

THE TERROR KING—DEATH!

WHO CAN STAY HIS SCATTERING FENCE?

I come! I come!—tis in vain ye flee,
For a monster—indeed ye may well fear me—
I am one with whom ye may not play;
Play with me, and ye shall find me strong;

Ye "King of terrors"—and terror of Kings;

And the dread and awe of all sinners things;

When o'er I seize, so firm is my grasp,

No mortal my hand can unloose.

If ye dare to question my Sovereign power

O'er all that live—from the germ to the flower,

Come with me and mark—what that fond mother's

The heartful infant just sinking to rest—

Play its endearments and sweet cherub smile,

Her fond young heart of its pains begone;

I touch it—and snap life's tender thread—

In a moment—its number'd by the devil!

It's my ruthless wretch—and with no bring

A horde of evils for life's young spring—

I sweep diseases, and terror, and dismay,

O'er the fair through at their school and their play—

The book and the doll are quick laid aside,

The young things my love can't hide,

But shun from my presence and give up the ghost.

Take a young bud ripe by the biting frost.

See that blooming maiden, just sweet sixteen,

With bright sparkling eye—her enchanting mein—

Fall of joyous hope full of year to come—

The dolls of her innocent youth sit by her home—

A cowering crew scatter'd about her—

Her life teemed with pleasure—ah! look at her now!

I break o'er her beauty—she sinks in my arms,

And the pale winding sheet hides her envy'd charms.

To the midnight revel—the ball—the play—

I go in disgrace—and with a sad face!

At the festive board unseemly I preside—

The sparkle of glee I'm sure to dispise!

The votaries of pleasure don't dream I'm now

Till I pass a stop to their gay career:

Their lavish passions no longer burn;

And the friends that lov'd them weep over their urns!

See the friend—the master—the prop of the house!

The fond, circumspect—the tender spouse—

The many a mother, wife, and girl—so loving,

So loving! so lovely!—with them stay;

They liv'd for each other—ah, home sweet home!

So sweet, they thought not of a world to come—

But life teemed with pleasure—ah! look at her now!

I'm a waster—a spoiler—my fondest boast,

My fond, fond, fond—my fond, fond boast;

The fond, circumspect—the tender spouse—

The many a mother, wife, and girl—so loving,

So loving! so lovely!—with them stay;

They liv'd for each other—ah, home sweet home!

So sweet, they thought not of a world to come—

But life teemed with pleasure—ah! look at her now!

I change their note into mony and woe;

My aim is unerring! the head is laid low!

I'm a waster—a spoiler—my fondest boast,

My fond, fond, fond—my fond, fond boast;

The fond, circumspect—the tender spouse—

The many a mother, wife, and girl—so loving,

So loving! so lovely!—with them stay;

They liv'd for each other—ah, home sweet home!

So sweet, they thought not of a world to come—

But life teemed with pleasure—ah! look at her now!

While the triumph of Faith gilds his dying hour,

Put me from the woes of a world such as this!

CHURCH OF ENGLAND YOUNG MEN'S SOCIETY OF ST. JOHN.

The Annual Meeting of the Church of England Young Men's Society of this City was held at the Mechanics' Institute on the evening of Tuesday last, when the Rev. Mr. Parker, and the President, Dr. Baren Holstot, presided.

Mr. Parker, in his address, pointing out some of the tendencies of the age, the origin of similar Societies in the 16th century, the advantages of them to young men, their parents, employers, and to society at large; the duty of all to support and encourage them; and pointing out especially the one now formed amongst us, and the claims it possesses.

The following resolutions, after being duly supported by the movers and seconders, having been put to the meeting, were unanimously agreed to:

Moved by Dr. Baren Holstot: seconded by Mr. J. W. Lawrence—

"Resolved—that the Church of England Young Men's Society of Saint John, is in the opinion of this meeting, worthy of the encouragement and support of the public; and that a Committee be appointed to collect funds for the benefit of the Society, and to have a general and highly conducing hold to their objects and spiritual improvement of the young men throughout the diocese, and to the advancement of the interests of the Church in this Province."

Moved by the Rev. John Armstrong; and on being seconded—

"Resolved—that the remarkable extension of the Hellenic Kingdom in the world at the present time, has induced the members of the Church Missionary and other Societies, call for the addressing of all Christians, and that this meeting, with pleasure, will assure that it is one of the objects of the Church of England Young Men's Society to point out the importance of the spread of the gospel throughout the world, and to contribute thereto."

A hymn was sung with cheering effect by the assembly, after which the Rev. Mr. Gray pronounced a blessing, when the meeting (having first subscribed £9 10s.) separated.

CARLTON DORCAS SOCIETY AND LADIES' BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

At a Meeting of Ladies, at the residence of Mrs. Anne Cuthbertson, it was proposed by Mrs. Anne Cuthbertson, and seconded by Mrs. Anne Cuthbertson, that a Ladies' Association, connected with the several religious denominations of Carlisle, should be formed, for the purpose of inquiring into the necessities of the indigent poor, and supplying their wants.

With these Ladies, it was referred to Mrs. J. E. James, and resolved that the Ladies of Carlisle should be apprised of this preliminary meeting, and called upon to unite their benevolent efforts in the cause. Accordingly, a meeting was convened at the residence of Dr. E. Jewett, Esq.; when a series of resolutions were adopted, and Ladies engaged to fill the office, as follows:—

EXHIBITION OF A CONFIDENTIAL ARTICLE, AFTER

FIVE YEARS' SUSPENSE.

The following Testimonial has been sent to Professor

John Shaw Leslie, and K. R. B. R. B. Marshall, Esq.

Doctors of Medicine, Liverpool.

Sir.—Your Pills have been the means, under your direction, of a perfect recovery of my health after five years of severe suffering from a disease of

Asthma, frequently of several weeks duration, attended with a violent cough, and continual spitting of phlegm intermixed with blood.

This so shook my constitution that I was unable for any time to walk, or even to stand.

At length I had to give up my business,

and leave Liverpool.

After a long course of experiments, and

various medical treatments,

nothing could be done but to give up the use of opium.

At length I had to give up my business,

and leave Liverpool.
