MR. MAYHEW RESIGNS.

Chief of Cape Breton Coal and Iron Company Steps Out.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21.—(Special.)—Mr. Mayhew, president and promoter of the Cape Breton Coal and Iron and Railway Company, has resigned. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago Mr. Mayhew's son, who had charge of his father's affairs in Cape Breton, committed suicide at Mira. It is understood that Mr. Mayhew's health is not of the best, and that because of this, and his son's act, he does not care to continue to personally develop the Cape Breton property.

Mr. Gladstone is believed to be at the head of the Cape Breton Coal, Iron and Railway Company's affairs at present, but it is authoritatively stated that the property is about to pass into new hands, and that it will be developed on a large scale.

Tight Deck Saves Cargo.
Kingston, Sept. 21.—Although there was 10 feet of water in the harbor, and the water level was rising, only two thousand of the forty thousand bushels of flaxseed was destroyed. The ceiling between the grain and the deck was so tight that very little water leaked thru.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS

ARBITRATORS FAR APART
NO DECISION ON SCHEDULE
Car Men Object to Being on Job From 6 a.m. to Midnight to Get in 10 Hours.

Hamilton, Sept. 21.—(Special.)—The street railway arbitrators adjourned this evening until Monday. They appear to be almost as far away as ever from a decision. Now they have no hope of making an award until the end of next week. To-day they wrestled with the schedule, but came to no decision. The cause of most of the trouble is the Deering division. The men object to starting to work at 6 o'clock in the morning and winding up their day's work at midnight. It takes them all that time to get in ten hours' work.

To Fill in Inlet.
Sub-committees of the board of health and sewers committee met this evening, and it was agreed that the arm of the coal oil inlet was to be filled with the sludge from the Westworth-street disposal works. This will be covered with earth by the board of works. The sewers committee will cover the sludge at the Ferguson-avenue works.

Approve Bishop's Choice.
The vestry meeting of St. Peter's Church was held this evening and the bishop's choice of a rector, Rev. J. W. TenEyck, was approved of, and he will take charge of the church on Oct. 14.

Mrs. Kuntz-Perrie's Estate.
The late Mrs. Kuntz-Perrie left an estate valued at $239,930. Of that $194,628 is in cash and in the bank, and $45,302 is invested in the Hamilton Brewing Association. Her niece, Mabel Barry, and her nephew, John Barry, are each left a life interest in $80,000. Her husband, Gideon Perrie, is also given a life interest in $60,000, which upon his death, will go to John and Mabel Barry. Gideon Perrie and Miss Barry are given the use of the residence at the corner of Bay and Hunter-streets, which will be inherited by Miss Barry when Mr. Perrie marries or dies. All this money will go to the Roman Catholic Church if the heirs die without issue. Others who benefit by the will are: Mrs. Perrie's father and mother, $9 a week and a house; St. Mary's Cathedral, $200 for masses; Mrs. Perrie's sisters, $1000; a niece, Elizabeth Stuart Kirk, $2000; Gustave Kuntz, $2000; Carrie and Ida Kuntz, $1000 each; interest on $20,000 to Mrs. Perrie's sisters, Mrs. Geo. The executors are Gideon Perrie, W. G. E. Boyd, and the Toronto General Trusts Company.

INSURANCE INVESTIGATION

$25,000 on the condition that he would sell all his power to secure all the stock, or at least two-thirds of it. Wilson was to receive $1000 for himself, but witness did not know this at the time.

The original purchase of the Temple Building was made in January, 1895, and the property at that time was made over to Jesse E. Carter, secretary of the company. The order of the broker had said that "someone unknown" should be the principal in the transaction, and Miss Bailey, under her name, for which she afterwards received $1000, because her interest in the affair had been talked about.

In March, 1895, the corner was bought and later the Bay-street property. Miss Bailey mortgaged the property to the order for $200,000, to give the order a claim on the property. After the property was purchased it was managed by the solicitors of the order. It may be that they thought the order might hold the property as mortgagees, instead of as owners, under the terms of the act?" asked counsel.

"Then there was a purchase made of property north of this lot, with 65 1-2 feet on Bay-street?"

"Yes. That was traded for the Queen-street property."

"Miss Bailey conveyed the property to the order in 1896?"

"That conveyance was completed on April 30, 1896? The act giving you increased power was passed on April 28, 1896?"

"Yes."

"Within a week after the act had been passed the property was conveyed to the order?"

"Yes."

"The Ontario Realty Company was formed?"

"Yes. The act, instead of giving us what we wanted, only gave us half. We had $700,000 worth of property, and the act only allowed us to hold $250,000. We formed the company, not as somebody has said, to evade the act, but to comply with it, to bring our holdings within the act."

"Was it your intention to have the company hold other land?"

"Oh, no. It was simply to give us a fighting position in case anyone should prosecute us for holding more land than we ought to have had."

The purchase of the annex was the next point touched upon. This property was bought because someone threatened a suit for damages for trespass on an old road leading over a couple of feet. It was thought best to buy off the suit, avoiding litigation. The property was conveyed to Mr. Hunter, who suffered from the same name until the new act came into force in 1901.

"Yes. That was when we decided to experiment on a case."

"I see the property was mortgaged for $200,000, which the order of the Temple must have increased its value?"

"It did."

"When you took over the share of the property held by the Ontario Realty Company, giving you a clear title to it?"

"Yes. There were all sorts of stories going around because the property was bought in Miss Bailey's name, and the order of the order. We wanted to satisfy the order that everything in connection with the property was vested in the order absolutely."

"And there was no profit to any of those parties from their dealings in connection with the property?"

"None."

"You paid $1000 to Miss Bailey?"

"Her name was bandied about in public quite freely, and people said that as my private secretary she was making a fortune out of me. The order of the order had said that in consideration of the money she had saved the order by allowing us to use her name, and also that she had suffered from the same reason as we had."

The dealings with the Union Trust Company took place under the order of the order. The order of the order had decided to part with some of its stock. In answer to Mr. Shepley's question for the resolution to dispose of the stock, Dr. Oronhyatekha said that the chief cause was the action of the order of the order. The former commissioner tried to force the L.O.F. to apply for a license as an assessment company. To retain the license an application for license should be made under the order of the order. This witness refused to do. When a new commissioner was appointed the order applied for the renewal of license, and he refused to grant it for the reason that the L.O.F. had the Union Trust Company under their control. There were certain private reasons.

The date of the action of the executive was taken was April 9 this year.

"Had the proceedings of the royal commission anything to do with the determination of the executive to get rid of the subsidiary company?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"No, Oh, no. I had just returned from abroad and knew nothing of the investigations of the commission."

Mr. Shepley read a report made by the witness to the executive, that it was likely the result of legislation, that it would be necessary to dispose of all or at least the controlling interest in the Union Trust. He recommended the steps be taken to do this, although he still believed that controlling interest in that company was a valuable asset. The reason for this was given that the order was forced to an issue by the New Hampshire incident, although some changes might have been made in the way of certain circumstances.

"Were you looking for an arrangement to comply with the law and yet retain the controlling interest?"

Witness replied in the negative. A committee was appointed to formulate plans for the consummation of the deal. Mr. Stevenson arranged the details of the transfer with three men—Mr. Gurney, president of the Crown Bank; E. A. DuVernet, the L.O.F. and the Union Trust Company. Mr. DuVernet conducted the negotiations with Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. Shepley read the agreement dated May 3, 1906. The agreement was drawn out between Mr. DuVernet, the L.O.F. and the Union Trust Company. The Forsters were to sell 15,000 shares representing $1,500,000 in capital stock, at $10, to Mr. DuVernet; $500,000 was paid as part of price by Mr. DuVernet to the Forsters, in the shape of a deposit receipt in the Crown Bank. Witness was not aware of the provision made by Mr. DuVernet to get the purchase money.

The balance was to be paid to the Forsters within five years.

"That was a long pay-day," suggested counsel.

"Oh, yes, but we were getting interest," said the witness. "I did not know of any reason for this arrangement. The interest was 5 per cent. per annum."

Two hundred and fifty shares were handed over and 14,700 were to be held in security by the L.O.F. until the purchase money was turned in to them. All dividends were to be paid to the purchasers if the interest was kept paid up, but the full voting power of the 14,700 shares was given to the L.O.F.

Funds for Investment.
The agreement made for the Forsters to hand to the new Union Trust Company 80 per cent. of their surplus funds for investment. Under the old agreement of 1891, the whole surplus was held by the Union Trust Company and Dr. Oronhyatekha explained that the new applications made to the executive direct and the new agreement would give them a little money on hand to make some investments on their own account.

A clause provided that the supreme court were to have two directors out of the witness, and three out of nine, as proportionate representation for the 10,000 shares they did not sell.

Dr. Oronhyatekha admitted that for the past five years the Forsters controlled the Trust Company. He was asked, but Mr. Shepley withdrew the question and answer from the records.

Hon. George W. Ross and Mr. Stevenson represent the L.O.F. on the Forsters of which are: President, Charles McGee; 1st vice-president, M. Wilson, K. C.; 2nd vice-president, Edward Gurney; 3rd vice-president, Elliott G. Stevenson; Hon. George W. Ross, Colonel Davidson, E. E. A. DuVernet and I. W. E. A. DuVernet had said that the Forsters had been offered all the money for the stock, but Mr. Stevenson did not want to take it out. About this witness had nothing to say.

The purchase of 40,000 acres of land in Manitoba by a syndicate composed of the witness, Messrs. Foster, McGilivray and Dr. Montague, was probed.

"Montague got an option on this land and came to us to get the money. It was decided to let him have the money from the Forsters and buy the land," said Dr. Oronhyatekha.

"The purpose was to pay for these lands and make a profit out of them by reselling?" asked Mr. Shepley.

Mr. Shepley said the witness, dated May 1, '08, given by Montague to the Forsters for $125,000. This was to be paid back within ten days of interest, as follows: One-quarter at end of 1905, 1-4 at end of 1907, 1-4 at end of 1909, 1-4 at end of 1911.

The recital of a deed of trust drawn between the Forsters, the Union Trust Company, and his wife, was examined by Mr. Shepley. These conveyances were not registered, and witness was asked if he had any knowledge of the fact that the original loan of $125,000 had been raised to $165,551.57, and that the interest was to be paid to the Forsters at 3 per cent. per annum, and that the interest had always been kept when it came due.

"I was assured that it was being paid right along," repeated the witness.

Shortly after the mortgage was given, Mr. Stevenson and I were considering another proposition to enter into another syndicate. Mr. Stevenson said that the mortgage was legal, but that it looked very bad for me to enter into such a syndicate. He said that if it was improper to take the money, it was also improper in this case, it was also improper in Montague's case. He said it was. I told him that so far as I was concerned, I was going to get out of it as much amount of profit would make me stay in any longer. I saw McGilivray, and urged him to join me, and he assented, and it was decided to convey the stock in the syndicate back to the Union Trust Company. He said that Dr. Montague, although he was not in the same position as us, said that if I was going to convey the mortgage, he decided to convey the mortgage and hold the property in trust for the Union Trust Co. The only man to be seen was Mr. Foster.

"When I was going to India last year I wanted to straighten everything out, so if anything happened to my friends would not find my affairs in this condition; so I asked if it was proper to get out of it. I was informed that they had not been made. I instructed Stevenson to see that the changes were carried out, and the property recovered, and that any profit that might accrue would then go to the Forsters. The holdings were afterwards sold at a profit of $100,000.

Mr. Shepley asked what about Mr. Foster, and witness replied that Mr. Foster was a man of business, and got him to act with the other members of the syndicate.

The witness then informed the commission that recently the land had been sold in such a way that the old Forsters' mortgage had been wiped out.
