H. Blight, W. Gibson, Capt. J. Ford, and P. E. Noverre, received the flowers.

A space 100 yards square had been wired off south of the band stand, and the cadets were drawn up here, every boy with a nosegay in his coat or ap. The fine old spirit of ancestor worship was abroad and abounding. The crowd numbered about 12,000, and the scene was a really beautiful one, as viewed from the band stand. The gay uniforms were massed in front. Col. Thompson reported the parade state as follows:

Two moonlight excursions are billed for this month so far, that of the Beveriey-street Baptist Church for June 24, and the Woodmen of the World, June 27.

The fog signals in Toronto harbor are coming in for more criticism. The foghorn has been proven several times inefficient; now the gong at the eastern gap is exciting unfavorable comment among marine men. Capt. Esford of the Kingston complains that he was unable to hear the beil until at close quarters when the steamer arrived from Montreal during the dense fog yesterday morning. The Corona had the experience of scraping the pier, the gong not being heard.

The fog bell at the western gap is also coming in for deprecatory remark. Capt. Cooney of the Macassa, on arrival here yesterday, declared that he had encountered considerable difficulty in approaching the gap on account of the bell's notes being indistinct. Harbormaster Postlethwaite stated to The World that he intended recommending that a larger bell supersede the present one at the western gap at the next sitting of the harbor commissioners.
