, $5.00. Dengola Oxford walking shoes, hand-made, 65. Kadee kid three-strap walking shoes, hand-made, 65. Kid buttoned boots, patent leather tops, 75. Tan Morocco Oxfords, hand-sewed laces, 75. Atrachana dogonia buttoned boots, patent-leather tips, 1.00. Double sole, 1.50. Dugolia calf walking shoes, 1.00 and facing, the J. D. King Co., Dock Oxford walking shoes, Boston Goodrich, 1.00. Tan Morocco tan walking shoes, drab and bistre, French heels, kid trimmings, 1.25. Tan Morocco two and three-strap walking shoes, razor toes, New York, 1.25. Cressed linen (latest New York) calf walking shoes, Haesen B., 1.50. Tan Morocco Julietts, hand-made, 1.80. Tan Morocco buttoned and lace boots, extension soles, 1.75.

DIAMOND HALL DIAMONDS. Our spring shipment of DIAMONDS from Amsterdam sent forward by our Mr. Harry Ryrie passed customs yesterday. Added to our already magnificent collection this gives us a stock which for MAGNITUDE, QUALITY AND VALUE STANDS UNEQUALLED THIS SIDE OF NEW YORK CITY.

Ryrie Bros. Jewelers and Silversmiths, Cor. Yonge and Adelaide.

ALMOXIA WINE IS THE BEST FOR INVALIDS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS & GROCERS.

Marvellous CONSUMPTION 80,778 CASES OF G. H. MUNN & CO'S Extra Dry 44,764 CHAMPAGNE.

ALMOXIA WINE IS THE BEST FOR INVALIDS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS & GROCERS.

ALMOXIA WINE IS THE BEST FOR INVALIDS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS & GROCERS.

Articles for Sale. DIXON'S $1.50 NEOLIGE CAMBRIG shirts are the best they ever sold for the money in blue, pink, heliotrope spots and stripes, 65 King West. DIXON'S UMBRELLAS AND WATERPROOF; a lot of traveler's sample umbrellas for 50c. 4 pairs for 50c. worth ten, at 55 King West. DIXON'S WASHING TIES 4 FOR 50c. and 6 for 50c. different shapes, are invaluable value, ties in various styles and qualities. DIXON'S LIGHTWEIGHT UNDERWEAR, $1.50 and $2 suit; black socks, stailous drc, 4 pairs for 50c. DIXON'S SUMMER COATS AND Vests $2.50, regular $5 line; white and light colored summer vests all sizes and price, 65 King West. FUR SALE - A 16-FOOT SAILING SHIP, big sail plan, centerboard, and all complete, bargain, 143 Duchesse-street. SAILING SHIP, 16 FEET, MAINSAIL 2000 sq. ft., for sale cheap, Apply 143

WANTED. WANTED AT ONCE—FIRST CLASS Brass Mig. Co. Ltd., Adelaide-street.

George McPherson, 186 Yonge-street. Make Your Feet Glad. With McPherson's Shoes. Ease, Elegance and Endurance. It is but little said, but well said when speaking of McPherson's Shoes for Men. Once worn always worn.

R. J. Hunter, Merchant Tailor and Men's Furnisher, 31-33 King-St. West. Slightly Imperfect Table Linens Damask Table Cloths 2 to 6 Yards long. Damask Table Napkins 3-4 to 5-8 sizes. Damask Doilies. ONE/THIRD BELOW REGULAR PRICES.

John Catto & Son, King-Street, Opposite Post Office. A Feature of Our Business. Goods delivered promptly to any part of the city.

JAS. GOOD & CO., 220 Yonge-st. TEL. 424.

Asparagus, Spinach, Head Lettuce, Cucumbers, Green Beans, Tomatoes, Strawberries. Received fresh daily.

R. BARRON, 726-728 Yonge-street. June Weddings. We make a specialty of Wedding Invitations, printed or engraved, and also see our samples.

Bain's 53 King-st. East, Toronto. DYEING AND CLEANING. Money saved and pain relieved by the use of our speciality. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—small quantity of which usually cures a cough, head, cold, rheumatism, neuralgia, etc. Price 25c.

PHONES. 1258 Ring up and we will send you a list of our goods. STOCKWELL, HENDERSON & CO., Stationers, 103 King West, west. Offices at 259 and 372 Yonge-street, and 118-120 Adelaide-street, East. Special attention given to goods from a distance.

THE RECORD THE BEE John Griffith The H. Y. THE SPRING Toronto Score The Spring 10 innings by it was a clean sweep. The visitors were general runs. Callahan, 11. The hot grounder scored in the amount of field fence. The second out was made by the second batter. The score after six innings was 10 to 0. The game was over in 11 innings. The Toronto team was victorious. Total—10. Near, H. ... Freeman, ... Smith, ... Dement, ... Chewy, ... Gidycz, ... P. ... Total ... SHANNON'S Shannon, H. ... Lynch, H. ... Gilbert, ... McDonald, ... Gruber, ... Total ... The Toronto ... will start at 4 ... Eastern ... case 4, Willie ... Washington ... Julia 15, ... Cre ... Illiana, ... ned and the ... could have de ... played a boy ... the team. ... made in the ... Cornell ... Fall From His ... Alex. Mont ... 500 ... The doctor ... called with ... ing to J. ... to the Gen ... now dying ... the skull. ... Montgomer ... Wright, and ... some time a ... his mother a ... (of which) ... no hope of ... Did Per ... John Steele ... short time si ... alleged illeg ... Ebdard, in ... The convict ... fisheries insp ... the informati ... Clark, of Ont ... The inform ... the fine. ... On Mr. Ste ... Octilia confer ... Pleas Dismiss ... on account of ... prosecutor ha ... in the result ... F. E. Jodge ... ment of Fish ... served. ... The in ... made a settle ... Company as ... factory fire ... tion of the bu ... and the dama ...