WELCOME TO JENNY LIND!

BY FRANKLIN ADDISON HOWIE.

Written on her first entrance into New York.

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
Thou we welcome to our land,
Thou the gifted child of nature,
Thou we welcome heart and hand.
The poor shall bless thee
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
Thousands here shall praise thy name,
Deeds like thine can never perish
While yet sounds the trumpet of fame.
The poor shall bless thee,
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
Well may nations envy thee,
Thine a heart so pure and noble
Should cause all to bend the knee.
The poor shall bless thee,
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
We love thee for thy real worth,
And while we bless the name of Jenny
Bless the land that gave her birth.
The poor shall bless thee,
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
May angels guard thee on thy way,
And when passing death's dark valley
Chant thy sweetest, holiest lay.
The poor shall bless thee,
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

Hail! sweet warbler, bird of song,
May the unsex sing thy praise,
And may we ne'er forget thy "echo"
Or the land of "Ithaca" days.
The poor shall bless thee,
Rich across thee,
Welcome Jenny Lind!

*The author refers to her magnificent donations in New York.

AN ELECTION FUN.—At an election dinner held lately, a voter said that he had never received a bribe to the extent of a farthing.

Oh, Smith, how can you say so? observed another, when I know that Mr. W. said you have.

Ay, that's true enough; but it was full of maggots.

Well, then, was the rejoinder, if it was not bribery, it was corruption.

AN INEVITABLE TEST.—A few days ago, a merchant, in prosecuting his morning sur in the suburbs of Edinburgh, found, as he walked along, a purse, containing a considerable sum of money. He observed a lady at a considerable distance, who, he thought, would be the owner and loser. Determined to be correct in the party to whom he delivered it, he fell upon a strange yet ingenious plan to effect this. He resolved to act the part of a poor distressed tradesman, and boldly went forward, hat in hand and asked alms. This was answered with a polite

Go away! I have nothing to give you. The poor man, however, persisting in his entreaties, would not go until he had got assistance from his furnishing wife and children. The lady, from reasons, no doubt, similar to Mrs. Macleary's, at last condescended; but to her dismay, found that the where-with was gone. The merchant, now satisfied that he was correct, with a polite bow returned the purse, with an advice that, in future, she would be more generous to the distressed and destitute.

Do not jest with your wife upon a subject in which there is danger of wounding her feelings. Remember that she treasures every word you utter though you may never think of it again.

Do not reproach your wife with a personal defect for if she has sensibility you inflict a wound difficult to heal.

Do not treat your wife with intonation in company. It touches her pride—and she will not respect you more or love you better for it.

Do not upbraid your wife in the presence of a third person. The sense of your disregard for her feelings will prevent her from acknowledging her fault.

Do not often invite your friends to ride and leave your wife at home, she might suspect that you esteemed others more companionable than herself.

If you have a pleasant home and a cheerful wife, pass your evenings under your own roof. Do not be stern and silent in your own house and remarkable for your sociability elsewhere. Remember that your wife has as much need of recreation as yourself, and devote a portion at least, of your leisure hours to such society and amusements as she may join. By doing so, you will secure her smiles and increase her affection.

Come Bob, tell honestly how much you have cleared by your wild land speculations? said Bob's quizzical friend to him the other day. Cleared, Ogden! cleared! replied Bob with a frown, why, you fool, I've cleared my pockets!

COMPLETION OF THE

IMPERIAL DICTIONARY.

THIS invaluable Work, which cost the editor about twelve years of unintermitting labour, and being incomparably the most comprehensive Dictionary of the English language ever published, being now complete, copies, in any style of binding, can be had by early application. Price—bound in two imperial octavo volumes of over 1000 pages each, cloth boards, 25s; half calf, 26s; or seven and a half divisions, 12s 6d each. This work contains, in addition to the matter usually found in Dictionaries, the technical and scientific terms, together with their etymologies and their pronunciations, according to the best authorities—illustrated by about 2000 engravings on wood, to explain where words are insufficient. Orders from any part of Canada will be promptly attended to. It will contain delivered, free of extra charge, in any place between Quebec and London, C. W., if not off the main roads between the places named. The present supply being limited, those wishing copies will be taken in the selection of matter, further relating Agriculture, Horticulture, Mechanics, Domestic Economy, Education, or general Science. Several interesting practical farmers and gardeners have contributed to the Dictionary, and the editor is happy to receive communications from all their subscribers. Such as are of interest will be freely published. Two or three gentlemen of high scientific attainments (one of whom is connected with the University), have agreed to contribute to the columns of the Dictionary.

Farmers, subscribe and pay for your paper, and then write for it: all parties will thus be pleased and benefited.

The Dictionary is devoted to the development and advancement of the real interests of Canada. Much good has already been done by this paper and those which preceded it, and of which it is a continuation. But the Proprietors of the Dictionary, and the other papers included in the Dictionary, will gladly support an agricultural paper of any kind, to improve the country, and desire its improvement make a little more effort this year, and the Dictionary may be wiped out forever.

As an inducement to extra exertion, we offer the following Premiums:—

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS!

SEVENTY FIVE DOLLARS!

FIFTY DOLLARS!

Every person who will procure 200 subscribers for the Dictionary, at the subscription price of one dollar, and remit the sum of $100, for one of ordering the paper will be paid $100; for 160 subscribers, $75; for 75 ditto, $50; for 60 ditto, $25.

Agricultural Societies, and those persons who obtain the paper through their society, are included from the above. As we have no travelling agents, the offers are open and accessible to all, with the exception just mentioned. No papers will be sent unless the subscription accompanies the order, until the smallest number (60) is realized; after that one-half the price may be retained by the competitor, till the completion of the list which he intends to forward. Who will try? Where is the Township in Canada West, in which no young man can be found willing to spend two or three weeks this winter in writing at least the $25 prize?

Agricultural Societies ordering 25 copies and upwards, will be supplied at half a dollar; twelve copies and upwards, 3s 9d. Single subscriptions, one dollar. Local Agents, who will procure three subscribers, and remit the subscription, free of postage, will be allowed 25 per cent.

DEDICATED BY SPECIAL AUTHORITY

TO

Her Majesty the Queen

THE BRITISH COLONIES!

Their History, Extent, Condition and Resources.

By R. Montgomery Martin, Esq.

PROSPECTUS.

THE vast importance of the Colonial and Transmarine Possessions of the Crown is gradually becoming better understood by the people of England, who are learning to appreciate more justly the influence they have already exercised in elevating this country to its present political and commercial position among European nations, and the ample means they afford of providing room for a superabundant population; consequently, creating new markets for our commerce, remunerative employment for our labour, and safe and profitable investments for unemployed capital.

The British Colonial Empire is without a parallel in history. It contains a cultivable area of two million square miles, and includes in its possessions—rich islands, fertile plains, strong fortresses, and secure havens, in each quarter of the globe.

From her Colonies England receives the varied products of every climate, and exports in return produce and manufactures to the value of twenty millions sterling.

As a source of national prosperity the value of our Colonies can hardly be overrated, since through their agency, which new wealth is poured into the energies of the nation may be converted into a blessing. A population of thirty millions on an area of seventy-six millions of statute acres in the United Kingdom, of which thirty million acres are waste lands, shows a density of four hundred inhabitants to each square mile of arable surface. This alarming density is increasing at the rate of more than one thousand births a day—nearly a month every minute—an augmentation not only beyond our capabilities of producing food at home, but far outstripping our means of creating property for its support.

Our Colonies offer a noble field for British Industry. They could sustain with ease an addition of one hundred millions to their present population. In the Colonies there are not six individuals to the square mile of area, in Australia not three, in Southern Africa not two.

It has been deemed that full and correct information concerning the Extent, Condition and Resources of the Colonies, would be acceptable to all classes of the community—might tend to create a national feeling for our distant fellow citizens—and to strengthen the natural ties arising from Kindred, Common Origin, Government and Language. Every Retainer in the Kingdom is directly interested in the cultivation of the waste lands in the Colonies, as they offer prompt and permanent relief from the growing pressure of pauperism on property—a pressure rapidly increasing in our Colonies, and which, if not checked, will tend to exterminate the middle rank of society, and leave only two classes—the extremes of rich and poor.

Merchants, Manufacturers, and Shipowners, who view with alarm the recent changes in our commercial policy, may find in the Colonies a new and extensive field for their commerce, and a means of relieving the suffering inevitably arising from all states of transition, whether for good or for evil. The Politician, desirous of strengthening the basis on which, under Providence, his maritime Empire is founded, and of extending the state and prospects of our Colonial Dominions, and the Philanthropist, who feels that human improvement can alone be promoted and secured by the inculcation and practice of Christian principles, will gladly increase his knowledge of the condition and wants of one hundred millions of his fellow subjects of every creed, color, and climate.

The Author has devoted twenty years to the study and personal examination of our maritime Possessions; and as an Officer in the Naval and in the Civil Service of the Crown, has had unusual opportunities of acquiring local information, which it will be his anxious study to impart, totally divested of political bias or party feeling.

In order to bring this National Work within the means of all classes of the community, it will be issued in parts at One, and Three Shillings each, and in Divisions, handsomely bound in Morocco Cloth, Gilt, at Seven Shillings and Sixpence, adorned with Illustrated Maps, Views, and other fine Coloured Portraits of the most celebrated Promoters and Defenders of our Colonial Empire, Seals of each Colony, &c., to be completed in Forty-eight Parts at One Shilling; Sixteen Parts at Three Shillings; and Eight Divisions at Seven Shillings and Sixpence each, Sterling.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to authorize the Dedication of this highly important undertaking to Her Majesty.

Copy of a Letter from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, to Sir James FitzGerald, Esq., together with a Preface containing Correspondence on this important subject, with the Hon. J. H. P. Price, Commissioner of Crown Lands, the Provincial Agricultural Society and the National Agricultural Society, together with a copious Appendix containing Correspondence between the author and His Excellency the Governor General, the Provincial Secretary, &c. Extracts from a work on Colonization, by the late Right Hon. Sir Robert W. Horton, and a letter depicting the true causes of the present wretched condition of Ireland.

Price, 2s. 6d.
The above work is for sale at Messrs. Rowell, Brewer & McPhail, and at the Boston Book Store, King Street, and the other Book Stores of the City.

THE BRITISH PERIODICALS

AND THE

FARMER'S GUIDE

By LEONARD, SCOTT & Co., No. 54, Gold Street, New York, continue to publish the four leading British Quarterly Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine; in addition to which they have recently commenced the publication of a valuable Agricultural work, called the FARMER'S GUIDE TO SCIENTIFIC AND PRACTICAL AGRICULTURE.

By Henry Stephens, F. R. S., of Edinburgh, author of the "Book of the Farm," &c., &c., &c.; assisted by John P. Norton, M. A., New Haven, Professor of Scientific Agriculture in Yale College, &c., &c.

This highly valuable work will comprise two large royal octavo volumes, containing over 1400 pages, with 18 or 20 splendid steel engravings, and more than 600 engravings on wood, in the highest style of the art, illustrating almost every implement of husbandry now in use by the best farmers, the best methods of ploughing, planting, haymaking, &c., &c.; the various domestic animals in their highest perfection; in short, the pictorial feature of the book is unique, and will render it of incalculable value to the student of Agriculture.

The Work is being published in semi-monthly Numbers, of 64 pages each, exclusive of the steel engravings, and is sold at 25 cents each, or $5 for the entire work in numbers, of which there will be at least twenty-two.

The British Periodicals re-published are as follows, viz:—

The London Quarterly Review, (Conservative.)
The Edinburgh Review, (Whig.)
The North British Review, (Free Church.)
The Westminster Review, (Liberal.)
Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory.)

Although these Works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtons," and "My Novel," (both by Bulwer), "My Penitential Medals," "The Green Hand," and other serials of which our readers are so fond, are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messrs. Scott & Co., so that subscribers to the Review of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.

For any one of the four Reviews, $3.00 per Annum.
