

the law of curves, of metre, of rhyme, of composition, of melody, of thorough bass—all these he may know and yet only attain to the halls of a lifeless, cold science, or the baser paths of florid sensation. Let us take care in Canada not to educate our people into either of these channels.