President Roosevelt as Boxer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Prof. Mike Donovan, one-time champion pugilist, has no sympathy with the men who are trying to make out that President Roosevelt is not a good one with the boxing gloves.

Altho some persons may dispute the right of President Roosevelt to claim the boxing championship of his class in Harvard, nobody can make Prof. Donovan believe that the energetic executive is not in a class by himself at the present time. And Mike ought to know, because he has put the gloves on with the president 23 times. And to quote the jovial Prof. Mike:

"I was nearly all in every time. The president can stand more violent exercise than the average athlete and when it comes to using his fists—well. I for one will never take any chances with him. Every blow he lands hurts. In action he is a regular threshing machine, and it is hard to get out of his way."

Then the professor went on:

"I don't know anything about Mr. Roosevelt's schoolboy fouts, but it is a sure thing that Hanks, or anybody else for that matter, would do well to think the president.

"It is treut that Mr. Roosevelt is a little hear-sighted. If that were not so I don't believe I would so near the white house, because it would he all Roosevelt and to the hospital for Donovan. Altho he is near-sighted, the president is better than the average amateur boxer. He is one of the cleverest big men I ever saw "If any hody has an idea that the bouts between the president and myself are love tanbing affairs, he ought to be in the white house study some day when we were standing affairs, he ought to be in the white house study some day when we were smilingly asked me when I was light in the head and weak in the knees."
