SON CO'S MANUAL TRAINING MEDALS AWARDED TODAY

Big Crowd Expected at the Exhibition This Afternoon-- Several Good Attractions Provided--Judging of Horses Will be Completed--The Dog Show Ended.

The management are expecting another large crowd at the Exhibition grounds today, as there are special excursion rates from all points between Halifax and St. John, and as far as Lewis, and from all points north of Moncton, and on the P. E. I. Railway. The weather is ideal, being the finest yet since the Fair opened. If today's total equals Friday of 1901, and the fine weather continues over tomorrow, the aggregate attendance of the Exhibition two years ago should be exceeded.

W. W. Black, of Amherst, who takes the lion's share of prizes in live stock, had the only entry in the class for draught horses, which was judged this morning. His grade Clydesdales were awarded first prize, without having been called upon to show how great a load they were capable of moving.

MANUAL TRAINING EXHIBITS. Collective exhibits from schools--1st, diploma and silver medal, Woodstock; 2nd, diploma and bronze medal, St. Stephen-Milltown; 3rd, diploma, Campbellton; special award, St. Andrews.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Sept. 7.—The unusual sight of a steady run on a chartered bank was seen here yesterday when all day long crowds passed to the wicket of the Sovereign Bank.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 7.—The French shore question has been revived under a new aspect. A French vessel within territorial waters on the northeast coast having complained that people on the coast destroyed her fish, British and French warships investigated and the Imperial government invited the colony also to investigate and punish its subjects if found to be in wrong.

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 7.—The last act in the case of Gallagher vs. the City of Moncton, took place this morning when mutual releases between the two parties were exchanged. The cases had been standing for many years and were recently settled by arbitration.

Continuous advertising has tremendous accumulative forces.—Cyrus Curtis.

The O'Brien case which was to have come up at the county court this morning, was adjourned until 2:30 this afternoon.

GARNEGIE TALKS ON THE NEW SPELLING

Roosevelt's Action Supported in Britain. He Says the First Lot of Words Selected Were Agreed Upon by the London and American Societies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A London despatch to the Times says that Andrew Carnegie in a letter to the London Times refers to his defense of President Roosevelt's spelling order and his advocacy of spelling reform.

There needs that only one step be taken by your government to continue this reform, namely, the appointment of such a committee as advised from the larger list for immediate adoption. If such a commission were appointed I doubt not that it would endorse the selection made for the president by the American board and the language would be one.

It is never to be forgotten that amended spellings can only be submitted for general acceptance, it is the people who decide what is to be adopted. If such a commission were appointed I doubt not that it would endorse the selection made for the president by the American board and the language would be one.

COLLINS CASE GOES TO THE JURY THIS AFTERNOON

HOW A FRENCH GROGGER LOST IN THE GAME OF LOVE. His Bride's Mother Wanted Him, His Intended Ran Away, and He Hanged Himself.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—A drama could be made out of the story of a grocer's marriage at Grenoble. He was seven and twenty, ambitious and pleasing.

But the discarded lady of forty was nursing a horrible revenge. The bride refused to change her dress, the mother went with her, and told her the whole story, her mother had been her husband's mistress. Tears and fury were forgotten. When the groom went to find her she had fled, and the best man was missing with her. She had lost no time in seeking consolation.

KING EDWARD ANNOYED BY QUIRIOUS CROWDS

Is Not Permitted to Enjoy in Peace a Daily Walk in Marlborough.

MARLBOROUGH, Sept. 7.—In answer to the story that the king made an appointment to meet an American girl who wrote him that she was about to marry a dear friend of his, it is stated that no incident of the sort described ever occurred. The king, while here, has not broken through the rules of royal etiquette, even with Americans.

One morning especially may be mentioned when his majesty, accompanied by Sir Stanley Clarke and Major Forsyth, walked from the Hotel Welmar at half-past seven to drink a glass of Kreuzbrunnen water. A large crowd was waiting outside, and began to follow his majesty, almost treading on his heels.

The king, wishing to escape their attentions, sought refuge on a favorite bench in a bay off the promenade overlooking the public gardens, but this only had the effect of increasing the size of the mob. The requests of the officials that they should not subject the king to unpleasant attentions fell on deaf ears, and finally his majesty was obliged to curtail his morning walk and return to the hotel.

LABOR PARTY STILL PILING UP THE DEMANDS

Wants Nationalization of Everything Worth Speaking About in Britain.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 7.—Without any discussion the trades union congress, at its session today unanimously instructed the labor members of parliament to introduce a bill providing for the nationalization of all railways, canals and mines in the United Kingdom.

MANAGEMENT WAS WISER THAN HE

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Today was American day at the Toronto fair and as a compliment to the visitors, numbering several thousand, the United States flag was hoisted on the administration building. While the flag was being raised an excited individual rushed up and protested and did his best to prevent the flag going up. Falling in this he obliged an energetic protest with the management but to no avail.

What's the annual subscription to your paper? "Fifteen shillings." "Is it intended for any particular class of readers?" "Yes, it's for those who have fifteen shillings."

One Witness Was Heard This Morning, Followed by Addresses of Counsel and the Charge by Justice Landry.

The Supreme Court resumed its session at 10 o'clock this morning. His Honor Judge Landry presiding.

The case of Collins vs. City of St. John was continued. The last witness was examined. He was James Stackhouse, a deck hand on the ferry boat at the time Mrs. Collins received her injuries. He said that on the night in question at about 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Collins crossed on the ferry. When the boat reached the east side floats he lowered the guard chain and placed the gang plank in position. It was a very dark night, and he saw Mrs. Collins fall between the boat and the wharf.

Mr. Skinner also spoke of the evidence of Mrs. Lunney and Berrymann. The coroner had held a post-mortem after and found that Mrs. Collins had a very weak heart. She might have died any time though the shock occasioned by the fall might have hastened her death. Mr. Collins was asking for damages on the ground that by Mrs. Collins' death he was losing assistance at his home, and would have to pay a servant to keep his house. If Mrs. Collins had lived he would have been obliged to pay for medicine and other things needed by the deceased lady in her delicate state.

H. O. McInerney, counsel for Mr. Collins, stated that his client was bringing an action against the City of St. John for the amount of $5,000. The money was asked for because of the loss of Mrs. Collins' wife, who he stated was injured sustained on the ferry boat in February last. Although Mrs. Collins was in delicate health she would probably have lived for ten years, if she received proper treatment. The witness, Stackhouse, said that he was doing two points on the night of the accident. She boarded the ferry Ocanogard, and when at the east side floats started to go ashore with the other passengers. She did not walk on the gang plank, probably because it was crowded. She fell into an open space between the wharf and the boat. She was a fleshy woman, fifty-five years of age, and could easily have received fatal injuries by the fall.

Mr. McInerney thought there could be no doubt in the minds of the jurors but that Mrs. Collins received her injuries through negligence on the part of the City of St. John. His Honor Judge Landry charged the jury at 2:30 this afternoon.
