Meanest Woman on Record.

The Medical Record tells of a woman in Obio who utilized the high temperture of her phthisical husband for eight weeks before his death, by using as an incubator for heas' eggs. She took a number of eggs, and wrapping them in cotton batting, laid them along side the body of her husband in the bed, he being unable to resist or move a limb. Fifty was the number of eggs first used as an experiment, and after three weeks she was rewarded with forty-six lively young chickens. The happy result of the first trial prompted her to try again, and this time she doubled the quantity, and was again rewarded for her ingenuity with another broad of chickens. Another hundred eggs were placed in the bed, but this time her husband was so near the end that the necessary heat was lacking, and he passed away, leaving one hundred half hatched chicks behind him. The scheming wife, not to be outdone by grim death, placed the eggs in the oven, thirking to finish the work her husband had failed to complete. During the bustle and excitement of the funeral, however, she allowed the fire to get too hot, and the eggs were all cooked. The editor says he hopes there is no incubator awaiting this woman in this world, at least!

BIGLEY'S

BASE HEATING FURNACE.

The above cut shows the rear view of the Furnace. The darts direct the way in which the heat travels down into the base and around the base and through the base and into the return flue. This is the only base heating furnace made. It is the only furnace that retains the heat and prevents the chimney carrying it off. Send for Catalogue or send plan of building. Estimates furnished on application.
