MORE YOUTHFUL DONORS TO THE PARK
The fact that a lad had given some of his pet pure white rabbits to Rockwood Park has stimulated other young people to make similar gifts—in the one case black and white, in the other brown and white rabbits, Willie Pye of Somerset street is the donor of three of these animals and Charlie at Gladys Murray of 88 Portland street the donors of a pair.

These rabbits of various colors and ages, playing in and evidently enjoying their commodious quarters are the centre of interest to the more youthful visitors at the park. It is the intention to cover the roof of this enclosure with wire netting so as to keep off mannaing owls and other winged enemies but in consequence of the increase in the fur farming business throughout the province the local supply of suitable wire netting has been entirely exhausted. An additional quantity has been ordered from England by the local dealers and is expected soon.

JOE NEPTUNE MARRIED?

Reports from Lynn, Mass., where Joe Neptune has been playing with the Lynn New England league club, are that Joe has taken unto himself a wife and that when the ball season is over, they will make their home in Bangor. Joe is the son of Peter M. and Fannie Neptune and is about twenty-one years old. He has been playing baseball for a few seasons, but spends most of his winters at his home on the island reservation in Bangor. The telegram from Lynn says:

"Chief Joe Neptune, a full-blooded Indian from Old Town, Me., who was shortstop with the Lynn New England League club, took to himself a white squaw in this city, according to the news which was circulated Tuesday in the stitching room of Allen, Foster & Willets shoe factory, where Miss Julia McEnroe of 15 Abbott street, was formerly employed.

"Miss McEnroe confided in friends at the factory last week that she and the chief had been married for a month and that the ceremony was performed out of town. She had been keeping the matter a secret, it was said, because relatives might object to her marrying an Indian, and a ball player.

"When Neptune was sent to Gloucester Bay, N. S., by Fishery last week, Miss McEnroe also left the city, her friends say, to join her chief in his new wigwam.

"Miss McEnroe is a blonde and pretty. The chief was wont to escort her to the picture houses and circuses when they came to Lynn.

"According to friends, Miss McEnroe and the Indian will live in Old Town, Me., as soon as the little chief finishes the baseball season.

"Miss McEnroe severed her connection with the Allen, Foster & Willets Co. last week, saying that she was going to Canada to see her chief."

STATEMENT BY MAYOR RE WATER STREET AND THE CAR TRACKS

It Does Not Cover the Case—The Text of the Resolution on the Matter

In reference to criticism of the common council on the Water street track matter, His Worship Mayor Prink said this morning:

"As far as Commissioner Schofield's resolution re Water street is concerned, the matter was brought up in the regular session by the open common council and reduced to writing. Reporters of the Telegraph and the Standard were both there and yet the text of the resolution has never been submitted to the public, neither has the press taken it down, and perhaps it would be well that the resolution itself be published in the press so that everybody may know just what occurred.

"The door was wide open with reporters present, and if the press do not take the opportunity offered, it is hardly worth while to scold the common council."

This is the resolution—
Moved by Alderman Schofield:
"Resolved that the Intercolonial Railway be granted permission to place two tracks on Water street on the following conditions:

That the exact location of the rails be determined by the city engineer and a plan of the same submitted and approved by the common council.

That the railway company pave with granite blocks the whole area occupied by the tracks, together with eighteen inches beyond the outside rail on either side and pay all the expenses of repairs to and maintenance of the same.

That the permission is not to be regarded as a vested right, but that if the common council shall at any time determine that the rails must be either shifted to another location or entirely removed, the council may have such work done at its own expense after one month's notice has been given the railway."

Questions being taken, the motion carried, Commissioner McLellan dissenting.
