

English; after that they cut off some Part of his Flesh, and made one of his Fellow Prisoners eat it; then they cut his Carcase up like a Parcel of inhuman Butchers, and to shew their last Marks of Malice and Resentment threw it into the Sea.

The other House was a fine Stone Edifice, consisting of six Rooms on a Floor, all well finish'd. There was a fine Walk before it, and two fine Barns contiguous to it, with fine Gardens and other Appurtenances, besides several fine Fields of Wheat. In one of the Barns there were 15 Load of Hay, and Room sufficient for threescore Horses, and other Cattle. At our Departure from the first Farm we set all we left behind us on fire; and turning back, at a small Distance, we saw some Hundreds of the Enemy hovering round the Flames. We likewise set fire to, and reduc'd the last Farm, as well as the First, to Ruins. Here we took three Men in a Boat which was laden with Provisions, and sailing down to the City of Louisbourg. This last House was situated on the Mouth of a large Salmon Fishery which was some few Roods wide; and about half a Mile above it there was a large Pond of fresh Water which was near four Miles over.