Holding Grain for a Rise.

During any ten years the man that sells his wheat and oats soon after they are threshed will realize more from them than if he stores for a better price. The man that stores for a better price must have a granary, even though the bins are empty nine months of the year. Interest on the cost of the granary, and wear and tear to the building, must be deducted from the amount realized for the wheat in making the comparison, for the man that sells from the machine is at no expense for granary. The best granary is the cheapest, as with it there is least waste of grain; but in even the best granaries there are probabilities of damage by weevils and mice. The cost of
