* Quarterly.

The Stock Market has been unusually dull for the past two weeks, owing to the difficulty in obtaining loans upon stocks. There has been very little speculation; but moderate buying by investors, and a persistant dull feeling have kept prices fairly steady. Were money to become easy, there would probably be an improvement in values of the active stocks. The decision of the U.S. Senate to recognize the belligerency of Cuba caused a small panic on the New York Stock Exchange, on 28th ult. The movement is believed to have been more inspired by speculation in official circles than any higher motive, and will be only transient in its effects.
