The Municipal Chapter of the I. O. D. E. held a meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Hugh Mackay, the regent, in the chair. Reports of the progress made with the work for the autumn entertainment to be presented by the city chapters and Rothesay, next month, were read.

THE BUSINESS COLUMN

AYRES FINDS IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE HIS "ADS."

The average store would not think of advertising the fact that it had made minor improvements in the physical condition of the establishment, but L. S. Ayres & Co., of Indianapolis, recently did that very thing in a style impressive enough to cause comment.

Like most stores in the same line, Ayres & Co. use big space in the daily papers to feature their various bargains. The location of this advertising depends on various elements, and varies from day to day. The company, however, reserves the upper left hand corner of the last page of one of the big afternoon dailies for little chats with the public, incidentally taking advantage of the opportunity to direct attention to its main advertising on another page, the location of which is ascertained in time to place the exact page number in the smaller space.

At a special meeting of the Loyalist Chapter of the I. O. D. E. at the residence of Mrs. A. A. Armstrong yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Hugh Mackay, the regent, presided and articles for a fair to be held next month were received.

The Brayley Drug Company was called in the police court yesterday afternoon, charged with selling lemon extract as a beverage. The case will come up Monday afternoon.
