THE NIGHT OF THE BURNING

Damaging Evidence Produced by State in Trial of Woodville, Ont., Boy.

DETROIT, Mich., March 30.—(Special)—Rose Manage, known to the underworld as Rose LeVick, the woman who gave the Detroit police the tip that led to the arrest of Percy Bowin for the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, occupied the witness stand all yesterday afternoon at Bowin's trial.

The woman roomed at Mrs. Welch's place, and, on Tuesday evening, she testified that she saw Bowin in the rooming house on the night of Friday, Jan. 3, when Mrs. Welch is supposed to have met her death. She went down to Mrs. Welch's sitting room to get some milk. There, she declared, she saw Bowin writing a letter.

Attorney Kennedy made a desperate effort to discredit the testimony, which, if believed by the jury, would be fatal to his client. Mr. Kennedy made an effort to prove that the girl, who is a French-Canadian and speaks English very imperfectly, could not read. In this he was unsuccessful. It was the hardest blow that has been dealt the defence during the trial.

Both attorneys agreed that the case will not be finished before the end of the week, probably Friday or Saturday. The morning of Bowin's alleged confession to Capt. McDonnell will probably occupy considerable time, as Mr. Kennedy has announced that he will introduce Stenographer Sisson and Johnson reading the statement from their original notes and not from a typewritten copy.

GOVERNMENT TO RETAIN PRIVATE DISEASES

This did not coincide with his declaration that Mr. Foster's proposal was inconsistent with the principle of responsible government. Such a purchasing commission could be appointed at the pleasure of the government.

Mr. Fielding emphasized Sir Wilfrid's observation that business men did not follow the tender system, what they did was to establish a connection with reputable firms. He did not think the Canadian Pacific Railway called for tenders for supplies, and, with regard to the purchase of supplies for the militia garrison by the British government, this work was delegated to a responsible officer.

Mr. Fielding said he had voted on the principle. It was true it had been shown that the prices were exorbitant, but it was brought out in another way.
