delicate lines, and makes all ink work clear, free and easy, without rubbing the Good News, on any given or stark, the reddest day in winter without fear, or the hottest day in summer when rollers are obstinate and refuse to take or distribute the ink. INK-LETTER never dries on rollers, but makes the ink and tints dry quick and glossy on paper, and as it is never gummy, the varnish, enables several of these rollers to follow at once, and rushed work to be delivered almost immediately from press without retouching. Ink-LETTER gives good soft rollers by washing, or paid strictly care from over, but before the ink left on them every night or Sunday, or whenever too sticky, with a few drops of INK-LETTER put on with your finger, and your press is ready to run, whether it is as dry as a bone or 100 degrees above in the room. A trial will convince any person.
