PRESERVES OR PICKLES MAKE AUCTION GIFTS
With Season of Preserving Housewives Can Aid in $50,000 Auction by Donations of Such Bottled Goods—The General Canvass

The preserving season is now going on. Many industrious housewives are getting ready their stock of plums, peaches, quinces, and other fruits to place away for the long months of winter, adding them to their store of berries, jellies and cherries "done up" prettily. This is the season for the bottling of home-made pickles, delicacies which equal or surpass even the famous brands of other manufacturers and the women of the house are priding themselves upon the success of their activities in this regard.
The hope has been expressed that women who have a plentiful stock of preserves, jellies, and pickles will give from their store to the $50,000 Patriotic Auction, and have their offerings sold during auction week, October 4 to 9, the proceeds to go to the Patriotic Fund. This is an exceptional opportunity. Contributions such as suggested would be greatly appreciated. A glance at other columns of this paper will show the generous spirit prevailing among all classes in their gifts to this big patriotic movement, not only men, however, but very many women are among the more liberal donors. They have given valuable ornaments, china, furniture, books, antique-ware, home-cooking, pictures, fancy-work, quilting, and a miscellaneous assortment of other articles. Now a further chance presents itself for other women who have not yet given, or who may be puzzled to know what to donate, they can contribute from their stock of preserves or pickles, and the money secured from the sale will go to help in the realization of that $50,000 is still in progress, but bearing a close, while the solicitors who have gone out into the rural sections in automobiles are reporting success in their efforts, the farmers showing a hearty readiness to give, and give well. There will be many in the city who will not be called upon; it is not expected that the solicitors will be able to make a visit from house to house—but all citizens who are not personally canvassed may aid in the success of the auction by communicating with the executive offices, 181 Prince Wm. street, H. A. Porter, manager, or sending in their donation to St. Andrew's or the Queen's rink during next week.

One man arrested on a drunkenness charge was fined $8 or two months in jail.

SEVERAL HOUSES IN CARLETON BURN

Loss of $12,000 or More in Morning Blaze

TOWER SCHOOL THREATENED

Poor Water Supply is Report—Richard Danery's Collection of Antiques Consumed by Flames; Also $350 Cash

Carleton was visited by a fire which caused damage estimated at from $12,000 to $16,000 this morning, and had the wind held, much greater damage would have been done. On the other hand, it is claimed that an adequate water service would have confined the blaze to one house.

Miss Susie Drummond lived and kept a store on Charlotte street, extension. About 9:15 this morning she went out for a short time and taking told her store was on fire hurried back to find it in flames. The house between hers and the Tower school, and occupied by her mother, Mrs. Samuel Drummond, was soon in flames. Then the house owned by her sister, Mrs. Carr, farther west, caught, followed by the house and barn of George West. The house and store of Thomas Smith were destroyed and a portion of the el of another house owned by him. All the houses mentioned were completely destroyed. While E. Battinhouse was sitting at the fire his own house, some six hundred feet in the rear of Miss Drummond's, caught fire, but he quickly put out the blaze. A barn also caught fire, as well as the Melrose house and the Morrison summer home, but all were saved without damage. The Tower school had a close call.
Miss Drummond's house was a two-story structure. Her loss is about $2,000 with $1,000 insurance. Mrs. Drummond's house was destroyed and she had three tenants, Richard Danery, Mrs. John Newman and Mrs. Magee. Mrs. Carr's house and Mr. Smith's were fairly well covered by insurance. Geo. West carried $1,000, of which $700 was on his house and $300 on his barn. He also lost $100 in cash, and his insurance policies were burned.
Richard Danery lost with his house furnishings, the fine collection he had formerly stored in the Martello Towers, which he is said to have valued at $10,000. He also lost $350 in cash.
The West house was self-contained, two stories; the Carr house story and a half and the Smith house the same. All the houses were of wood and were consumed very rapidly. In all, five houses were destroyed, two barns, a few small sheds, and another house partly damaged.
The alarm was rung in about 10:15. Water from wells was used at first and was quickly exhausted. Had there been a good water supply, the fire would not have spread. A line of hose was finally stretched about a thousand feet to the C.P.R. roundhouse, with two lines, but even then the pressure was poor. Great indignation was expressed at the lack of water and there was much talk about the proposed stand pipe which has never been provided.
An elderly woman who tried to pass between two of the houses was overcome and had to be carried to safety.
Two companies came up from Paradise Island to aid in the salvage work, but there was little to do, so rapidly had been the spread of the flames.
Three members of the Drummond family suffered heavily in the fire, the mother, Mrs. Samuel Drummond, and her two daughters, Miss Susie Drummond and Mrs. Wm. Carr.
All during the blaze in the house occupied by Mr. Danery a series of explosions could be heard from inside caused by the discharge of cartridges, shells and ammunition stored in his collection. This collection of antiques has frequently aroused admiration. It had been removed from Martello Towers, where he was formerly caretaker, to his home. So far as is known none of it was saved.
The fire caused much excitement about Carleton and a large crowd gathered, many of whom tried to help in the work of salvage. The blaze could be seen from many parts of the city.
