First woke his lyre and shod his parting fears; Land where a knox, bold as the Eagle's flight, Dispell'd the shales of superstitions night; Land of a Reman, Faurusses and Marryss urns, Land of a Reman, Faurusses and BUENS.

Thou muse of Coila o'er my numbers beam, Lend strength and music to my jading thome; Sing of the rastic Bard whose mighty soul Div d into space and, sour d beyond the pole, Swept like a comic through the worlds shove To hold communion with his highland love. Hall glorious Burns; this night the rongs of earth five to the past the century of thy birth, Still, mighty spirit! still does hummakind Weep o'er the past the century of thy birth, Still, mighty spirit! still does hummakind Weep o'er the patting of the living mind; Mar's "influmanity mikes thousand's mourn;" And still we joy to find where er we turn Mar's "influmanity mikes thousand's mourn;" And still we joy to find where fer we turn Mar's "influmanity with century pride." The "Big hy Bibles," yet "the Cottar's pride." The modest Daisy yet bedecks the field Where lies the wreek of Mousto's rain'd beild; Thy "Bunny Doon" still pours its floods along, Sweet as the echo of its Ministel's song; And winding Avy yet layes its pebbled shore are as when Mary tool its banks of yore. Beloved Bard! To every clime and laind, Like storming's beams thy glorious strains expand; Jonn the friggin," Where "restless rafters" squeek'd "about the riggin," This night are met fl. soughout the realms of earth Ingly in the stage which she takes such delight in the stignt shade and drop their tingle styring.

And near the scenes where honest "Tam o' Shunter"

And near the scenes where honest "Tam o' Shunter"

This night are met, instead of troops o' witches, The wale of men for learning, wit and riches, Sweet be their joys till chanticer shall craw to honourd ghim, "The Bard that's noo swa" beparted shade are yet the side of time.

It sweet the their joys till chanticer shall craw to honourd ghim, "The Bard that's noo swa" beparted shade are yet the side of time.

It sweet be their joys till chanticer shall craw to honourd ghim, "The Bard that's noo swa" beparted shade are yet the side of time.

It sweet the their joys till chanticer shall craw to be such the sweet another centuary from our clime, these millions now clare with festive mirth. But who, like thee, amids their countless throng, shall stains are or at skeld from their purent earth; But who, like thee, amids their countless throng. Inght be the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, And sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the turf which hope thy hallow'd breast, and sweet the dreams of the public favour.

WILLIAM H. LESTER,
GROUER init Provision DEALER, conving to some link needed in the evidence.

Public opinion was against him, and he acon after left and took up his residence in Alta County. It is recently telated of him that, after having experienced the most terrible agony for a everal months, he procured a barrel of whiskey and excluded himself from the society of man, where solitary and alone he plunged himself into the deepest and most thotough state of introxication, drinking, it is said, a quart of the fire-water at a draught. In this ghowny and miserable condition, he lingured through the lopse of two or three months, and finally died in the most intense mortal agony, calling upon the bystanders to take away from the bedsire the victim who had so long haunted in more years and agonized his dreams.
